An attractive warm-hearted popular Woman because of her optimism and cheerfulness; with an imaginative mind, a sense of beauty, love of music and all beautiful things, a natural desire to please and attract, and a big capacity for happiness and affection. Very feminine in her love of pretty trifles, and no one knows better what a difference clothes can make to a woman.

The above is a Delineation of a reader's character from her handwriting. See others in the Weekly Irish Times

IRELAND'S AGRICULTURAL TRADE.

SOME DANGER SIGNALS.

CERTAIN revised figures released by the the Department of Industry and Commerce will give all who are accustomed to consider the economic outlook of the Irish Free State cause for serious concern. In particular, they should be considered by all producers and exporters of live stock and farm produce. The exports of the State in the twelve months ending April 30, 1932 (the last to which these figures relate) were under £51 millions, as against nearly £67¼ millions for the same months of 1924-5, the earliest shown. For these same yearly periods the exports plus re-exports were £35 millions and £50 millions approximately. The total trade in each year was £117,183,087 and £85,850,577, and the adverse balances £15,846,013 and £17,552,397, respectively. Our imports, therefore, fell by approximately 25 per cent., our exports and re-exports (together) by nearly 30 per cent., our total trade by about 30 per cent., and our adverse balance was also a reduced figure, but only by about 10 per cent. The first of these twelve-month periods was the highest of the series; the last the lowest. But a comparison of these years does not tell the whole tale. The general trend is downwards; the adverse balance continuous, and the figures for 1931-32 serious. We must not, of course, take these happenings too tragically, nor lose confidence in the economic future of the country. Based, as this is, on agriculture, in some ways the most resilient of industries, we need not allow alarms regarding the future to paralyse our efforts.

Taking Stock of Our Live-Stock.

It would, however, be unwise not to realise that there are danger signals which Irish trade, industry and agriculture will ignore at their peril. There would be the less danger if other countries were not also endangered, and chiefly those with which we must continue to have the most intimate and continuous financial relations. Only about 3 per cent. of our exports and re-exports were taken by countries outside Northern Ireland or Great Britain in the first four months of the current year, although we sent to "other countries" (than these) nearly a fifth of our total exports, so that the "adverse balance" is swollen out of proportion by our trading with the more distant countries. Not, of course, that the adverse balance is, under all circumstances, an evidence of adversity. It is merely a single, but important, figure to take account of. What really matters at present is the state of our agricultural production and export. The figures for export are the signals to which attention should now be directed by every public worker. Let us first consider the live-stock situation. There was a reduction in April, 1932, both in quantity and value of every kind of cattle, in sheep, lambs, pigs, poultry and "other live animals"—and the nominal increase in horses did not prevent a decrease in their total value. The aggregate drop in value for all exported live animals was over £300,000. If we take the full period covered—four months—the results are almost proportional. A very slight increase for store cattle and calves is more than offset by a drop in price for fat cattle and pigs. The net result is a decline of nearly £900,000. This, if continued, would mean over £2,500,000 for the calendar year. When we examine the position for foods of animal origin—mainly an agricultural export—we discover a drop of over half a million, to which beef, veal, bacon, hams, pork and other pig products, dairy products, eggs (very markedly) and nearly all other foods in this classification contribute. Our total exports are down by nearly £900,000, but alcoholic drinks cover not far from half of this. These classifications together are, roughly, five-sixths of our export. Omitting the alcohols, they are approximately three-fourths of it, virtually all agricultural in origin.

A Dwindling Balance-Sheet.

Are these four months typical of a definite trend? Without any prophetic speculations we can see that they point that way. The very valuable "Trade and Shipping Statistics, 1930," published last week by the same Ministry—which every publicist should obtain; they are cheap at half a crown—illustrate this. Before the middle of 1930 the curve of our exports, previously ascending, began a steady descent, from above £47,000,000 to under £37,000,000. Our imports also dwindled, and, therefore, our external trade as a whole; for imports and exports are complementary. We cannot increase one alone. Our exports suffered a reduction since 1924 (the first year cited) of £33,000,000. The total adverse balance for the series of years was about £133,000,000 or nearly £17,000,000 per annum. How far our "hidden" exports, financial, insurance, freights, etc., would permit an indefinite continuance of this position we cannot here consider, but there is no doubt that, save on one or two hypotheses, a dwindling international business demands serious examination. It may be contended that so long as the differences from year to year are rather a question of money than of quantity, the situation is less serious than it seems, and it is true that when the monetary position is adjusted by calculating the trade exports in terms of 1930 prices, the results are more favourable. The exports thus measured fell from nearly £46,000,000 in 1924, through £44,500,000 in 1930, to £40,000,000 last year. But our present rate of export, if extended throughout the year, and "corrected" to harmonise with 1930 prices, would only give an export of about £31,000,000, against £44,500,000 for 1930. Left "uncooked," or, shall we say, raw, the figure would be near £28,000,000 to £29,000,000, against the 1931 figure of £36,276,000. We need scarcely add that farmers, when considering whether they will export more store cattle than last year, raise more or fewer pigs, add to their fat stock, or seek some other means of making their farms pay, do not laboriously work out the sterling equivalents of 1930 in terms of the £ s. d. of 1932, whose purchasing power changes daily. But, put in any way, our continuing decrease in exports is most significant; that of our imports equally so; that of the total trade, whether in quantity or value, startling. It would be rash to assume that total output is not also reduced.

Should Ireland Maroon Herself?

There is only one other way (besides considering the figures in relationship to some other year, rather arbitrarily selected, like 1930) in which we can hope to regard our national trade with equanimity: that is, if we believe the solution of the world's farm problems, from which our own are not really separable, can be found by an increasing concentration on raising farm produce exclusively for home consumption. That means further reduction in export sales and import purchases. This policy runs contrary to the most intelligent expert opinion. In no book we have seen has the case for the recognition of a wide view been expressed with such cogent conviction as in Sir Arthur Salter's just issued and universally eulogised "Recovery," and it is the more relevant to our own outlook because no suspicion of an Irish propoganda attaches to it. On a dwindling external trade there is, he says, only a choice between "the undiminished total of world trade or the complete sacrifice of a large part of the total, with great loss to all concerned," and so seriously does he regard the near future that he gives the world three choices: "collective leadership, collective control, or chaos," from no one of which does he believe we can wholly escape. We have met no serious argument to controvert this. In our view, Ireland is, if anything, more rather than less favourably circumstanced than other countries; thus we should avoid the despair of the panic-stricken. But in a world crisis no small country can escape the reactions of its larger neighbours, nor prosper in their adversity. The Irish farmer has a larger problem to solve than whether he will put more or less of his money into live stock. He has to decide whether he is going to reduce his standard of living, and through innumerable tariffs, to maroon himself on a deserted, because impregnably "protected" island, from which he cuts off external competition and supplies, or whether he will consult the mutual interests of others besides himself.

THE WORK OF THE "OFF" SEASON.

MANY IMPORTANT TASKS TO HAND.

THOUGH to the casual observer this may appear the "off" season, it is a time used by the experienced poultry-keeper to perform some important tasks. Everything has to be straightened out after the hatching season, and a general "stocktaking," as it were, carried out. With this in mind we have been hard at work during the last few weeks, and expect to be fully occupied with a variety of things until the end of the month.

The Incubator.

One thing that shrieks to be done after every hatch, but, alas, is too often neglected, with consequent loss, is the thorough fumigation of the incubator. After a trial of many preparations, we have found that the best and easiest method is with formaldehyde. First the incubator gets a thorough washing and scrubbing. While the interior of the machine is still moist and with a temperature over 65 degrees a vessel is inserted containing 1 oz. permanganate of potash crystals over which 2 ozs. formalin has just been poured. (It is important to insert the vessel immediately on adding the formalin.) The machine is then sealed up and left for at least five hours. In cases where it is not required again for a season it may be left overnight. In all cases, however, it must be well aired before being put in use. When storing incubators, each should have all its parts attached, or the movable articles, like lamp-chimneys, thermometers, etc., wrapped in paper and laid inside. This will save a lot of confusion when next required.

Breaking-up the Breeding Pens.

This is another matter that calls for immediate attention, and we are on the point of saying farewell to several of our old feathered friends and to transfer the remainder to fresh quarters. After all, it is generally stipulated that birds are to be confined in the breeding pens "only for a few months," and often those pens are but temporary make-shifts. It is cruel of us, then, to retain the flocks therein one day longer than is necessary, and, furthermore, it is absolutely essential that the pens have a complete rest for several months. If we persist in keeping the same confined spaces occupied all the summer and use them again next season without a break, well, then, we can only blame ourselves when hatching and rearing troubles crowd upon us.

This is the ideal time to sort out the birds, since the loss of a few eggs through discarding the culls makes little difference. The birds that are to be retained for another season are shifted into other pens or put out in arks on free range. The discards go to market, where we expect them to fetch better prices than if kept until glutted with moulters. Of course, it will scarcely be possible for extensive breeders to rest all the pens for a long spell each season, but those that get the shortest rest can be made up last and get the long turn next season.

Clean Rearing Ground.

Here is another urgent task. The moment the last batch of chickens is removed from the rearing ground, which in all probability has been in use since last December, it must have a special clean-up. It stands to reason that we cannot rear healthy chickens on the ground that has been intensively occupied by flock upon flock of young birds unless we give it the proper treatment before next season. A common mistake made is that of supposing that green grass means a fresh, clean ground. Very often the growth but hides impurities.

The clear-up should begin by collecting all odds and ends, such as troughs, fountains, bits of wire, sticks, etc., and removing them elsewhere. Then comes the formidable task of overhauling each house separately; each must be thoroughly cleaned, disinfected, lime-washed inside, and tarred or treated with wood preservative on the exterior. Hovers, foster-mothers and any other equipment must be, of course, included in the programme. Then the small troughs and fountains which have been collected should be treated with a disinfectant, and afterwards stored in their respective houses, ready for next year. This much finished, we may bar the doors with a sigh of satisfaction, and next tackle the land itself. The first step is to cut off and clear away all long grass and herbage; then we may decide to dig up the whole plot, if it seems to require it, or if it is rather on the small side. Then a dressing of basic slag or lime is applied according to particular needs. A digging may not be necessary, unless where outbreaks of disease have occurred, so that when the grass is removed the dressing may be applied direct. For all general purposes basic slag seems the most satisfactory. This treatment and the ensuing rest will enable the rearing-ground to become quite fresh and sweet, and to thoroughly absorb the accumulations of droppings. Thus it will be in fine condition when our next season's chicks appear.

Dispose of the Cockerels.

In order to provide sufficient accommodation for growing stocks we have to keep our eyes open for non-producers, and get rid of them, so that they will not occupy valuable space. Cockerels may be now regarded as surplus stock, since they have only a limited market as breeders. Their only use is as table birds, and, therefore, they should be cleared as soon as they are saleable—that is, in size and condition to fetch reasonable prices. It is uneconomical to keep them on in the hope of getting big prices for them as breeders, since this side of the business is restricted to specialists. Likewise, the adult males that have passed their span of usefulness should be got out of the way, since keeping them is only a dead-loss.

WYANDOTTE.

SOME ENGLISH MILK-PRODUCERS.

THE importance of milk consistency in dairy cattle is the main feature of the statistical information appearing in the British Ministry of Agriculture's newly-issued register of dairy cattle. This publication, now entirely confined to the printing of milk records of cattle with the best three consecutive years' yields likewise demonstrates that consistency in breeding is of outstanding importance.

Altogether a total of 465 certificates of merit have been awarded—this number being nearly double that of a year ago. Nearly a fifth of these have gone to the red poll breed which stands second in comparison with all other breeds. Shorthorns occupy the first place, which for several years has been held by the red polls. With two exceptions the red polls comprise only pedigree animals, whereas nearly a quarter of the certificates awarded to the leading breed are for non-pedigree cows.

The tabulated figures go to discount the contention of some dairy experts that the average cow lives to breed only two calves. The average age of the 465 merit certificate winners is 7.7 years; whereas the age of the red poll cows, whichrange up to 13 and 14 years, is 8¼ years.

The register is headed by the British Friesian cow, Tregellas Petty Sing, that headed Cornwall for two years in succession, and produced 54,481lb. of milk in the thirty-six consecutive months under review. She is owned by Mrs. S. D. Stocker, of Tregallas, Grampound road, Cornwall. Three cows gave over 50,000lb. of milk, the remaining two being of shorthorns. Altogether 32 cows, including 15 British Friesians and 10 shorthorns, produced over 40,000lb. of milk in the three years.

COLOUR IN ANGUS CROSS-BREDS.

STOCK-BREEDERS NOT TO BLAME.

DISCUSSING the question of colour in cross-bred calves by Aberdeen-Angus sires, a writer in the latest issue of the Aberdeen Angus Review points out that, as a general rule, when an Aberdeen-Angus bull is used for crossing purposes, a very large proportion of the calves, even where the dams are of a horned type and of other colours, will be black and hornless. That proportion has, as the result of practical experience, been stated at anything from 75 up to even 100 per cent. The crossing breeder is disappointed when he finds that some of his calves by an Aberdeen-Angus sire are not black and hornless, and he sometimes jumps to the conclusion that there must be a flaw in the breeding of his bull. He can be reassured on this point, for no animal can be registered in the Herd Book that does not possess the necessary qualifications, and the qualifications are the same for all animals. If, therefore, an animal be registered in the Herd Book it must be accepted that his pedigree is as therein stated, and here the legal responsibility of the breeder ceases, unless he can be proved guilty of deliberate fraud by substitution or misrepresentation in returning the particulars of the pedigree to the breed society.

Why Breeders Should Co-operate.

Professor James Wilson, for many years connected with the College of Science, Dublin, and a noted authority on these matters, states that:—

"By co-operating with each other, the Aberdeen-Angus breeders and the breeders of cross-bred cattle by Aberdeen-Angus bulls could do something which would be serviceable to both. The Aberdeen-Angus breeders have produced an animal which, for crossing purposes, is not excelled. It grows quickly, fattens readily, carries a carcase of fine beef, and is quiet and hardy. And these characters it hands on to its progeny with remarkable certainty. Unfortunately, an occasional animal in the breed fails to hand on its black colour to all its progeny, and the owner of the progeny, though he has got everything else necessary for the production of a carcase of good beef, is disappointed. For this, neither the earlier nor the later Aberdeen-Angus breeders are to blame. They could not have known till recently that their stock, which may have been bred from black parents only for a century, might contain a few which are not 'pure-breeding' for their black colour, though absolutely pure-bred according to Herd Book registration requirements. Now, however, if Aberdeen-Angus breeders were informed by crossing breeders when their stock do not breed true for their colour, and if they acted upon the information received, they would be on the way to having a breed consisting of 'true-breeding' blacks only, which would throw no more red calves."

Breeders Not Legally Responsible.

We very cordially commend these observations of Professor Wilson's to the earnest study of breeders, says the writer of the article in the "Review." Though the legal responsibilities of breeders must be held to cease when Herd Book regulations are complied with, science has shown in these later times how the risks of undesired results as regards colours may be eliminated. Co-operation in this matter between pedigree breeders and breeders of cross-bred cattle should be systematically taken up. The idea that a black animal, pure-bred and descended from others entered in the Herd Book, must, when mated with other colours, leave black calves only, and that an animal which leaves red calves when used for crossing purposes is not pure-bred according to Herd Book standards is entirely wrong. No law of the land can in equity hold any pedigree breeder responsible in such a case, but breeders should recognise that the only way to get rid of the trouble of these "off-coloured" cross-bred calves is to take advantage of the more recent discoveries of science, and adopt all possible means to eliminate from their herd such animals as by observation they discover to carry this latent factor for red, or, in other words, which are scientifically known as heterozygous.

WEANING THE LAMBS.

THE month of July marks the time on most farms for weaning the lambs, now from four to six months old, and pasturage for the purpose seems likely to continue plentiful. Mixed seeds grass, the aftermath of a good meadow, where the herbage includes plenty of white clover, or such crops as trifolium and sainfoin, all offer suitable food for the young animals, though to obtain the best results in the form of early maturity lambs must be made to fatten from birth.

While the ewes and lambs are running together, a little oilcake or meal given to the ewes causes them to yield more and probably richer milk, and if, so soon as the young lambs are capable of eating solid food, tempting feed is placed for them outside the folds in which their dams are enclosed, they will grow and fatten quickly.

Extra Food.

As the lambs get big, they naturally require more and more auxiliary food, especially after being weaned. At this period they should have about half a pound of cake each per day, the quantity being gradually increased to a pound if extra large sheep are required, or if the wethers are to be fattened off early. Half of the allowance may be given morning and evening, thus providing a foundation for other food. Crushed oats also constitute an excellent food, and peas are equally valuable. Given a mixture of these two, at the rate of 1-1½lb. each daily, young sheep on good pasture will fatten readily.

What To Do.

At weaning time, it is best to remove the lambs some distance away from the ewes, as they settle down better if out of sight and hearing of the dams. Being deprived of their mothers' milk, there should always be a sufficiency of food before the young animals, and a water supply always available in troughs placed in the field. The water supply needs to be replenished twice daily, or some lambs may get none, and will suffer before another day.

Ewes should be kept on a low diet for a few days after weaning the lambs, until their milk supply is exhausted. Cake or corn would only flush the milk, causing inconvenience to the sheep and trouble to the shepherd, as their udders, in some cases, would require daily relief by milking. A fortnight away from the lambs is sufficient for weaning purposes. After that time, lambs and ewes may run together again, though it is generally desirable to give the lambs a better diet than the ewes.

Early Lambs.

To the farmer possessing a flock of sheep, the results from lambing represents one of the most important items in his yearly balance sheet, and when good fat lambs can be obtained at the age of three-four months, they generally leave a satisfactory profit. Fattening for the butcher at 9-10 weeks is being managed on an increasing number of farms in the earliest districts. When this is possible, it means a quick turnover of money, which is just what the farmer wants nowadays.

Cork Summer Show

A View of the Ring.

AN UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS.

FROM OUR AGRICULTURAL CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Wednesday.

The Munster Agricultural Society was fortunate in the weather for the opening hours of its annual Summer Show and Industrial Exhibition, held in its well-planned premises near Blackrock, Cork, to-day. As a result, farmers who had the day free—it being a country holiday—attended in large numbers, and there was also a fair sprinkling of city folk and tourists.

Many of the latter, however, had not come prepared for a change in the weather, and when rain began to fall in the afternoon they made haste for shelter. Some crowded into the Industrial Hall, which is now such a feature of this important South of Ireland Show; others devoted attention to the educational exhibit provided by the Department of Agriculture and the Cork County Committee of Agriculture.

COSTLY WARBLE FLY.

Part of this exhibit consists of hides, warbled and otherwise, with a view to showing how a loss of £500,000 per annum could be saved to the country if stock-owners would take concerted action to eradicate the warble fly. This can only be done by applying a dressing of derris root; but it should be done by everyone if Irish hides are to become as perfect as the specimen shown here from Denmark.

The exhibit also includes a display which shows effectively the progress which has been made in the production of high-class laying stock. In 1925 a start was made with hatches for laying purposes, and in 1931 the experiment had developed to such an extent that there were 62 stations raising birds of proved value.

There were over a thousand entries in the live stock, poultry, butter and horticultural sections, and a similar number of industrial exhibits. The aggregate showed an increase on last year's total, although there were variations in some of the sections.

SECTIONS REVIEWED.

The section for horses, taken generally, was slightly under last year numerically, especially in the section for young horses. Hunters generally were a creditable lot, and included some of the best known show and cross-country movers.

Among the cattle one could not fail to be impressed with the excellence of the shorthorns, both in the ordinary and dairy cattle classes. Mr.. T. O'Sullivan figured prominently amongst the successful exhibitors with animals, which have been seen in competition, and were shown to advantage. Captain Clarke, President of the Society, also did well with his shorthorns. Herefords made a small show, as also did Aberdeen-Angus, but in point of quality they reached a high level. Kerries were good, and there was a fair entry of Friesians. Altogether cattle were much the same as a year ago in point of numbers.

In the sheep section there was nothing outstanding, and competition was somewhat limited, most of the entries being supplied by a few flockowners.

Poultry made a satisfactory display. There was also a useful show of butter.

The musical programme provided by the No. 2 Army Band "Besses of the Barn" Band was much enjoyed, and the general arrangements, under the direction of the Secretary, Mr. John Byrne, were excellent.

Many improvements have been made in the showyard and its approaches since last year, and these were favourably commented upon by patrons who make a point of going to the Cork Show every year.

A successful dog show was also held.

PURE-BRED SHORTHORNS.

Older Shorthorn Bulls (Five entries)—1, T. O'Sullivan, Crookstown—Goldie Cadet; 2, Eugene O'Hea, Kilbrittin, Co. Cork—Waterfall Bestman; 3, D. O'Connor, Constown Abbey—Broadhook's Diamond; reserved, E. McLysaght, Mallow—Castledawson Defender.

Yearling Shorthorn Heifers—1, Dr. Elizabeth Murphy, Ballycouroy—Goldhooks; 2, C. Cremin, Donoughmore—Cremona Queen 2nd; 3, T. O'Sullivan's Cloughduv Countess 5th.

Shorthorn Heifer Calves—1, D. O'Connor's Constown Butterfly 3rd.

REGISTERED DAIRY COWS.

Registered Shorthorn Dairy Cows—1, Capt. Clarke's Farran Waterloo Daisy; 2, E. J. Clarke's Broadhooks Lily 5th; 3, T. O'Sullivan's Cloughduv Broadhooks 4th.

Non-pedigree Dairy Shorthorn Cows—1, P. Beechiner, Clonakilty—Beauty; 2, ditto—Cullie; 3, T. J. Crowley, Bandon—Dolly; 4, O. F. Hartland, Croughtamore—Snowball.

Two or three year-old Dairy Shorthorns in milk, recognised progeny—1, T. O'Sullivan's Cloughduv Broadhooks 8th; 2, R. H. Roberts, Waterfall—Killycrean Lady; 3, C. Cremin's Cremona Fancy.

SHORTHORN HEIFERS.

Two-year-old Shorthorn Heifers, recognised progeny—1, T. O'Sullivan's Cloughduv Rowena 21st; 2, S. O'Carroll's Pansy Bloom; 3, E. J. Clarke's Aghamarta Princess 2nd.

Yearling Shorthorn Heifers, recognised progeny—1, C. Cremin's Cremona Queen 2nd; 2, T. O'Sullivan's Cloughduv Countess 5th; 3, ditto's Cloughduv Victoria 6th.

Non-pedigree Shorthorn Heifers, two years old, recognised progeny—1, T. J. Crowley's Bunny Queen; 2, M. Casey, Kildorrery—Cailin Deas; 3, A. H. Good, Cork—Deanrock Biddy.

Non-pedigree yearling Shorthorn Heifers, recognised progeny—1, Thomas Heelan, Inniscarra; 2, Miss Grace Montgomery, Mitchelstown—Fallte; 3, D. O'Connor's Constown Eveline.

Non-pedigree Shorthorn Heifer Calves, recognised progeny—1, D. O'Connor's Constown Bessie; 2, R. H. Roberts, Ballinhassig—Deanrock Ailsa; 3, A. H. Good's Deanrock Baroness.

Dairy Shorthorn Cow, confined to members of Irish Dairy Shorthorn Breeders' Association—1, T. O'Sullivan's Cloughduv Broadhooks 4th; 2, T. Heelan's Inniscarra Lady; 3, C. Crowley's Nellie.

One or two year-old Heifers, recognised progeny, confined to members of I.D.S.B.A., over £50 valuation—1, T. O'Sullivan's Cloughduv Rowena 21st; 2, A. H. Good's Deanrock Biddy; 3, T. O'Sullivan's Cloughduv Countess 5th.

Heifers, under £50 valuation—1, C. Cremin's Cremona Queen 2nd.

Hereford Bulls, 1 and reserve for Breed Medal, Mrs. M. Walsh, Rostellan—Sir Tanio; 2, T. Murphy, White's Cross—Allenstown Gambler; 3, F. Clarke, Roebestown—Allenstown Recruiter.

Cows or Heifers—1 and breed medal, Major Morgan, Carrigaline—Snowdrop Again; 2, Major Morgan's Rosa; 3, C. A. Webb's Pinafore.

Aberdeen Angus Bulls—1, E. J. Clarke's Picador of Carricraig; 2, John Bolster, Glanrea—Gort Laddie.

Angus Cows—1, R. C. Williams's Black Mell of Coolcower; 2, E. A. Clarke's Ellen of Carricraig.

Two-year-old Angus Heifers—1, R. C. Williams's Rummerelle 2nd of Coolcower; 2, ditto—Evestette of Coolcower.

Yearling Heifers—1, R. C. Williams's Jazzote; 2, ditto—Pianette 2nd of Coolcower; 3, Captain Clarke's Vivacity of Farran.

British Friesian Bulls—1, R. A. Smyth, Waterfall—Liskella Hero; 2, Hermitage Proud Boy.

Cows—1, Miss Gubbins's Hermitage Ducan Brenda; 2, ditto—Hermitage Strawberry; 3, C. J. Dennehy Ovens's Ashborough Nasturtium.

Heifers in Calf or in Milk—Miss Gubbins won all three prizes with Larkfield Impudence, Hermitage Loganberry, and Darkface, respectively.

Heifers, unserved—1, C. J. Dennehy's Rolleygroman Iris; 2, ditto's Snowdrop; 3, Miss Gubbins —Hermitage Lalla Countess.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

The Old Irish Flag : Mr. Lindsey Seymour ; Early Perseids. The Tata Emeralds ; The Geography of Ireland.

A Question Resolved.

A correspondent writes:—

I notice your perplexity about the old national flag of Ireland. According to the Athlone Pursuivant, with whom I had a correspondence many years ago, the flag is blue, with a gold harp with silver strings: it appears thus in the third quarter of the Royal Standard. The Arms of Ireland azure—a harp or stringed argent—were in existence before the Irish Office of Arms was constituted in 1552, and these arms were first incorporated in the Royal Standard by James I. The harp on the green ground was first used by Owen Roe O'Neill in 1642. According to the marshalling of the Irish flag in the Royal Standard, the harp, of which a female figure forms one outer edge—the harp occupies almost the whole ground—ought to face from the pole to the fly. When the Irish Brigade covered the retreat of the French Army in the battle of Ramillies in 1706 the flag of the Brigade was subsequently placed in the Irish convent of Ypres. Probably it perished in the Great War, but when in existence it was of a dark blue colour, and bore an Irish harp in reddish gold.

Romantic Emeralds.

The recent death of Sir Dorab Tata has drawn attention to the celebrated Tata stones. The history of the stones is interwoven with the romance of Indian trade with England; for Sir Dorab's grandfather, a wealthy Parsee merchant, was the first Indian to leave that country in order to further Anglo-Indian trade. Having disposed of his wares, he decided to visit the industrial centres of Britain, with the result that he returned to India with a varied assortment of Manchester and Birmingham goods. Some of the goods were of the best quality, but the larger portion were of the cheaper variety—"Brummagen" of the first order.

When he returned to his native country a visiting rajah, happening to look at his stock, took a fancy to some of the recent acquisitions. Thereupon the merchant made him a gift of an assorted collection of the goods. Some time afterwards one of the merchant's children was about to be married, and the rajah sent an elephant, loaded with valuables, as a bridal gift. Among the valuables were the emeralds which have since become world-famous.

An Echo of the Feis.

Mr. Lindsey Seymour, who has just been announced as the winner of the special prize of £15 offered in the composers' section of the Feis Ceoil for a composition for strings, is well known in this country, though he now lives in England. A native of Dublin, he was formerly organist of Lismore Cathedral and Saint Mary's Church, Newry. The prize-winning composition is entitled "A Child Dream," and is arranged for three violins, viola, 'cello and double bass. Mr. Seymour's friends, both in the North and the South, will be glad to hear of his success in his native city, and also to learn that a song composition of his was awarded the first prize at the Brighton Musical Festival last month.

Early Perseids.

Perseids begin to make their appearance in July. Though not in their greatest abundance, while meteors from contemporary radiants may be observed at times, their paths being marked by luminous tracks, there are a few minor showers of note in the early days of the month—one on the night of the 2nd, with a maximum between 2 and 3 a.m. on the 3rd. On the 4th there is a stronger shower, with a maximum at 11.45 p.m., and this is followed by a secondary maximum on the 5th in the hour preceding midnight. The 6th is also marked by a secondary maximum of considerable intensity near 10.30 p.m. One of the most remarkable meteor showers in the first half of the month falls on the 9th, and will be most suitably observed near midnight and during the early morning hours of the 10th. Meteors may also be looked for on the nights of the 11th and 12th during the hour preceding midnight. There is a good deal of meteoric activity on the nights of the 16th and 17th—particularly on the 16th—but moonlight will prove a serious impediment to observations. Later in the month other showers occur on the 22nd and 24th-25th; also on the 29th and 30th. On the 30th there is a strong maximum about 9.30 p.m.

The Geography of Ireland.

The other day I happened on an old volume, published in the early years of the nineteenth century, and called "The Geography of Ireland." Part of it was written in the form that used to be so popular long ago, in which a question was asked and an answer was given.

One of the questions asked simply: "What is remarkable of Ireland?" and the answer was very satisfactory: "That it contains no poisonous creature, and that it is improved in industry, arts and scenes, more than any nation under heaven these last twenty years, which has rendered it more healthy by the draining of boggs and cutting down woods, but also made it more polite, industrious and consequently rich."

Later on the writer speaks of a lake in County Meath that certainly might have been mentioned with the "remarkable things." "There are two mountains," he said. "Between them there is a lake which, 'tis said, divides the two counties of East and West Meath of a most wonderful property, to wit: From the middle of March to the beginning of September they take trout, pike and eel in it, being then full of water. And from the middle of September to the beginning of March it is entirely dry, with a good marshy bottom, wherein rabbits from the sides of the mountains burrow and are shot and taken all winter. There are certain chasms wherein the water slides off at these seasons, and returns again and furnishes the strange lough with fish."

Tact.

I have just heard of a good instance of tact, which may have occurred in Dublin last week for all that I know. A well-known clergyman was taking the lead at a social gathering where an impromptu concert was part of the programme. The reverend gentleman called upon a certain lady to sing. She protested strongly, saying that she could not sing, but after a while was prevailed upon to do so. No sooner had she started than it was painfully evident that her original statement was well founded, and after a few awful minutes the audience wondered what the good man would say when the item came to an end. He was, however, equal to the occasion, and, when the song was over, extended his hand to the lady, saying as he did so: "Ah, next time you tell us you can't sing we'll know whether to believe you or not."

Misses R. Fair, J. Crawford, A. Johnson, J. Garvey, P. Fitzgerald and M. Booth, who received the B.A. Degree at Trinity College, Dublin, yesterday.

UNIVERSITY OF DUBLIN.

CONFERRING OF DEGREES.

NOTABLE NAMES HONOURED.

PUBLIC ORATOR'S ADDRESSES.

THE Senate of Dublin University met in the Theatre of Trinity College yesterday for the purpose of conferring Honorary and other Degrees. The Caput consisted of the Vice-Chancellor (the Right Hon. Sir T. F. Molony, Bart.); the Provost, and the Senior Master Non-Regent (John Fraser, F.,T.C.D.).

The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, since Honorary Degrees were to be conferred on well-known and distinguished persons.

Among the members of the Senate present were:—The Rev. W. R. W. Roberts, S.F.,T.C.D. (Vice Provost); R. Russell, S.F.,T.C.D. (Bursar); M. W. J. Fry, S.F.,T.C.D. (Senior Lecturer); H. S. Macran, S.F.,T.C.D. (Senior Dean); J. G. Smyly, S.F.,T.C.D. (Librarian); W. Kennedy, F.,T.C.D. (Senior Proctor); W. A. Goligher, F.,T.C.D. (Registrar); E. H. Alton, F.,T.C.D.; Sir R. Tate, F.,T.C.D. (Public Orator); K. C. Bailey, F.,T.C.D. (Junior Dean); R. W. Ditchburn, F.,T.C.D. (Junior Proctor); H. W. Parke, F.,T.C.D.; A. J. McConnell, F.,T.C.D.; the Regius Professors the Rev. N. J. D. White, C. F. Bastable, Sir William Taylor and T. Gillman Moorhead, Professors A. F. Dixon, E. A. Werner, J. Bronté Gatenby, J. W. Bigger, and David Clark. Also A. F. Blood, W. Moore, and J. H. Shaw (Assistant Registrar).

THE HONORARY DEGREES.

Amidst loud and prolonged applause, the undermentioned recipients of Honorary Degrees were presented by the Public Orator in the customary Latin speeches, which are summaried as follows:—

M.A.I.

In presenting Professor Frank Sharman Rishworth for the Honorary Degree of M.A.I. the Public Orator drew attention to the close connection long subsisting between Dublin University and University (formerly Queen's) College, Galway, which had within the last fifty or sixty years sought two successive Presidents and many Professors among Dublin graduates, just as Trinity herself three hundred year ago chose five successive Provosts from Cambridge. This increased his pleasure in introducing to the University Professor Rishworth, now to be himself enrolled among her sons, eo maiore gaudio sororis nostrae alumnum primarium, virum in provincia sua clarum et nobilem, ad vos duco. After some years of railway work in England, and of lecturing on Civil Engineering at Cairo under the Egyptian Ministry of Education, Professor Rishworth returned to Galway, where he has occupied the Chair of Civil Engineering since 1910. When the Shannon Scheme was set on foot he was made superintendent of the works connected therewith on behalf of the Free State Government, and to him is largely due the credit for the rapidity and boldness with which the enterprise was prosecuted. The Public Orator concluded with the words: artifici tam efficaci agite gratias debitas plausu et clamore faustissimo rependamus.

Sc.D.

Dr. Ross Granville Harrison, Sterling Professor of Biology in Yale University, is in his own science one of the most famous discoverers and teachers of the New World. He was the first to show that it is possible to remove groups of individual cells from the living body, and grow them in the body juices in such a way that their behaviour can be watched under the microscope, materiae vivae particulas, in sanguine conservatas, crescere et mutationes inopinatas ante oculos nostros subire demonstravit. This growing of groups of cells in vitro is known as "tissue culture," and has constituted a great step forward in the study of living cells and consequently in the investigation of diseases. Dr. Harrison is also an eminent embryologist, and has employed the method just described to trace the development of embryonic cells into differentiated cells, while his transplantations of pieces taken from an embryo into another place, or even into a different embryo, have elucidated much that was previously obscure, multa prius obscura experimentis exquisitis illustravit. The Degree conferred on Dr. Harrison binds yet more closely together two Universities already united by their common association with the great name of Bishop Berkeley.

Dr. Thomas Martin Lowry is a Fellow of the Royal Society and Professor of Physical Chemistry in the University of Cambridge. He has done much valuable work on the measurement of the "rotatory dispersive power of organic compounds"; where, that is to say, certain substances rotate the plane of polarised light, and rotate it to an extent varying with the variations of the wave-lengths of different kinds of light, the information thus obtained is of great use in elucidating molecular structure, a subject to which Professor Lowry has devoted much attention, substantiarum organicarum auxilio molecularum structuram interiorem curiositate minuta perscrutatus est. He has also investigated the phenomenon of Dynamic Isomerism, which occurs when two substances are in equilibrium, the particles of each substance being made up of the same atoms, but these atoms being arranged in different ways in each case, plurima de corporibus illis investigavit quae primordiis ex eisdem composita tamen ob diversam atomorum distributionem proprietates diversas exhibent. During the European war Professor Lowry was a member of the Advisory Committee on Chemical Warfare, and became Director of Shell-filling in 1917. In 1920 he received the C.B.E. Trinity College extends to him a cordial welcome.

LITT.D.

Dr. Edward Kennard Rand, Professor of Latin at Harvard University, was himself educated there and at Munich, where he was a pupil of the celebrated Ludwig Traube. He is, perhaps, best known as a Palaeographer and Medievalist, and in both these departments of learning he is in the front rank, ob scientiam unicam librorum medii ut vocatur aevi praecipue hominum per ora fertur. He has recently been engaged on the script of Tours, on which he wrote a very learned monograph, followed by his magnificent book on the history of that scriptorium, quo in opere facile dubitare cogaris utrum eruditionem accuratam an stilum venustum an imagines phototypice expressas magis admirari debeas. This is probably Dr. Rand's best work so far. But in his Founders of the Middle Ages he transports us, like Horace's poet, qui modo me Thebis modo ponit Athenis, into the very life and surroundings of the times and persons he describes. The Public Orator further paid tribute to Dr. Rand's essays on Virgil, Catullus, and the Influence of Ovid, calling upon his audience to applaud a scholar who is doing much to keep Classics in the foreground in America.

Miss Edith Oenone Somerville, femina litterarum laude inter paucas illustris, is one of the greatest Irish novelists of all time. Most of her stories were written in collaboration with her cousin, Miss Violet Martin—a partnership which Miss Somerville believes that death itself has been unable to sever—and their names have become household words amongst Irish men and women all over the world. The most popular and widely known of Miss Somerville's books are probably the two volumes entitled respectively "The Experiences" and "The Further Experiences" of an Irish R.M. But her best work is perhaps "The Real Charlotte," famam summam ideo est adepta quod libro quantivis pretii Carolottae suae naturam nobis patefecit, a rare combination of grim realism and delightful humour, quod scriptori cuilibet non contingit, presenting to us characters so admirably drawn that they live in our memory as persons we have really known. Not only this island, but the greater Ireland beyond the seas, will, said the Public Orator, rejoice in the honour conferred upon Miss Somerville by the University of Dublin.

Mons. Joseph Vendryes is one of the greatest living authorities on comparative grammar, grammaticae comparativae e studiis laudem maximam feliciter aucupatus, and one of his most valuable and important works, Le Langage, treats of human speech in general, humani sermonis principiis indagandis libro pretiosissimo plurimum contulit. He is also one of the principal lights of Celtic learning in France, and has been for a long time chief editor of the Revue Celtique, which was the first periodical devoted to Celtic studies. Most of his work on Irish and the other Celtic languages has appeared in the Revue, but he has also written a book on Latin Loanwords in Irish, vocabula Hibernica quae a Latino fonte originem ducunt summa cum sollertia tractavit, as well as a grammar of the Old Irish tongue. M. Vendryes is well known and highly appreciated in Dublin. He shows, and has always shown, the greatest kindness to Trinity men resident in Paris, and the College greets him not as a stranger, but as an old and tried friend.

LL.D.

Dr. William Robert Scott, one of the most eminent of our own graduates, and a highly distinguished Fellow of the British Academy, has been Adam Smith Professor of Political Economy in the University of Glasgow since 1915. Born in the North of Ireland he passed his school days at St. Columba's College, and afterwards within our own walls became the most brilliant student of his year in Ethics and Logics. Subsequently, cum honorum splendidorum cursum in hisce aedibus implevisset, he devoted himself to the study of the science on which he is now so great an authority, and which his numerous and profound writings have done so much to expound. Dr. Scott's greatest merit unquestionably is that he has never been a mere theorist, but has placed his unrivalled knowledge unreservedly at the disposal of the Government, a rectoribus civitatis saepius est electus quem de maxumi momenti negotiis consilium adhibeant, and has applied it to the solution of many of the most pressing problems confronting Scotland at the present day, illud unice verum arbitratus, scientiam artis expertem sibi soli vivere, artem scientia nixam generi humano magno esse adiumento. To him we owe the applause we always accord to an illustrious fellow-countryman and former alumnus of our Alma Mater.

D.D.

Dr. Alexander Souter, a former Scholar of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, now Regius Professor of Humanity in the University of Aberdeen, is a writer of great eminence on Biblical and Patristic subjects, scriptorum Christianorum opera plurima eruditione insigni pertractavit. His translations of Tertullian are of unusual lucidity and elegance. His editions of the Pseudo-Augustini quaestiones Veteris et Novi Testamenti and of the commentaries generally called by the name of Ambrosiaster afford abundant evidence of a master hand. But much more important and comprehensive even than these is Dr. Souter's work on Pelagius' Expositions of thirteen Epistles of St. Paul, maius aliquid et laboriosius aggressus, Pelagi Expositiones in tredecim Beati Pauli epistulas diligentia infinita edidit, prolegomenis emplissimis explicavit, apparatu critico tam pleno instruxit ut textum fundamentis firmis tandem constabiliverit. The Public Orator, as one who spent much of his time in the endeavour to write correct Latin, personally thanked Dr. Souter for his revision of Ogilvie's Horae Latinae, and expressed the universal approbation with which the University received him.

Archbishop's Trip.—Archbishop Pisani was the guest of the Cork Harbour Board yesterday in a steamer trip around the harbour. He was accompanied by the Lord Mayor, Mr. F. Daly.

THE IRISH DERBY.

LARGE GATHERING AT THE CURRAGH.

The Irish Derby attracted a large gathering yesterday. Every social grade was represented—sporting people, artists, professional men, politicians, and members of the Diplomatic Corps. There was also a good sprinkling of foreigners who had come to Ireland for Congress week.

Cooler weather prevailed, and although rain threatened, and actually fell momentarily during the big race, the freshness that followed it was not unwelcome. Visitors continued to arrive in 'bus loads after the first two races, and the stands were filled to overflowing for the day's great event. Luncheon and tea-rooms were also crowded to capacity during the afternoon, and the tote did a steady business.

A distinct change was noticeable in feminine attire—there was hardly a frock worn without a coat, and certainly no one present was dressed in a frock without a fur. Many long fur-trimmed coats were to be seen, and several people brought their mackintoshes. A number of ladies wore tweed costumes.

RED A FAVOURITE COLOUR.

Red seemed to be a favourite colour. Lady Talbot de Malahide, who was accompanied by her husband, wore a bright red coat, full length, and a straw hat of the same colour, trimmed with flowers. Her frock was printed material of red and white. Countess McCormack was dressed in red tones. She wore a terra cotta costume, the coat of which reached only to her waist, a hat to match and a fox fur. Mrs. Shirley, who came with her husband, Major Shirley, and a friend, Miss Coddington, also chose red. Lady Nugent, too, appeared in the same colour, but her wide straw hat was cream colour. Mrs. North Bomford, who was accompanied by Major North Bomford, likewise wore red and a large fox fur. Miss Lennon, who came with her fiancé, Captain Denis Daly, wore a long white and rose colour check coat and frock and beret to match.

The Governor-General of the Irish Free State, attended by Captain O'Sullivan, A.D.C., came with Mrs. McNeill early in the afternoon. They sat at the back of the enclosed stand, where they chatted with Count and Countess McCormack. Mrs. McNeill wore a beige-coloured beret and a long corduroy coat over her Irish tweed check frock. They left the meeting after the fifth race.

BLACK NOT UNPOPULAR.

Some very attractive black toilettes were to be seen. Mrs. Paddy Cullinan's black tweed dress was embroidered in white from the elbow. She wore a black hat to match, and a fox fur. Miss Lardner and Mrs. Eriksson wore the same colour. Mrs. Eriksson came with the Consul for Sweden, and her black corduroy coat contrasted with a white hat. Miss Baggot also wore black with a fox fur.

Mr. Michael and Mr. Joseph Fitzgerald came with their wives. Mrs. Michael Fitzgerald wore a blue frock and a light grey tweed coat with a white hat; her sister-in-law wore a blue printed dress under her blue coat. Mrs. Lardner was also in blue with a white hat. The Minister for the United States brought Mrs. Sterling, who was dressed in light green. Mrs. Desmond Fitzgerald wore a brown and light beige coat and frock in corré design and a small brown hat. Her scarf was of light tweed and multi-coloured.

Dr. P. T. MacArdle came with Mrs. MacArdle, who wore a mustard-coloured tweed costume, with a dark fur. In their party were also Mrs. Cecil Lavery and Mrs. John Esmonde, and Mr. Leo Whelan. Mrs. Lavery wore a dark blue coat over a shantung dress with red spots, and white beret. Mrs. Esmonde wore a full-length, bright blue Irish tweed coat and skirt, with a white jumper and a beret to match her coat.

Mr. Leo Whelan was obliged to leave the race meeting suddenly, as he was sent for by the Archbishop of Dublin, to paint a portrait of the Cardinal Legate before his departure.

NOTABLE PERSONALITIES.

Others present were:—Mr. William T. Cosgrave, T.D.; Prince Batthyani Strettman, His Highness Prince Aly Khan, the Hon. Brinsley Plunket, Sir John Arnott, Lady Lambert and the Hon. O. Lambert, Mrs. and Miss O'Malley, friends of Countess MacCormack, Captain and Mrs. Boyd-Rochford, V.C.; Lord Glenavy, who brought his sons; Mr. P. Campbell and Master Michael Campbell, Mrs. More O'Ferrall, Mr. J. J. Maher, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Peard, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Peard, Sir Francis and Lady Brooke, the Dowager Lady McCalmont, Mr. Bolger, official handicapper for Calcutta, recently arrived from India; Mrs. Hepworth, Colonel Maurice Moore, Captain and Mrs. Dunne, the Right Hon. BETWEEN THE ACTS.

THE TAILTEANN COMPETITIONS.

NOVELS AS PLAYS.

BY OUR THEATRE CORRESPONDENT.

THE Tailteann Dramatic Art Competition will occupy the attention of amateur dramatic societies next week. The competition opens on Saturday at the Dublin Gate Theatre, and the adjudicator will announce his award, with a lecture commentary on the performances, on the following Sunday week, July 10th.

Some of the best Irish amateur companies will be seen in the competition, so that large audiences should assemble to see how very good amateurs treat plays which have been seen acted by excellent professional companies. Among the plays to be presented during the week are "The Outsider," "The Shadow of a Gunman," "Little Brother," "Autumn Fire," and "Children of the Moon."

Particularly interesting will be the production of "Autumn Fire," because it is being done by a company from Dublin and by one from Liverpool. Two of the shorter plays also should be of unusual interest—"The Enthusiast," by Lewis Purcell, which once was popular in the repertory of the Ulster Theatre, and "Sparklin'", a comedy by one of the most considerable of the American folk dramatists whose plays are not yet familiar in Ireland.

CONNAUGHT MISSING.

Only Connaught will be unrepresented. Ulster is represented by two companies, Leinster by two, and Munster by one. The sixth company comes from Liverpool, with plays by T. C. Murray and Lady Gregory.

It is peculiar that Connaught should be enthusiastic enough to have a Drama League of its own, and at the same time unrepresented at the most important amateur dramatic art competition. Two companies from Sligo qualified for the competition, yet no Connaught company is to compete in Dublin. While the absence of a representative of the amateur stage in Connaught is to be deplored, there is sufficient evidence that the province is rich in amateur dramatic talent and enthusiasm.

Probably it is the deficiency of money that keeps the Connaught groups from the Gate Theatre next week, and should that be so it is yet another proof of the need for a central organisation for the assistance and encouragement of amateur societies. There should be representatives from the four provinces at the meeting on the afternoon of July 10th, at which it is hoped to found such an organisation.

NOTABLE VISITORS.

The Tailteann Dramatic Art Section has been fortunate in securing the services of a well-known London actor and producer to adjudicate in the competition, so that, while the absence of Mr. Whitford Kane is to be regretted, the presence of Mr. Edward Lewis is a matter for congratulation. Mr. Edward Lewis, of the St. Martin's Theatre, London, has had considerable experience as an adjudicator in similar competitions across the Channel, having served in that capacity in the British Community Drama Festivals, so his award and comments on Irish performances should be very valuable. Another distinguished visitor will be Mr. Glen MacKemmie, Chairman of the Scottish Community Drama Association, who is coming to Dublin to assist in the foundation of a similar association for amateur dramatic societies in Ireland.

The Scottish Community Drama Association has become a powerful organisation in Scotland, and Mr. MacKemmie's advice should be extremely useful to Irish societies. It might be possible to enlist the aid of the directors of the Abbey Theatre in the new organisation, so that the Peacock Theatre might be utilised by affiliated societies.

THEATRE AUDIENCES.

The noted English dramatic critic, Mr. Sydney Carroll, has been asking "Why do theatre audiences vary so greatly in the quality of attention?" American audiences, he says, "seem to take a real delight in their playgoing." French audiences "can be wildly enthusiastic or satirically indifferent," Italian audiences "wildly enthusiastic or apathetic to a yawn," English audiences "cannot be relied upon, except in rare instances, to give serious consideration to a really serious work."

He awards the palm to German audiences: "The audiences in German theatres," he says, "are . . . simultaneously the most attentive, the most critical, the most discerning, but not given, except upon rare occasions, to as much emotional enthusiasm as English audiences."

There was a time when Dublin audiences considered themselves worthy of the praise that Mr. Carroll now gives to German audiences, but that time is certainly not now. There is plenty of applause, plenty of enthusiasm, but both the applause and the enthusiasm are mainly reserved for a player rather than a play. Occasionally it might be thought that a claque rather than an audience filled the theatre; and for this some prominent players must be held greatly responsible.

NOVELS INTO PLAYS.

The turning of popular novels into plays is no new phenomenon in the theatre, but at present there must be few novelists who publish a book without an idea that it may also make a profitable play or secure a contract with Hollywood.

"The Constant Nymph" started the new movement, and it was quickly followed by "Grand Hotel," "The Good Companions," "Precious Bane," and "Vile Bodies." Edward Knoblock, who collaborated with Arnold Bennett in a successful play, seems to spend his entire time to-day in converting novels into plays. It was he who dramatised "The Good Companions," with J. B. Priestley, then he went on to "Evensong" with Beverley Nichols, to "Hatter's Castle" with Cronin, and now to "Magnolia Street" with Golding. In the majority of these novels there is sufficient material for many plays, so that the greater part of each novel has to be sacrificed to secure the box-office appeal for the title.

It is notorious that even the greatest novels make but poor plays, so it will be interesting to see whether Edward Knoblock can convert silk purses into sows' ears. Money may be made by the conversion of novels into plays, but it is another matter to make a good play out of a good novel.

NEXT WEEK.

The Gaiety Theatre will be closed next week for summer vacation. At the Abbey Theatre the programme from Tuesday evening will consist of Synge's famous tragedy "Riders to the Sea," and Brinsley MacNamara's comedy of the Turf, "The Glorious Uncertainty." On Monday evening the Abbey Theatre will be closed to enable the company to broadcast "The Eloquent Dempsey" from the Belfast Studio of the British Broadcasting Corporation. At the Royal Hippodrome, the Olympia, and the Capitol there will be the usual vaudeville programmes. At the Gate Theatre, from Wednesday evening, there will be the Tailteann Dramatic Art Competition, so that theatrical fare is plentiful.

On Monday, July 10th, Jack Hylton and his Band open their first engagement in Dublin at the Capitol Theatre. This famous band is already favourably known in all parts of Ireland, so that it is assured of an enthusiastic reception in Dublin. The band's singer is an Irishman, Pat O'Malley, who was regarded in America as a better "crooner" than Rudy Vallee. He was born in Mayo, so that he probably developed his style from the Irish caoin.

FOREIGN MISSIONARY EXHIBITION.

The Foreign Missionary Exhibition at 86 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, continues to attract immense crowds, and those in a position to judge have said that it rivals the missionary exhibition which formed part of the Colonial Exhibition held in Paris last summer. The Dublin exhibition is less austere, less rigidly scientific in character. The one aim of its designers has been to place before the people a vivid picture of the life, especially the missionary life, in distant pagan lands.

Since its opening the exhibition has been honoured by visits from Cardinal MacRory, the Apostolic Nuncio and from many of the Irish Hierarchy, as well as from archbishops and bishops from all parts of the world.

The exhibition will remain open until Saturday next.

ON THE WIRELESS

DOMINION DAY.

DOMINION DAY, which is a public holiday throughout Canada, commemorates the passing of the British North America Act on July 1st, 1867, the culmination of the work of the "Fathers of Confederation" that laid the political foundations of the present Dominion of Canada. The annual dinner in celebration of the birthday of the Dominion has been held in London since 1888. At to-night's function, which will take place at the Savoy Hotel, London, the Prince of Wales will deliver the chief speech of the evening, and it will be relayed by the Daventry National Station, commencing at about 9.35. The speech is expected to last about a quarter of an hour, after which there will be a studio broadcast of a recital by Norman Allin (bass) and Eda Kersey (violin). There is another brass band concert to-night from the North Regional Station, this time by the Lowerhouse Mills Band, under the conductorship of George Altham, with William Bernard (tenor). This broadcast commences at seven o'clock, and at 9.15 there is a programme of Spanish music (A L'Espagnole) by the Pini Tango Orchestra, augmented, under the direction of Eugene Pini. The programme will be augmented by Ronald Gourley, entertainer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE NORTHERN OUTBREAKS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—All good Irishmen will read with feelings of disgust your reports of the disgraceful scenes that took place in the North as pilgrims left for the Congress in Dublin. In contrast to this behaviour I should like to mention that, here in Tipperary, many of our Protestant friends put their wireless sets at the disposal of Catholics who were unable to travel to Dublin. In the immediate vicinity two of the Protestant landowners entertained no less than three hundred men and women, who would otherwise have been unable to take part in what was to them the greatest event in their lives.—Yours, etc.,

"CATHOLIC."

Co. Tipperary, June 29th, 1932.

THE ISLAND OF SAINTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I am afraid that Mr. Carton did not stir very far from the King's Inns Library during Congress week. I was in Dublin during the week preceding the Eucharistic Congress, and also during the Congress. I was agreeably surprised at the number of flags and banners bearing the Royal Cross of St. George, the English flag. They appeared very numerous—much more so, in fact, than the designs bearing the crosses of St. Patrick or St. Andrew. In Wicklow street the different crosses were flown side by side.

Apparently, it is only when the crosses are flown in the symbol of the Union that the Scottish or Irish object to the flag—vide the incidents in Dublin and at Stirling Castle.—Yours, etc.,

"AN ENGLISH VISITOR."

Waterford, June 29th, 1932.

MUSIC SUCCESS.

Miss Sanchia Pielou, of Dublin, who was awarded the Harp Scholarship, tenable for three years, at the recent examinations at the Royal College of Music, London.

CONGRESS DANCE

IN AID OF DUBLIN'S POOR.

Under the patronage of the Lord Mayor of Dublin, a very pleasant dance was held last night in the Metropole Ballroom, in aid of the poor of Dublin. Dancing commenced at 10 p.m., and towards midnight an entertaining cabaret was staged by members of the Capitol company.

Miss Hesham's pretty gown was of sapphire blue lace; Miss Wilson wore a slim white satin gown. Black lace was the choice of Miss K. Cunningham, while Miss Redmond wore a becoming floral taffeta frock. Miss Mollie McLaughlin was wearing a smart flame-coloured velvet gown. Miss E. Conroy was in ivory lace. Mrs. Conway wore a lovely floral patterned chiffon frock. A striking emerald green satin frock was worn by Miss Carley. Miss Harris came in white velvet. Miss Mary McNally was attired in a gown of flowered chiffon. Miss Marcella Phelan's gown was of white organdie. Miss Hayes wore a fur tippet, with her floral ninon frock. Miss Byrne was in turquoise blue satin, and Miss Burke Kennedy looked well in rose floral chiffon.

Also present were:—The Lord Mayor, Mr. G. M. Macken (President, Belvedere College Union), Judge Devitt, Mr. J. Menzie, Mr. G. Delaney, Mr. M. Byrne, Mr. W. Fitzgerald, barrister-at-law; Mr. R. Duggan (junior), Mr. G. O'Grady, Mr. W. J. Vickers, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Conway, Mr. F. W. Nowlan, Mr. D. P. Carley, Mr. James A. Geary, Mr. B. O'Collins, Mr. P. S. Heshan, Dr. Craig, Mr. Cook, Mr. T. Complimenting the manager and staff of the Hull Municipal Telephone Undertaking upon a net profit of £18,760 for the past year the Chairman of the Corporation Telephones Committee yesterday stated that they were saving telephone users of the city and district upwards of £50,000 per annum in comparison with the Post Office tariffs operating over the rest of the country.

"AT HOME."

ROYAL IRISH YACHT CLUB.

Members of the Royal Irish Yacht Club held a pleasant "at home" yesterday afternoon, when they entertained many guests in their fine premises at Dún Laoghaire.

Intermittent showers fell during the afternoon, and while they lasted the guests sat about on chairs on the terrace and enjoyed the fresh sea breeze.

The entertainment was marred by the tragic happening on board one of the competing yachts, the Lady Edith, and deep sympathy was felt for Mr. John Good, T.D., in this sad event.

When the news of the occurrence became known, the Band of the Dublin Metropolitan Garda, who had been entertaining those present with selections of music, cancelled their programme for the afternoon.

Among those present were:—Mrs. Wright, who wore a smart navy blue marocain coat, with a black chip straw hat. She was accompanied by Miss Wright, who chose a shiny black straw hat to wear with her light blue cloth coat. Mrs. Alfred Dickie's cream straw sailor hat was worn with a floral crêpe de Chine frock, and silver fox fur. Lady Musgrave was wearing a red marocain frock, with a small felt hat to tone. Mrs. Budd looked well in a brown flecked two-piece suit, with a brown straw hat, while Mrs. G. Budd wore a black crêpe de Chine frock, with a hat of white chip straw. Mrs. Maunsell was in a black tailored suit, with a shiny black straw hat.

A yellow spotted crêpe-de-Chine frock was worn by Mrs. Gatenby with a black coat and hat. Mrs. Craig's pretty black and red floral crêpe-de-Chine frock was worn with a red straw hat and coat of black romaine. Mrs. Cluffe was becomingly dressed in a navy blue ensemble, with a beige-coloured hat. Mrs. Mansfield wore black with touches of white, and a black straw hat. Mrs. Wetherill was another who favoured black.

Also present included:—The Commodore of the R.I.Y. Club and Mrs. Wright, Dr. H. B. Wright, Mr. Higginbotham Wybrants, Mr. S. D. Budd, Dr. Watson, Colonel and Mrs. Fitzroy Day, Mr. and Mrs. Dobbs, Mr. Maunsell, Professor B. Gatenby, Mr. Alfred Dickie, Mr. Craig, Mrs. F. Dixon, Miss M. Dixon, Mrs. O'Hara-Mease, Mrs. Collins Smith, Professor Ross G. Harrison, Mr. J. Drennan, the Warden of St. Columba's College and Mrs. Armstrong, Dr. W. Astle Ryan, Mr. Salmon, Mr. Herbert Dudgeon, Dr. Drury, Mr. Pim, Mr. and Mrs. Howe, Mr. Sims, Mrs Brady Brown, Miss Brady Brown, Mr. Morrow, Mrs. Redington Roche, Miss V. Usher, Mrs. Eliott McNeill, Dr. Pugin Meldon, Major and Mrs. A. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Randall McDonald, Mr. W. Moore, Mrs. M. Walker, Miss Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. J. Boydell, Miss Keegan, Mr. and Mrs. Bretland.

Graduates In Pub[lic] Life.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Wednesd[ay]

THE Vice-Chancellor of Queen's Un[iver]sity, Belfast (Sir Richard Livingst[one]) read a paper on "The Nature of Graduate's Influence on the Commun[ity]" at the Irish Students' Association Cong[ress] in the Students' Union, Belfast, to-day, [when] there was a large attendance of dele[gates] from Dublin, Cork and Galway, as w[ell as] Belfast. Mr. J. J. Auchmuty, Dublin [Uni]versity, presided.

The Vice-Chancellor said that the object of their debates at that Congres[s was] the position of university students [and] graduates in public life. The influence of universities in this field had in most c[oun]tries been very considerable for the [last] seventy years. That influence, unless civilisation was entirely destroyed, was [cer]tain to increase. In America the busi[ness] field was now mainly controlled by gradu[ates]. The same was slowly becoming tru[e in] Britain. If commerce and industry were [to] prosper, or, indeed, survive, they must [be] managed by the best brains. Though no [one] person would claim that good brains a[nd] university degree were synonymous terms, university was becoming increasingly [the] chief reservoir of ability in the count[ry], the place in which those who wanted [to] buy intelligence must in the future ten[d to] look for it. They would find in the un[iver]sities many persons quite useless to th[em], but if they knew how to look they w[ould] find others of very great use. For [that] reason he believed that the universities' [in]fluence was likely in the coming genera[tion] to become dominant in the business w[orld] and in another smaller, but also very in[por]tant, field, the municipal civil service.

"If I was asked what were the [g]ifts of a liberal education," Sir Ric[hard] proceeded, "and the chief marks of [an] educated man, I should mention two thi[ngs:] the power of looking at a question in[i]tially, and a sense of the difference bet[ween] what is first rate, and what is not.

"This island, North and South, has [great] possibilities," he added. "It is inha[bited] by two races, which in the outside w[orld] have shown their power to exert an infl[uence] quite out of proportion to their num[bers]. Small communities, with their intense [life], their strong local patriotism, have bee[n in] the past, the chief seedplots of human [pro]gress. It may be so with Ireland. [It] also it may not. There are difficulties [and] dangers in our way. Can Ireland g[et rid] of that dire legacy of emotional comp[lexes] which descend from its past? Can it e[scape] without losing its rich individuality, the provincialism to which small siz[e and] comparative isolation expose it? Th[e] cure for complexes is resolute clearn[ess of] thinking. The best antidote to provinc[ialism] is a firm grasp of what is first-rate.

"I congratulate you on taking a st[ep. It] is only the first and the easiest step [on a] road which, if followed out, may brin[g you] and Ireland far. The world seems to [have] learned nothing from the war, and to [stand] where it stood in 1914. Yet, some [day it] must pass over to the only basis from [which] advance is possible — co-operation, i[nstead] of strife, the avoidance of jealousie[s and] petty quarrels; a real desire to con[tribute] to a common good. I am not talk[ing in] terms of territorial boundaries. I a[m think]ing of something far more important [—of] people's hearts are genuinely filled [with] friendliness and charity no boundari[es will] separate them; if they are not, no p[ar]ties will unite them."

Mr. J. J. Auchmuty conveyed the [thanks] of Congress to Sir Richard Livingstone [for his] interesting address.

LEADERS OF INDUSTRY

Professor Stockley, supporting, stat[ed that] in America those who desired to get quickly entered business at an early [age,] but it was true that the great lea[ders of] industry and the controllers of inter[national] business were more and more being [drawn] from university men.

Mr. S. F. Murray said that higher [educa]tion must be available for the maj[ority of] the people, and this conception of u[niversity] education was particularly desirable [in Ire]land.

Professor Stockley read a paper on "[Litera]ture and Life in Ireland," and dur[ing the] discussion which ensued a Belfast stu[dent in]quired if Irish literature was to deve[lop and] become common to all the people w[hat lan]guage was to be used.

Professor Liam O'Buachall, B.Com[m., Lec]turer in Economics, University Colle[ge, Gal]way, said that there was no questio[n but] it that the literature must be writte[n in the] Irish language. The English langu[age had] done. It had its day—a wonderful d[ay, and] had served a useful purpose, but th[ey must] accept the opinion of authorities [that its] day was done.

With reference to Sir Richard Livin[gstone's] allusion to two races in Ireland, he [said] that there was only one race; the Gae[l.] As a matter of fact certain outsider[s made] their way among them, some were th[ey] them, and others they had accepted, never admitted that there were tw[o races.] The Irish race founded the first u[niversity] that was ever known.

Professor Stockley said that the[y should] have a bi-lingual country, but not a b[i-racial] people. People might speak two la[nguages] but one was their medium of thou[ght and] literature. They saw this in Swi[tzerland,] where the Germans spoke French and [Ger]man, and the French German and French, [but when] the war broke out they naturally re[verted to] the sides of the Germans or the Fren[ch.]

Belfast Shipbuilding.—Only one v[essel of] 6,000 tons gross was launched at [Belfast] during the past six months, which [is the] smallest output recorded in the histo[ry of the] port. The vessel was the passen[ger and] fruit-carrying steamer Erin, built by Workman, Clark (1928), Ltd., and now engaged in the service between Rotterdam and Jamaica. For the cor[respond]ing period last year three vessels gross tonnage of 28,944 tons were la[unched.]

The Influence Of The Universities.

Graduates In Public Life.

THE Vice-Chancellor of Queen's University, Belfast (Sir Richard Livingstone), read a paper on "The Nature of the Graduate's Influence on the Community," at the Irish Students' Association Congress, in the Students' Union, Belfast, to-day, when there was a large attendance of delegates from Dublin, Cork and Galway, as well as Belfast. Mr. J. J. Auchmuty, Dublin University, presided.

The Vice-Chancellor said that the main object of their debates at that Congress was the position of university students and graduates in public life. The influence of the universities in this field had in most countries been very considerable for the past seventy years. For this reason he believed that the universities' influence was likely in the coming generation to become dominant in the business world, and in another smaller, but also very important, field, the municipal civil service.

"If I was asked what were the chief gifts of a liberal education," Sir Richard proceeded, "and the chief marks of an educated man, I should mention two things—the power of looking at a question impartially, and a sense of the difference between what is first rate, and what is not.

Mr. J. J. Auchmuty conveyed the thanks of Congress to Sir Richard Livingstone for his interesting address.

LEADERS OF INDUSTRY.

Professor Stockley, supporting, stated that in America those who desired to get money quickly entered business at an early stage, but it was true that the great leaders of industry and the controllers of international business were more and more being drawn from university men.

Mr. S. F. Murray said that higher education must be available for the majority of the people, and this conception of university education was particularly desirable in Ireland.

Professor Stockley read a paper on "Literature and Life in Ireland," and during the discussion which ensued a Belfast student inquired if Irish literature was to develop and become common to all the people what language was to be used.

Professor Liam O'Buachalla, B.Comm., Lecturer in Economics, University College, Galway, said that there was no question about it that the literature must be written in the Irish language. The English language was done. It had its day—a wonderful day—and had served a useful purpose, but they must accept the opinion of authorities that its day was done.

With reference to Sir Richard Livingstone's allusion to two races in Ireland, he declared that there was only one race: the Gaelic race. As a matter of fact certain outsiders found their way among them, some were thrown at them, and others they had accepted, but they never admitted that there were two races. The Irish race founded the first university that was ever known.

Professor Stockley said that they could have a bi-lingual country, but not a bi-lingual people. People might speak two languages, but one was their medium of thought and literature. They saw this in Switzerland, where the Germans spoke French and German and the French German and French. When the war broke out they naturally reverted to the sides of the Germans or the French.

IRISH NEWS IN BRIEF

White Gloves.—At Mullingar yesterday Judge Gleeson was presented with white gloves.

* * * *

Sixth Windjammer Arrives.—The sixth vessel of the fleet of nineteen old-time windjammers racing from Australia to make port, the Finnish four-masted barque Pamie (3,020 tons gross), arrived in Queenstown yesterday, following a voyage lasting 103 days.

* * * *

Counterfeit Coins.—Roy Stewart, alias Kennedy, of no fixed address, was fined £6, with the alternative of three months' imprisonment, at Coleraine for having in his possession and uttering a number of counterfeit two shilling pieces. Stewart, who pleaded guilty, elected to go to jail.

* * * *

Save the Railways. — Donegal County Council adopted a resolution to the effect that, having regard to the gravity of the railway situation, the Free State Government be called on to introduce immediate legislation in the Dail to save the railways by restricting the number of road vehicles. The resolution added that the Council had a recommendation inserted in all their contracts that materials should be carried by rail as far as possible.

* * * *

Northern Electricity Expansion.—The Northern Ireland Electricity Board has under construction a steel tower main transmission line from the Harbour Power Station, Belfast, to Castlereagh. From here lines suitable for the transmission of electricity at a pressure of 33,000 volts will be conveyed to Newtownards, Bangor and Comber. The line will have altogether a four-circuit line, two of which will be suitable for transmission of electrical energy at a pressure of 132,000 volts.

Housing Tenders.—Tenders were accepted by Dundalk Urban Council for the erection of twenty workers' houses in Dundalk Demesne. Mr. O'Hagan said that he understood that the houses would be able to be let at fifty per cent. less than any houses they had ever built before. For the erection of seventy houses in concrete blocks in Demesne road the tender of Messrs. McDonald and Sons, Dundalk, at £25,465, was accepted. These houses are to be in concrete blocks. For twelve houses in massed concrete in Culhane street the tender of Messrs. McDonald, at £3,661, was accepted, and for eight brick houses in Mulholland avenue the tender of Messrs. P. McKenna and Sons, Dundalk, at £3,809 was accepted.

Useful Work.—At the eighth annual conference, which was held in Banbridge yesterday, of the General Council of Municipal Authorities of Northern Ireland, Mr. William Logan, J.P., President, who presided, said that as year followed year the usefulness of the association became more exemplified, and it was not too much to say that there was not a single movement—parliamentary or otherwise—dealing with municipal affairs that was not carefully examined. As a link between the ratepayers and their legislatures the importance of the organisation could not be over-emphasised; indeed, he would venture to say that more people than they realised looked to them to see that their interests were safeguarded.

Milk Prize Anomaly.—When the resolution from the County Westmeath Committee of Agriculture was read at the Wicklow County Committee of Agriculture, recommending that the Government should investigate the difference between the price paid to Irish farmers for pigs, and that paid for bacon by the consumer, and to allocate the profits on a more equitable basis to the farmer while reducing the cost on the consumer, the Chairman (Mr. C. M. Byrne) thought that they could add to that milk, for which the Wicklow farmer received 7d. while it was retailed at 1s. 7d. and 2s. for pasteurised milk. They did not know who was to blame, but somebody was making huge profits while the farmers received only pre-war, or even less than pre-war, prices for their produce. The resolution was adopted.

Belgian Pilgrims.—On Tuesday large parties of Belgian pilgrims, who had been attending the Eucharistic Congress, visited Cork in the course of a tour of the South, and later left for Killarney.

Cork Municipal Election.—Elections took place in Cork yesterday for the purpose of electing two aldermen and five councillors. The voting lasted from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., but all over the borough there was a notable lack of enthusiasm, and only a comparatively small percentage of the electorate polled.

* * * *

Tourist Invasion.—Following the close of the Eucharistic Congress a large number of tourists, clergymen and laymen, from the United States of America, Germany, Belgium and other countries, has arrived in Limerick. They have seen the Shannon scheme, and also visited places of antiquarian interest in and near the city. The hotel bookings are heavy.

Visiting Bishops in Mullingar.—At present there are staying in Mullingar at the house of the Most Rev. Dr. Mulvany, Bishop of Meath, two bishops who have been in Ireland for the Congress, Most Rev. Dr. Tief, Bishop of Concordia, U.S.A., and Most Rev. Dr. Macnulty, Bishop of Nottingham. Dr. Tief, who celebrated Mass in Mullingar Cathedral yesterday, expressed the joy it gave him to celebrate Mass in the Cathedral of his native county. His father was born ninety years ago, not far from Mullingar.

"Social Cannibalism."—Strong protest against the employment of men on outdoor relief to do light public work was made at the meeting of the Dundalk Urban Council. A letter was read from the Dundalk Trades Council stating that the proposal to permit men to do work without paying them was unchristian. Mr. J. Corrigan stated that the proposal was nothing less than social cannibalism, and would be the subject of a public protest. It was said that the men concerned were not objecting to do the work, but the reason they did not publicly object was that they were afraid of being struck off the lists for relief, and they did anything rather than allow their families to starve. He handed in notice to rescind the decision of the Council giving permission for the employment of the men at the cleaning of the demesne.

INSTITUTION OF THE REV. N. H. HAMILTON.

In the presence of a very large congregation the Rev. N. H. Hamilton was instituted incumbent of Christ Church, Dun Laoghaire, last night, by the Archbishop of Dublin.

Mr. W. H. Robinson, Registrar of the Diocese, read the certificate of election, and subsequently administered the declaration to the new Incumbent.

The Ven. Archdeacon of Dublin presented the Rev. N. H. Hamilton to the Archbishop, who instituted him to the care of souls in the parish.

The Rev. Precentor Lewis Crosby read the Lesson, and the sermon was preached by the Archbishop.

Among the clergymen taking part in the Service were the Revs. Canon Hughes, Canon Chamberlain, Canon Hall, Canon Crozier, Rev. Charles Dowse, the Rev. R. Watson, the Rev. T. S. Collins, the Rev. E. G. Seale, the Rev. H. G. Forde, the Rev. de Courcy Williams, and the Rev. E. J. Johnson.

Thurles Show Awards.

Increased Entries.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

THURLES, Wednesday.

THURLES SHOW was opened to-day in fine weather, but heavy rain in the afternoon spoiled the comfort of the visitors. The attendance was above the average.

The entries in the horse section showed a slight decrease on last year. Cattle entries were up a little, and sheep and pigs were almost double. The prize-winning horses, in the opinion of the judges, showed more quality than for some years. Considering the poor demand for horses a big number was shown.

CATTLE.

The cup (presented by Mr. Pierce Moloney, Thurles), for the best bull at the show was won by David A. Mullins, Killeens, Ballynonty, Thurles, with "Keen Goodness." The same exhibit also won the silver medal presented by the Hereford Association.

The Willwood Cup, for the best cow in the creamery classes, was won by Joseph Tuohy, Grange, Holy Cross, Thurles, with "Princess Wellington."

The silver cup for the best female shorthorn, was won by R. A. Williams, Eyremount, Cloughjordan, with "Empress Lady." The silver medal for the best shorthorn exhibit, also was won by Mr. Williams with "Empress Lady."

The silver medal presented by the Aberdeen-Angus Association, was won by John Flood, Tubberadora, Holy Cross, with "Eric of Feenagh."

HORSES.

TO LOSE £50 GRANT.

Miss Grace Montgomery presided at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Irish Dairy Shorthorn Breeders' Association, held in Cork Show grounds to-day.

The Department of Agriculture sent a letter stating that, owing to the favourable position of the Society's funds, they could not continue the £50 grant hitherto allowed annually.

It was decided to ask the Department to reconsider this decision.

Delegates were appointed to attend a conference of the Irish Beet Growers' Association.

A resolution was adopted drawing the attention of the Department of Agriculture to the necessity for reviewing the present conditions governing milk and butter fat standards required for breeding dairy bulls.

PRESENTATION TO SECRETARY.

At a meeting of cow-testing supervisors held in Cork Show grounds to-day, Mr. R. Ludgate, who presided, presented Mr. P. Halliden, Secretary, Irish Dairy Shorthorn Breeders' Association, with a wireless set in recognition of the services he had rendered generally to cow-testing and the welfare of the supervisors particularly.

Educational System Assailed.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LARNE, Wednesday.

An attack upon the educational system in Northern Ireland was made by the Rev. John Lyle Donaghy, speaking at the annual prize-giving of Larne Intermediate School to-day.

True education, he said, could never be resurrected while they were bound by the trammels of an authority which, in thousands of instances, was anything but a blessing, and seemed to imagine that everybody should take its views on a subject. He complained of the system of inspection, adding that inspectors, unless they got their information in the dry and cut form they wanted, quite unfairly set a school down as a failure.

Miss MacKinlay, Principal, in her report complained that the examination papers set by the Northern Ministry of Education were not suited to the ages of the candidates in the junior certificate, and that was why there were so many failures. The papers, she said, laid apparently been set by persons who were not acquainted with the mentality of children.

Greystones Nursing Association.

A special meeting of the Greystones and District Nursing Association was held last night in the Library, Greystones, to consider the report of the Committee for the past year and to discuss whether it would be possible to carry on the work of the Association in view of the increased expenditure and the decreased amount of subscriptions.

Mr. John O'Neill, who presided, said that the sum required to carry on the work of the Association was £245 per annum. Some assistance was given by the Wicklow County Board of Health and by the Free State Local Government Department.

A Committee of forty members was formed, and a special meeting will be held on July 7 to consider the situation.

Drunk in Charge of Motor Car.—At Kilbeggan District Court, John Millar, Ballieborough, Co. Cavan, was summoned for being drunk in charge of a motor car at Streamstown on June 18. On a second count defendant was charged with reckless driving of a motor car on the same occasion. Having heard the evidence, Justice O'Donoghue said that a man like the defendant was more dangerous to his fellow-creatures than a man rushing along the road discharging a gun. He (the Justice) had at first made up his mind to send defendant to jail, without the option of a fine, for one month, but, seeing that he had taken the pledge, he had decided to deal with defendant by a fine of 40s. and 5s. costs.

LEGAL NOTICES.

Estate of ISABELLA McCONNELL, late of Sydney, in the State of New South Wales, Australia, Spinster, Deceased, intestate.

Take notice that the Public Trustee of New South Wales is the Administrator of the estate of the of the above-named Deceased, who died at Sydney intestate on the eleventh day of June, 1931. The intestate was born at Ballynadrenta, Crumlin, Co. Antrim, Ireland, on the fourteenth day of July, 1862, and was a daughter of James McConnell and Helena Sherlock, who died in the district of Crumlin on the fifteenth day of May, 1869, and the twenty-seventh day of August, 1872, respectively. At the date of his marriage to Helena Sherlock, twenty-sixth February, 1858, at Crumlin, James McConnell was a widower. The children of his previous marriage, if alive, on the eleventh day of June, 1931, and the children then living of any child who died prior to that date would be entitled to share in the distribution of the estate of the intestate. Let all persons claiming to share in the distribution of the estate of the said intestate take notice that, unless a claim by them or any of them is received by the Public Trustee, 107-109 Elizabeth street, Sydney, Australia, aforesaid, within four months after the publication of this notice, the Public Trustee will distribute the estate of the said intestate amongst the next-of-kin of whose claims he then has notice.

Pursuant to an Order of the High Court of Justice, Saorstat Eireann, made in a suit,
THE ROYAL BANK OF IRELAND LIMITED, Plaintiffs;
JOSEPH RYAN, Defendant.

All persons claiming to be Incumbrancers affecting the interest of the Defendant, Joseph Ryan, in the house and premises, No. 8 Royce road, situate in the Parish of St George and City of Dublin, are to enter and prove their claims at the Central Office, Law Courts, Dublin, on or before the 18th day of July, 1932, or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said Order. Every such Incumbrancer holding any security is to produce the same to the Examiner at his office, Law Courts, Dublin, on the 20th day of July, 1932, at eleven of the clock in the forenoon, being the time appointed for adjudicating on the claims.

Dated this 17th day of June 1932.
JOHN HEALY, Examiner.

THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1932.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Cardinal Lauri paid an informal visit to Maynooth College yesterday.—(Page 8.)

It was strongly rumoured in London and Dublin last night that the British Cabinet decided yesterday to bring in a bill on Monday to impose duties on Free State imports to meet the amount due for land annuities.—(Page 7.)

In the classes for cattle, sheep and pigs there were increased entries at Thurles Show, which was opened yesterday.—(Page 5.)

The Senate of Dublin University met in Trinity College yesterday and conferred a number of honorary and other degrees.—(Page 4.)

Cork Summer Show, which opened yesterday, was a greater success than ever.—(Page 3.)

A Protestant demonstration in London was addressed by several well-known Irish speakers.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

The death has occurred of the Earl of Dudley, the famous Viceroy of Ireland who sponsored the Land Act of 1903.—(Page 6.)

The House of Commons last night dealt with the Sunday Entertainments Bill on report. In the House of Lords Viscount Snowden stressed the importance of strict economy in public services.—(Page 8.)

ABROAD.

The Lausanne Conference on Reparations has been saved by the diversion of its activities with new channels.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At the Curragh yesterday Dastur won the Irish Derby, Smart Aleck the Pollardstown Plate, Money Order the Apprentices' Plate, Dak the Mountjoy Plate, Mandritsara the King's Plate, and Rosemary's Pet the Visitors' Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Newmarket yesterday Wild Son won the Duke of Cambridge Handicap.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

The feature of London Stock Markets was a "boom" in the prices of British Funds. 3½ per cent. Conversion Loan rose 2¼ points.—(Page 12.)

Money was on loan at the almost unheard of rate of ½ per cent. over the night.—(Page 12.)

In Dublin Bank Stock and Guinness units again registered comfortable advances.—(Page 12.)

The Indian Proposals.

The statement of the British Government's Indian policy that Sir Samuel Hoare has made in the House of Commons is definite and far-reaching. At an early date the Government will introduce a scheme of autonomy for the provinces, which will be combined and co-ordinated with a federal system. In the first place, since Hindu and Moslem have failed to agree, Britain will impose a provisional settlement of the communal problem; and, "unless unforeseen difficulties intervene," the terms of this settlement will be published during the present summer. Then a Federal Constitution, providing also for the autonomy of the provinces, will be drafted, and will be presented to Parliament in the form of a bill. When the communal settlement has been announced the Consultative Committee of the Round Table Conference will renew its inquiry into outstanding questions. A Joint Select Committee of both Houses of Parliament will be established before the introduction of the India Bill, and will consider the Government's proposals in conference with representatives of Indian opinion. Thus Parliament not only will decide the fate of this momentous measure, but will have some voice in the framing of its terms. It will be seen that the Round Table method has been discarded in a large extent; but the Government's new arrangement ensures that Indian co-operation can be active at the most important stages of settlement.

Further fierce rioting between Hindu and Moslem occurred yesterday at Bombay, and is eloquent of the task which the British Government has taken on its own shoulders. When the Round Table Conference was established the Prime Minister stated firmly that agreement between Hindu and Moslem on the communal, or electoral, problem was an essential condition of settlement. Agreement was not forthcoming—the attempt to secure it produced ferocious and bloody conflict—and the Prime Minister's firmness vanished. Now the British Government has undertaken to compel the lion to lie down with the lamb—or rather, with the tiger. Here is the first and gravest peril of an adventure that bristles with perils. The savagery of the recent riots in India proves not only that the feud between the two races persists, but that its extent and bitterness increase. Prospects of freedom, in fact, have intensified it. Hindu-Moslem enmity, based on religion, is ancient and profound, but during the greater part of the British régime it was more or less quiescent. The strong and paternal authority of British government kept peace between the rival creeds, and, under the cogent rule of the rajahs, the Indian States had no Hindu-Moslem question. Now communal rioting is frequent in British India, and the agitation has invaded some of the larger States. The causes are the decay of British authority, which has been swift in recent years, and the struggle for place and power under the new system. Religious jealousies and hatreds have been inflamed by greed for the loaves and fishes of self-government; and on the Moslem side passion is aggravated by fear of the National Congress.

Sir Samuel Hoare is not dismayed. He hopes that India will recognise the things that really pertain to her peace, and he declares that the Ordinances for the suppression of crime—which will be withdrawn gradually—have achieved their end in a large part of India. Few students of the Indian situation or of Indian history will share his hopes. Already the Nationalist leaders are pouring scorn upon the provincial and federal schemes. They denounce the proposed settlement as a compromise, and say openly that they will do their best to thwart it. Such quiet as India enjoys to-day is due to the fact that 31,000 law-breakers, members of Congress and their agents, are now in jail. These persons will be released as a preliminary to settlement, and their freedom will swell the threatened tide of violence and disorder. The imagination of a Dante, we think, would be required for a picture of the first elections under the proposed settlement—if that settlement ever comes. Thirty-six millions of newly-enfranchised and utterly ignorant peasants will go to the polls; Hindu and Moslem agitators will be in furious competition for their votes; order will be in the hands of a slender army of hated police, doomed beforehand to the disfavour of the new machinery of government. Surely official optimism has reached its climax of absurdity. The chief hope that disaster may be averted lies in the Joint Committee of Parliament, which will consider the details of the new bill, and in Parliament itself. That Parliament is responsible for the welfare of India and for the safety of the Empire. It will have the final word in this matter, and it dare not betray its trust.

Credits and Shipbuilding.

One of the chief problems to which the general trade depression has drawn belated notice is the unsatisfactory relation between finance and industry. An instructive example of this condition of affairs can be found at the moment in the complaints of shipbuilders against the London discount houses. The charge is that the discount houses, which, as the shipbuilders allege, are refusing all accommodation to the industry, do not even trouble to differentiate between healthy replacements and mere speculative construction. Many shipping fleets to-day contain an undesirably large proportion of obsolescent vessels, which, in normal times, would have been replaced. The situation is complicated by the introduction of motor ships and the large strides that have been made lately in matters of fuel and internal comfort. During the last two years British yards have produced only five hundred thousand tons of shipping, and this serious falling away from earlier standards is doing much damage alike to the reputation of the various steamship lines and to the shipbuilding industry. The discount houses, on the other hand, argue that, when so much tonnage is laid up, the building of more must be bad business. This view is strengthened by a few bad deals in the last few years, and, since the discount houses are interested finally only in their dividends, it is hard to condemn their caution. Actually, however, their attitude is unfortunate in the extreme. In the first place, their indifference to the welfare of an industry—as divorced from finance—indicates a sad joint in the country's fiscal harness; and, secondly, the cramping of the shipbuilders' legitimate activities is the cause of much unemployment. The Governments of several countries, no better placed than Britain, are granting facilities, with the result that shipbuilding abroad is progressing rapidly. Shipowners hasten to confute the discount houses' suggestion that the necessary replacements can be achieved by the purchase of second-hand boats. Every line has its own particular requirements which cannot be met by so haphazard a proceeding. Indeed, there seems to be some basis for the further allegation that the discount houses are trying to control the industry. Why, ask shipowners and shipbuilders, should the well-managed lines be penalised for the inability of others to make a success of their business? The whole machinery of British credit is impugned by this impasse, and it is vital that its rusty wheels shall be oiled—preferably by a new spirit of helpfulness where circumstances justify such help, or, if need be, by some official action.

The Tailteann Games.

Yesterday, amid full ceremonial and high enthusiasm, Cardinal MacRory opened the Tailteann Games. This is the third occasion of their celebration since the Free State came into being, although, in the promoters' intention, they continue, after a gap of nearly eight centuries, the great chain of Aonach Tailteann which was broken by the Norman invasion. The Games of 1932 promise to surpass in all respects the festivals of 1924 and 1928. Preparations have been made with the utmost care; many visitors, who came for the Eucharistic Congress, have remained in Ireland to witness the Games, and—the most important factor of all—entries for the various competitions are greater than ever. We hope that the weather will play its part without grudging, and that every success will attend the Games. They have become an established part of Ireland's athletic life, and have contributed in no small degree to the remarkable development of national athletics during the past seven or eight years. In the present Games—it was not possible to observe the rule strictly in the two preceding festivals—every competitor is Irish or of Irish descent. The surprising thing is that, under such a limitation, the entry has been so large and has come from so many quarters of the earth. It numbers some of the finest athletes in the world—men whose names are famous in the sporting circles of many lands. To that extent the Tailteann Games are an international fixture. We could wish, however, that while insisting on Irish entries in a dominating measure, they could so expand their scope as to embrace a selected few of the great foreign athletes whom Ireland sees all too seldom. Such participation would make the Games no less Irish in character, and would increase their renown.

Hard Times at Hollywood.

A report from Hollywood suggests that two film stars, whose names are household words, may be deported on the ground that they have outstayed their "official" welcome. It seems that the expiry of their contracts has rendered them amenable to the United States Immigration Laws. Such situations, no doubt, have arisen before, but, in most cases—indeed, almost always, when the really prominent have been concerned—nothing has been done. Now, however, the matter has been raised by a screen actors' union in Hollywood, which has urged the authorities to take action. The affair, although trifling in itself, is a further proof of the depression which exists to-day in the film industry. Where so little work is to be found it is not surprising that local talent should look askance at wealthy artistes from another hemisphere who wait to collect what few "plums" may be in the offing. Yet, though the Hollywood union's attitude is reasonable enough, there is another point of view. Dramatic art cannot afford to be too exclusive in regard to its personnel, unless the country which adopts exclusive methods is prepared to suffer dramatic eclipse. Especially is this doctrine true of the screen, whose audiences and plays are international. Whether or not the United States immigration authorities will lend a sympathetic ear to the union's request is uncertain; but it is not unlikely that Hollywood, for its own protection, will be less ready now to explore the ends of the earth for talent—at least until trade revives and the mass of the people again can afford to go to the pictures.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The King was present yesterday at the opening of the Newmarket July meeting, and is staying at the Jockey Club during the races. His Majesty will be accompanied by the Queen when he visits the new headquarters of the B.B.C. in Portland place next week.

An additional attraction is announced for Cowes Regatta, as the Queen has presented a silver cup for competition on August 2nd, when the race for the King's Cup will take place.

LONDON MEETING ON GERMAN CREDITS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Wednesday.

Six German bankers and a German industrialist left for London to-day to take part in the "stand-still" negotiations which are to be opened on Friday, under the presidency of Mr. Albert H. Wiggins, of the Chase National Bank.

The German delegation hopes to reach an agreement on the reduction of the rate of interest of German credit. There is no question of Germany being able to repay any of her debts, as the foreign currency position of the Reichsbank does not enable her to do it.

COLONIAL ARCHBISHOP'S APPRECIATION.

Before he left Ireland Dr. Redwood, Archbishop of Wellington, New Zealand, expressed his appreciation of the Eucharistic Congress.

"I have attended nine International Eucharistic Congresses," he said. "I consider that the Dublin one has surpassed the others in magnitude, in pageantry, and especially in religion."

COUNT McCORMACK TO ATTEND "CARMEN."

Another good performance of "Carmen" was given at the Gaiety Theatre last night by the Dublin Operatic Society, with Miss Ella Clarke in the title rôle.

Count McMormack has signified his intention of being present at the performance of "Carmen" on Friday night. The Lord Mayor, who attended Tuesday night's performance of "L'Elisir d'Amore," will also be present on Friday.

DEATH OF LORD DUDLEY.

FORMER VICEROY OF IRELAND.

THE death occurred of the Earl of Dudley shortly after five o'clock last evening in the London nursing home, where he had lain seriously ill since last Saturday, on which day he was brought from the Riviera to London by air on the advice of his doctor. He was aged sixty-five.

William Humble Ward, second Earl of Dudley of a creation of 1860, came of a family possessing many titles, commencing in 1604 with Baron Ward. Before succeeding to the Earldom, Lord Dudley was known by the courtesy title of Viscount Ednam. During his early years he was Mayor of Dudley in 1895-96, and served with the Worcestershire Yeomanry, in which he held the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

The late Lord Dudley was born on May 25th, 1867, and was the son of the first Earl by his marriage with Georgina, daughter of Sir Thomas Moncrieffe, Bart. He succeeded to the title in 1885, and entered politics as a Conservative. He was Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade from 1895 until 1902, when he became Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, an office which he held until 1906. Under the Liberal Government Lord Dudley acted as chairman of the Royal Commission on Congestion in Ireland.

In 1908 he was appointed Governor-General of Australia, and held that responsible position until 1911. He was the owner of extensive estates in Staffordshire and Worcestershire, including some 30,000 acres of rich mineral land, and several large iron works. He also possessed large estates in Jamaica, and in consequence took a keen interest in West Indian affairs. He had travelled extensively, and his knowledge of the Empire was both broad and intimate.

Lord Dudley was a most enthusiastic sportsman, and one of the outstanding figures of his time in the hunting field, on the Turf, and as a yachtsman. He was for a time Master of the Worcestershire Hounds, and was a noted owner of racehorses.

During the Boer War he served on the staff of Earl Roberts, and gained several distinctions, and in the Great War he served with the Worcestershire Yeomanry in Gallipoli and Egypt, being for a time attached to the Headquarters Staff of the 40th Division.

It was on his return from the Boer War that Lord Dudley was appointed to the Viceroyalty of Ireland, which was the most important period of his varied career. Had he been in a position to enter upon a career in the House of Commons he would probably have achieved a greater reputation, but his succession to a peerage at the age of nineteen debarred him from that. The manner in which he conducted his official duties at the Board of Trade brought him the notice of his chiefs, and he attracted much attention by the able manner in which he defended the famous "Contracting-out" clause of the Workmen's Compensation Act in the House of Lords.

THE CASTLE SYSTEM.

It was this, and, perhaps, also the fact that he had married a beautiful and talented lady, that led to his appointment to the Viceroyalty of Ireland by Mr. Arthur Balfour (later Lord Balfour) in 1902.

At the moment of Lord Dudley's appointment to the office of Lord Lieutenant the leaders of the Conservative Party had come to realise that if the "Castle System" was to be maintained it must be brought into more intimate association with the Irish people. That, perhaps, was the reason for his appointment, as also for the appointment of the late George Wyndham as Chief Secretary, with a seat in the Cabinet. At a later stage they were joined by the late Sir Anthony MacDonnell (Lord MacDonnell of Swinford at a later date) in the position of Under-Secretary.

Immediately upon their arrival in Dublin Lord and Lady Dudley set themselves vigorously to the task of making the Viceregal Lodge "popular." They entertained lavishly, and Lady Dudley, in particular, set herself to works of charity, some of which bear her name to this day. Lord Dudley rather scandalised some people early in his Viceregal career by announcing that Ireland would be governed "according to Irish ideas," and many Unionists regarded the new policy with considerable doubt and suspicion. The Nationalists were, at least, as doubtful, particularly when they began to hear the talk of "Killing Home Rule by kindness." The success of the Land Conference and the acceptance of its report as the basis of his land policy by Mr. Wyndham, gained the approval of the farmers, and the famous Land Act of 1903 reached the Statute Book, amid general rejoicings. It was in this atmosphere of peace and good-will that King Edward VII. and Queen Alexandra visited Ireland in the summer of 1903, and the immense success of that visit was attributed in large measure to the tact and popularity of Lord Dudley.

STUDYING IRELAND.

Lord and Lady Dudley had spent the time between their arrival in Ireland and the date of the Royal visit in making themselves familiar with Ireland and the Irish people. They travelled extensively in all parts of the country, took a marked interest in the cottage industries of the West, and Lady Dudley organised those district nurses who visit the sick poor in remote districts.

As one Connaught observer said at the time: "They didn't go to the big houses of their acquaintances; for they knew the landlords' views already. They gathered information from the blacksmith, the village tradesman, the rural constable, the postman and the cottager." Lord Dudley would sit up of nights with the parish priest getting to know the truth about Ireland as no Lord Lieutenant ever knew it before. He would even dance with the country girls at the cross-roads on Sunday, and go around the cottages expressing learned opinions as to the value of the family pig. When he returned to Dublin he had made hosts of friends everywhere, and there was hardly a phase of Irish life with which he was unfamiliar.

In all this Lord Dudley was ably seconded by his wife, who was one of the charming daughters of Charles Gurney, the London banker, who had been adopted by the Duke and Duchess of Bedford after her father's death. She had been married eleven years when Lord Dudley came to Ireland, and was the mother of several young children. She became so greatly attached to the West of Ireland that she was associated with it to the end of her life. For a time they lived at Rockingham, Boyle, and thus further established a connection with Ireland which had grown stronger with the passage of time. She met her death in a drowning accident while bathing with her family on the coast of Connaught in 1920.

DEVOLUTION.

Those who had worked with Lord Dudley and George Wyndham for the settlement of the land problem pressed them to carry the process farther. These men had projects for a partial measure of Home Rule, which came to be known as "Devolution." As the rumour of Dudley and Wyndham's connection with this idea became public property, and as Sir Anthony MacDonnell was known to be favourably disposed to it also, "the rotten, sickly policy of conciliation" was denounced. Thrown over by his party chief, Wyndham resigned and was succeeded by Mr. Walter Long (afterwards Lord Long). Lord Dudley remained until after the general election of 1905 had swept his party from office, and he was succeeded by the Earl of Aberdeen, with a new policy.

So much has happened since 1906 that any speculation upon the possible success of the Dudley-Wyndham-MacDonnell ideas of "Devolution" is now futile. It is sufficient to record that, for his work in Ireland, Lord and Lady Dudley retained in large measure the affection they had won, and his death will now bring mournful memories to many of the generation which knew them and their work in all parts of Ireland.

In 1924 Lord Dudley married, as his second wife, Miss Gertie Millar, who was one of the most popular actresses on the London stage. Part of the honeymoon was spent at Lord Dudley's fishing lodge in Connemara, but their visits there had been few of recent years. Failing health compelled residence in the milder climate of the Riviera.

Lord Dudley is succeeded by his son, Viscount Ednam, M.P., a great friend of the Prince of Wales. He is thirty-eight years of age. His wife, who was a sister of the Duke of Sutherland, was killed in the Meopham (Kent) air crash in 1930, when Lord Dufferin and Ava also met his death.

The death of Lord Dudley causes a Parliamentary vacancy at Wednesbury, which Lord Ednam has represented as a Conservative since the 1931 general election, when he gained a majority of 4,156 over his Labour opponent.

LONDON LETTER.

GERMANY'S DEMANDS.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Herr von Papen's dramatic announcement of Germany's demands is regarded here as the virtual ending of the Lausanne Conference. The insistence by the German Government upon revision of the disarmament and other discriminatory clauses of the Versailles Treaty is a frontal attack on the stronghold of France's foreign policy, which is the preservation of the peace treaties at all costs. If, by any chance, M. Herriot were to give way to Herr von Papen on this point, he would be dismissed by the Chamber of Deputies at the earliest possible moment. There is now only one chance of salvation for the Conference, and that is action by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald; but at the moment there appears to be little that he can do in the face of the German attitude. In diplomatic circles to-day the Lausanne Conference is regarded, to all intents and purposes, as at an end, even though it may be suspended for the time being.

The Economic Conference.

The manifest difficulties in the way of the World Economic Conference which it is proposed to hold in London in the autumn have not been removed by the developments at Lausanne and Geneva. If satisfactory progress had been made with plans in the matter of reparations and disarmament, the way would have been cleared for the World Conference. It would have opened in September—by this time the Assembly of the League of Nations, would have been included—but now the position is uncertain. The constitution of the World Conference will differ from the meeting now being held at Lausanne, inasmuch as it will include the ex-neutral Powers of Europe and the principal South American Republics, which have no concern in the proceedings at Lausanne.

Indian Problems.

It is said in political circles that some weeks may pass before Mr. Ramsay Macdonald is able to come to a decision on the question of communal representation in the proposed Indian Constitution. A mass of information has been gathered for him at the India Office, and it is on this that Mr. Macdonald will decide; but so many and varied are the details to be submitted to him that his task is regarded as most unenviable. The setting up of a Joint Select Committee of both Houses of Parliament, which will have power to review any proposals for the new Constitution, reveals that Parliament will be able to play a great part in the Government's Indian policy, and steps will be taken to induce the Government to select representatives of all shades of opinion on the Committee.

Irish Poplin in France.

Action is being taken in France to end a trade practice harmful to Irish industry. This is the habit of describing all poplin goods displayed for sale as "Popeline Anglaise," even when the articles are undoubtedly of Irish origin. At one time much the same practice was followed with linen, but representatives of the Northern Irish linen trade took exception to the use of the word "English" as prejudicial to the manufacture for which the Belfast district is famed, and now the correct description "Irish linen" is applied by the more reputable stores. In the case of poplin there was no organisation with a similar interest in making the correction, but it is stated that action has been taken through the Irish Legation in Paris, and that the police, who have jurisdiction in the matter, will take action for wrong description against any offender, if Irish residents or others interested can be induced to "lay an information," or its French equivalent.

"Without My Cloak."

At the Æolian Hall this afternoon the Irish authoress, Miss Kate O'Brien, received the Hawthornden Prize, which consists of a purse of money and an illuminated address, for her novel, "Without My Cloak." The Hawthornden Prize Committee, which includes Mr. J. B. Priestley, Mr. J. C. Squire and Miss Warrender, considers the novel to be the best imaginative work published during the past year. It is interesting to record the fact that Miss O'Brien had her novel accepted by the publishers on the strength of the first eleven chapters, while before publication the Book Society made it its December choice, an action which assured a sale of ten thousand copies. "Without My Cloak" was a best seller as soon as it was published.

Westminster Abbey.

The Dean and Chapter of Westminster, compelled by circumstances, are proposing alterations inside and outside the Abbey, which, unlike the proposal to erect a sacristy outside the south entrance, may not arouse opposition among the architects or the public. A big crypt near the Chapter House, now used as a museum, will be converted into a sacristy, where the many treasures of the Abbey can be kept in safety and decency. A new cloister is also proposed to the south-east of the Abbey, between the Chapter House and the old Palace Yard, where memorials for great men may be placed in future. There is no longer room for memorials in the Abbey, since the space on the walls is entirely filled. Burials, too, are no longer possible, and only ashes in urns are permitted, in an extremely restricted space. Plans for the new cloister have been prepared, but they must be approved by several authorities before they can be carried out.

Free State Produce.

An exhibition of Free State goods, which Mr. Dulanty, the High Commissioner, recently opened at Sheffield, has just concluded, having proved a great success. Sales of samples of eggs, butter, tinned cream and Carrageen moss ran into several thousands, and altogether the amount of interest displayed was extremely gratifying. In pursuance of his policy, the High Commissioner is staging an exhibit at the Aldershot Horse Show, which opened to-day and will continue until Saturday next.

The British Fruit Crop.

Most of the British fruit crops are likely to be below the average this year, and the estimates of the Ministry of Agriculture, which will be published in the next few days, are expected to indicate that apples and pears will be below the normal yield. The plum crop, however, is expected to be not far below the average for the past few years. Cherries will be a disappointing crop this year. Unfavourable weather in the early period has hindered their development, while damage has been done by excessive rains after the fruit had been formed.

June.

The present month has been the driest June recorded at Greenwich since 1925; the total rainfall for the month has amounted to less than a quarter of an inch. The total sunshine at Kew has exceeded that for last June by some thirty hours. At Greenwich June is the third driest June during the past ninety years. Rain has fallen only on three days—the 4th, 5th and 28th—and, though there was a shower yesterday, it was not measurable. In London to-day it was very fine and warm, though there was a great deal of cloud. The outlook, however, remains fine.

BRITAIN PREPARES TO TAX FREE STATE EXPORTS.

BILL MAY BE INTRODUCED NEXT MONDAY.

THE REFUSAL TO PAY LAND ANNUITIES.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Wednesday.

IT was scarcely expected that the Cabinet, at its weekly meeting to-day, in the absence of the Prime Minister and other important members of the Government, would reach a decision that is epoch-marking regarding Ireland, and, as a matter of fact, it was thought at first that any important decision would have awaited the return of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald.

> It was strongly rumoured this evening, however, that a bill is to be brought in next Monday which will impose duties on Irish imports, possibly to the amount required to pay the Irish land annuities, which is three millions per annum.

In the Lobby this evening the rumour was circulated, members being inclined to approve, as it was pointed out that the sanctity of the agreement on this point has never really been impugned.

It is expected that, as a matter of courtesy, Mr. Thomas will inform the Free State Government as to any decision which may have been reached, and, in such circumstances, Mr. de Valera will have several days' breathing space to consider his position. Hopes are still entertained that an arrangement may yet be reached.

Mr. Baldwin is expected to announce, in the House of Commons to-morrow, the intention of the Government to introduce legislation immediately, giving the Government powers to collect the debt from Irish goods imported into Great Britain.

A bill will probably be introduced into the House of Commons next week, and passed through all its stages without delay as emergency legislation.

QUESTION OF ARBITRATION.

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

Rumours were current in Dublin last evening to the effect that urgent steps are about to be taken by the British Government to reimburse the Treasury for the loss of the Free State land annuities by putting a tax immediately on Irish products.

Admittedly, as from to-day, if the annuities for the half-year are not transmitted to the British Government, the Free State will be a defaulter; but it must also be remembered that a proposal for arbitration is actually under discussion between London and Dublin. The British Government has suggested a Dominion Tribunal and the Free State, while accepting the principle of arbitration, at least tentatively, has indicated that a Tribunal of this kind is not acceptable. President de Valera has suggested that the personnel should not be confined to the Dominions.

NEGOTIATIONS PENDING.

The British Government insists on the original conditions, and so far no further rejoinder has been sent form this side. Until these negotiations have been declared off finally, it is thought unlikely that the British Government would proceed to take extreme measures.

On the other hand, it is very probable that the delay which has taken place in sending a reply to the last Note of Mr. J. H. Thomas, the Dominions' Minister, might be interpreted as a final rejection of the proposal. On this point no information was available in Dublin beyond the fact that up to last evening no reply had been sent.

CATTLE AND GOODS.

The report current last night was to the effect that a bill to impose a tax on Free State cattle and other produce going into British ports would be introduced in the House of Commons next Monday and steps taken to put it through all its stages in a few days.

There was a long meeting of the Free State Executive Council at Government Buildings last night, but no statement was issued at its conclusion.

TO-DAY IN THE DAIL.

THE OATH BILL.

To-day both the Dail and Senate will meet. The Oath Bill, on its return from the Senate, will be on the order paper, but whether it will be taken to-day or not will not be known until the President indicates the order of business at the opening of the sitting. A tentative arrangement had been made that the Finance Bill in committee would be taken to-day, to-morrow and Tuesday, and if this is carried out the Oath Bill would hardly be taken, for the reason that the motion to disagree with the Senate amendments to that measure would open the way for what might easily be a long debate.

THE SHANNON BILL.

A good deal of interest is being taken in the new bill for the extension of the Shannon electricity works at Ardnacrusha, which, it is believed, will be introduced to-day by Mr. Sean Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce. An outline of what the bill is likely to contain, published yesterday, excited some surprise. Indeed, it seemed, according to this, that in several respects the Government were about to reverse previous policy in regard to the Shannon scheme. Inquiry in authoritative quarters, however, elicited the information that the Government's intentions had been misrepresented.

MONEY-LENDERS BILL.

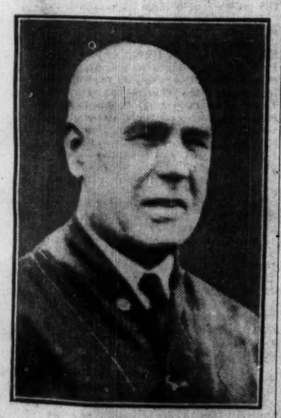

The Moneylenders' Bill, which was introduced on Tuesday in the Dail, was circulated yesterday. In all respects the text of the bill is identical with the bill introduced last year and referred to a select committee. The bill will come up for second reading next Tuesday, and its progress through both Houses will probably be expedited by the Government.

DEATH OF MR. P. GOOD.

RESULT OF YACHTING ACCIDENT.

We much regret to announce the death of Mr. Peter Good, of Sydenham, Merrion road, Dublin, which took place under sad circumstances in Dublin Bay yesterday afternoon, in view of his two brothers, Mr. John Good, T.D., and Mr. Mathew Good, LL.D.

The three brothers were well-known amateur yachtsmen and formed part of the crew of the yacht Lady Edith, the property of Mr. John Good, T.D., which was competing in the yacht races promoted by the Royal Irish Yacht Club.

When the Lady Edith got within half a mile of the South Burford Buoy, she ran into a stiff, squally wind and heavy seas. She was tacking to port, lying well over, when she was struck by a sea. Mr. Peter Good was standing in the cockpit, and the lurch caused by the heavy sea threw him overboard.

The Lady Edith was at once put round and manœuvred to get back to where Mr. Good was swimming in a very heavy sea. After much difficulty she reached to within twenty or thirty yards of him, but failed to get nearer.

Mr. Good disappeared between the seas, and it was half an hour before he was sighted again. He was picked up and brought with all haste ashore, but Dr. Cope, who was awaiting, the yacht's arrival, pronounced life extinct. The body was conveyed to Monkstown Hospital, where an inquest will be held to-day.

When the cause of the yacht's return to Dun Laoghaire became known it caused consternation afloat as well as ashore. The late Mr. Good, like his brothers, had been sailing all his life, having graduated as a yachtsman in half-raters, the one-raters and the 25-footers, and later in the cruising class.

HIS INTEREST IN CHARITY.

Well known in commercial circles in Dublin, Mr. Good was a member of the firm of Messrs. J. and P. Good, Ltd., building contractors, and, though he took no part in the public life of the city, he was a very valuable asset to the several charitable institutions with which he was associated. Particularly will he be missed by the Governors of the Masonic Female Orphan School, to which body he has acted as honorary secretary for some years. The orphans of his brethren in Freemasonry were very dear to the heart of Mr. Good, and attention to their welfare occupied most of his spare time.

LONDON-OTTAWA AIR MAIL.

FOUR DAYS' SERVICE DURING CONFERENCE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

OTTAWA, Wednesday.

A four-day mail service between London and Ottawa—the fastest trans-Atlantic service on record—was inaugurated last night, when an aeroplane arrived here with mail picked up from the Canadian Pacific liner, Empress of Britain, in the Strait of Belle Isle, Newfoundland, about 1,000 miles from Ottawa.

About 215lb. of mail were transferred to the 'plane from the steamer, which left England on Friday. Part was landed in Montreal to be taken by aeroplane to New York, and the rest was available to recipients here to-night.

The arrangement will continue for the duration of the Imperial Conference. Mail from Ottawa to London will also be delivered by aeroplane to outgoing steamers at Belle Isle.

RELIGION IN IRELAND.

CHARGE OF INTOLERANCE.

A LONDON MEETING.

THE TRUTH ABOUT ST. PATRICK.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Wednesday.

AT a united Protestant demonstration held in the Kingsway Hall, London, to-night, under the auspices of the United Protestant Council, reference was made to the Dublin Eucharistic Congress and to the commemoration of the 1,500th anniversary of St. Patrick's mission to Ireland.

The notice convening the meeting stated that the determined efforts of Mr. de Valera and his followers to repudiate the covenant made between Britain and the Irish Free State had raised feelings of deep concern, not only at home, but throughout the Empire, and these feelings were, of course, most acute amongst the loyalist Irish people living in the Irish Free State and in Northern Ireland.

The notice added that, in connection with the spectacular celebration of the Eucharistic Congress, a special endeavour would be made by Rome to deepen and extend the false belief that Patrick—the evangelist of Ireland—was an emissary of the Pope and the teacher of Roman doctrines and practices.

IF ROME WERE ESTABLISHED.

The chairman, Commander R. G. Studd, D.S.O., R.N. (retired), said that they were meeting to demonstrate their sympathy with their Protestant brethren in Ireland and to show that they were still proud of being Protestants. Referring to the Eucharistic Congress, he said that, despite its magnificence, he was still an unrepentant Protestant.

"We have had," he went on, "a glimpse of what would happen in this country if Rome were ever established in this country. Do not let us forget that some of the chief actors in last week's drama are men who are unblushingly repudiating the most solemn obligations entered into by their country with ours."

The Rev. T. C. Hammond, Superintendent of the Irish Church Missions, Dublin, said: "There are periods in the history of truth when her adherents find themselves sadly out-numbered. They had to forego the psychological stimulus occasioned by mass movements. That is the position in which the Protestants of Southern Ireland find themselves. A striking instance of this fact was afforded on the Saturday preceding Congress Week in Dublin. An earnest man conceived the idea of distributing copies of the Gospel according to St. John in the streets. He was warned, I believe, by a Civic Guard that his action was in contravention of a police regulation. At any rate, he was set upon by a crowd. His bundle of Gospels were used to beat him on the head. The entire stock was confiscated, torn to pieces, and publicly burned."

"We were told by the Irish Times on Monday last, continued Mr. Hammond, that Ireland is an oasis of faith in a world of unbelief. Perhaps it is, though it does not always appear to be so. But the faith of Protestant Ireland cannot brook so grave a misconception of the Gospel story as the proceedings of Congress Week portrayed."

WHAT ST. PATRICK WROTE.

The Venerable W. S. Kerr, Archdeacon of Dromore, spoke on the "appeal to history, with special reference to St. Patrick." He said that St. Patrick had left writings behind him—the oldest documents in British history.

"In them you find no reference whatever to the Bishop of Rome, affirmed the Archdeacon. This is more than an argument from silence. Patrick is writing because his position in Ireland is challenged. Had he Papal authority, and was Papal authority set store on then, it would have been the natural thing to adduce it. He is equally silent about devotion to the Virgin and to the saints and purgatory and confession and other Roman doctrines of later growth. The history of his Church, and the old British Church, shows vividly how nothing was known of Rome being sovereign head of the whole Church.

"A civic welcome was given in Dublin last week to the Legate of the Pope," continued the Archdeacon. No Papal Legate was known in Ireland until Gilbert, Bishop of the Danish See of Limerick, in the twelfth century. History, the guide of life, shows us that our Irish Church was only in subjection to Rome for a space of less than 400 years—from 1152 until the Reformation."

ULSTER'S NARROW MARGIN.

The Rev. F. C. Gibson, of Belfast, Superintendent of the Irish Mission of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, said they were confronted with the fact that Protestantism represented only 27 per cent. of the entire population of Ireland. This was a fact which those who spoke of the absurdities of the border and the advantage of a united Ireland would do well to consider. A united Ireland would mean a Roman Catholic Ireland, in which Protestantism would be only a very small minority.

"When we take Southern Ireland, embracing three-quarters of Ireland, we are faced with the alarming fact that Protestantism has been reduced to 7.4 per cent., and that influence and forces are at work which are tending still further to reduce this already alarmingly small minority. In Northern Ireland we find that Protestants number 66.5 of the entire population, which means that we hold our present Protestant ascendancy in Northern Ireland by a margin of 16 per cent. The elimination of that 16 per cent. majority would mean the realisation of the aims of the Church of Rome—namely, a Roman Catholic Ireland.

It was time, he said, that they as evangelical Protestants should awake to the serious possibility in the present situation, and do what they could to arrest this Romanising propaganda before it was too late.

RAIL AND ROAD TRANSPORT.

QUESTION OF LEGISLATION.

Replying, in the House of Commons, to Mr. Wedgwood (Labour, Newcastle-under-Lyme), who asked whether, in view of the passing of the dividend on London, Midland and Scottish Preference Stock, which was a trustee stock, legislation would be introduced to equalise the burdens between rail and road transport,

Mr. Pybus, Minister of Transport, said he had referred the question of the burdens borne by road and rail transport, respectively, to a conference of leading representatives of the two forms of transport, to be presided over by an independent chairman. He must await their report before considering, in conjunction with highway authorities and other interests concerned, whether legislation was desirable. He expected that the report would be received about the end of July.

£1,000,000 FOR HOUSING.

FREE STATE'S SCHEME.

URBAN AND RURAL GRANTS.

GRANTS to private persons, public utility societies and local authorities in respect of housing are the outstanding feature of the Free State Government's new Housing Bill, the text of which was issued yesterday.

The total amount available for grants will be £700,000. Altogether the bill will make available for housing a sum of £1,000,000.

The following are among the grants specified:—

To any person or utility society erecting one or more houses in an urban or rural area, if the erection is commenced after 1st April, 1929, but before the 12th May, 1932, and completed before 31st December, 1932 ..... £45

If commenced on or after 12th May, 1932, and completed before 1st April, 1933 ..... £70

If commenced on or after 12th May, 1932, and completed after 1st April, 1933, but before 1st April, 1934 ..... £60

If commenced on or after 12th May, 1932, and completed on or after 1st April, 1934, but before 1st April, 1935 ..... £50

To any person (other than an agricultural labourer) who derives his livelihood solely or mainly from the pursuit of agriculture who erects a house in a rural area which is commenced on or before May 12th, 1932, and completed before 1st April, 1935:

(1) If in occupation of agricultural land not rated at over £15... £70

(2) If rated at over £15 and not exceeding £25 ..... £60

To an agricultural labourer erecting a house for his own occupation, the erection of which was commenced on or after 12th May and completed before 1st April, 1935 ..... £70

To a public utility society for erecting a house for a person other than an agricultural labourer, but who derives his livelihood from agriculture, which was begun on 12th May and completed on or before 1st April, 1935, a grant of £80 if the valuation does not exceed £15; or £70 if the valuation exceeds £15, but does not exceed £25.

For the erection of a house for an agricultural labourer, if commenced on 12th May, 1932, and completed by 1st April, 1935 ..... £80

To an agriculturist for reconstructing his house in a rural area, provided the rateable values do not exceed £26, and that the reconstruction was commenced on 12th May, 1932, and completed before 1st April, 1935 ..... £40

UTILITY SOCIETIES.

Under certain conditions a grant of two-ninths of the cost, or £100, is to be given to utility societies for the erection of houses in urban areas.

In regard to this provision there are several exceptions to which the grant will not apply.

Under Section 6 the Minister may make contributions to the annual loan charges of local authorities, not exceeding 66⅔ per cent. of such loan charges, where the Minister is satisfied that the houses have been provided for the accommodation of persons displaced by the operations of a local authority under the Housing of the Working Classes Acts; or 33⅓ per cent. in other cases.

Grants or contributions to local loan charges made to a person or public utility society, or a local authority, shall be paid in the prescribed manner and at prescribed times.

Urban authorities may make to a public utility society a grant not exceeding one-ninth of the cost of the provision of a house, or £50, whichever shall be the lesser.

POWERS OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

Local authorities shall have powers for raising expenses and of borrowing money similar to those provided under the Housing of the Working Classes Acts. Such authorities will be empowered to remit rates in the first nineteen years, beginning in the first year with nineteen-twentieths, and decreasing each year by one-twentieth.

Section 11 provides an increase in the aggregate amount of grants under the Housing Acts, 1925 to 1930. It states:—

"In lieu of Section 61 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1931 (No. 50 of 1931), repealed by this Act, it is hereby enacted that the aggregate amount of grants made or to be made under Section 3 of the Housing Act, 1925 (No. 12 of 1925), as amended by Section 3 of the Housing Act, 1928 (No. 31 of 1928), together with the aggregate amount of the grants made or to be made under Section 3 of the Housing Act, 1929 (No. 12 of 1929), shall not exceed the sum of one million three hundred and thirteen thousand pounds."

LIMITATION OF PRICES.

The Minister will have power to limit prices of building materials after a public inquiry if he is satisfied that the costs in any particular area are excessive.

In the event of the Minister being satisfied that a local authority has defaulted in the exercise of its powers under the various Housing Acts, he may order it to exercise such powers, and in the event of failure may invest himself with, and exercise, such powers as may be necessary to remedy the default.

Additional powers are conferred on Boards of Health as to the leasing of land under the Labourers Acts, 1883 to 1931.

A schedule provides that the floor area of a house shall not be less than 500 square feet, nor more than 1,250 square feet, and that a house shall contain at least three rooms.

POLICE FIRE ON MOBS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BOMBAY, Wednesday.

Two persons were killed and ninety injured in pitched battles between Hindus and Moslems which went on to-day in North Bombay, and necessitated the police opening fire on four separate occasions.

The rioting is taking the gravest turn, and casualties are mounting up.

In the North Gardens area the police fired fifteen rounds on a defiant Hindu mob, and eight persons were injured. Four rioters were wounded in earlier firing.

Panic prevails, and all shops are closed in the area affected.

FELL INTO LIFFEY.

Shortly after one o'clock this morning a respectably dressed woman was seen by two men sitting on the wall of the River Liffey, about twenty yards from O'Connell Bridge, and as they approached she appeared to fall into the river. From a hand-bag left behind she seems to have been a visitor from a London suburb. The police were immediately informed, and Guards from the College Police Station began dragging operations and retrieved the woman's coat. At three o'clock this morning the body had not been recovered.

MR. MACDONALD'S TOUCH.

CONFERENCE TO CONTINUE.

TALKS DIVERTED TO NEW CHANNELS.

GERMANY AND TREATY OF VERSAILLES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LAUSANNE, Wednesday.

THE Lausanne Conference is to continue. Just when the negotiations seemed on the point of breaking up Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, the president of the Conference, succeeded in diverting the work of the delegates into new channels.

The crisis took a dramatic turn this morning when the German delegation, to correct an impression conveyed by French reports of yesterday's meeting between the delegations, issued the following statement:—

When in the course of yesterday's meeting of the British, French and German delegations Mr. Macdonald asked the German Chancellor whether he could not do something to bring about a final solution, the German Chancellor replied:

"The confidence of the world can only be restored if the victorious Powers decide to remove the discriminations of the Treaty of Versailles.

"When they thus restore Germany's right to equality and establish security, the German Chancellor would hold it possible that Germany should make a contribution to the common effort to rehabilitate the economic structure of the world. Such payment would only depend on the complete restoration of economic equilibrium in Germany and the world."

COMMITTEES SET UP.

In a further attempt at mediation Mr. Macdonald met the German Chancellor and M. Herriot in private this afternoon, and having called a meeting of the six inviting Powers he made an important statement to them, as a result of which a Bureau, or Executive Committee, and a Commercial Commission were set up, both of which immediately got to work.

The Bureau, which will consist of one delegate from each inviting Power, will examine the problem of reparations. It will draw up plans for the work of the Conference and extend the basis of the present conversations.

The Commercial Commission will study the economic problems and prepare the ground for the big Economic Conference in the late autumn. It will not take decisions, but submit recommendations.

For the moment, therefore, the question of principle seems to have dropped into the background.

CHEERFUL DELEGATES.

The delegates were in cheerful mood when the meeting closed. Mr. Macdonald said that everything was going quite all right. One could not expect to push over a wall at the first attempt. One of the French delegates, asked whether the Conference would continue, replied, "It will continue more than ever."

The impression created by the manner in which the German statement was issued was somewhat unfortunate, but it has had no reaction.

When the meeting of the Powers opened, Mr. Macdonald recalled the twofold object of the Conference—to settle the problem of reparations, and then the economic and financial difficulties which are responsible for, and may prolong, the world crisis, and in order to have the United States taking part in the latter discussions it seemed better to settle reparations first.

He then spoke of the conversations he had been engaged in with the delegations. "These consultations, I emphasise, were informal, not of the nature of negotiation, but purely exploratory, so that we might get to very close grips with the problems when this body met and the plenary conference met.

POINTS OF AGREEMENT.

"Now, although I cannot, I am sorry to say, report to you that we have got a complete measure of agreement, we have got, I think, some agreements.

"There is general approval of the following paragraphs in the report of the Basle experts:—

Certain considerations seem to us of great importance

The first is that transfers from one country to another on a scale so large as to upset the balance of payments can only accentuate the present chaos.

It should also be borne in mind that the release of a debtor country from a burden of payments which it is unable to bear may merely have the effect of transferring that burden to a creditor country which, in its character as a debtor, it, in its turn, may be unable to bear.

Again, the adjustment of all inter-Governmental debts (reparations and other war debts) to the existing troubled situation of the world—and this adjustment should take place without delay if new disasters are to be avoided—is the only lasting steps capable of re-establishing confidence, which is the very condition of economic stability and real peace.

Finally, although the German Government is energetically defending the stability of its currency, these steps are necessary to secure that these measures shall have permanent effect.

"I think there is general agreement upon these considerations as the foundation of our work."

CLEARLY-DEFINED ISSUES.

After detailing further points of agreement, Mr. Macdonald said that they had brought the discussion of reparations down to very clearly defined issues, and that was why he had asked to be assisted by a committee. "We are now in a position to tell them what has been cleared away, and what they have got to clear away themselves, if they possibly can," he added.

Having referred to the limitation of time of the chief delegates, Mr. Macdonald concluded: "With all these clearances that have taken place—no decision as yet, but still a lot of spade work—I see no reason why we should not come to final decisions at Lausanne and set up the necessary machinery for continuing our work on a wider field, and getting into touch with America about representation, and so on. I see no reason why it could not be done at the beginning of next week."

NO DECISION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LAUSANNE, Thursday, 2 a.m.

The meeting of the Bureau of the Reparations and Debt Conference failed to reach a decision, and at fifty minutes after midnight an adjournment was made until 10 o'clock this morning.

WASHINGTON VETO.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.

The Senate, impressed by Senator Borah's pessimistic view of the Lausanne Conference, has rejected Mr. Hoover's request for a vote of 40,000 dollars to cover the expenses of United States delegates to the proposed International Economic Conference.

It agreed, however, to vote the sum to cover the expenses of United States participation in any world monetary conference that might be convened.

QUEEN TAILTE RETURNS TO DUBLIN.

TAILTEANN GAMES OPENED WITH PAGEANTRY.

CARDINAL MacRORY WELCOMES WORLD COMPETITORS.

SOMETHING of the historic glory of the Court of Tailte, Queen of Ireland, was revived in Croke Park, Dublin, yesterday afternoon, at the opening ceremony of the third revival within recent years of the games, first organised in 632 B.C. by Lugh Lamh-Fhada (Louis of the Long Arm) in honour of his foster-mother, Queen Tailte.

Nearly 10,000 people witnessed the parade of competitors, and heard the speech of His Eminence Cardinal MacRory.

PRESIDENT THROWS IN BALL.

Shortly before the proceedings were timed to start, President de Valera, accompanied by his son, arrived and was greeted with applause. He was met by the Director of the Games, Mr. J. J. Keane, and escorted to his place on the field. At the first glimpse of the scarlet-robed Cardinal the crowd rose and cheered lustily as he walked slowly down the strip of red carpet with the President and Mr. Keane to right and left of him.

A fanfare of trumpets sounded as the leaders of the pageant of Tailte arrived at the gates of the park, and within a few moments the crowd beheld a young man clad in skin garments leading a large Irish wolfhound.

Immediately behind him came a reminder of more recent glories in the persons of three ex-world's champions of sport—Mr. Peter O'Connor, Mr. Denis Carey, and Mr. T. F. Kiely, the latter carrying the Free State tricolour.

The veterans were, at first, recognised only by the older members of the crowd, but as soon as their identity got whispered abroad a salvo of cheers greeted them as they marched. At their side walked Captain Byrne, of the Army School of Gymnastics, chief marshal of the procession.

Massed bands of Irish pipers, with the Black Raven standard at their head, led the members of Tailte's Court into the arena. The glory that was Ireland, a young giant with sun-tanned limbs, Lugh Lamh-Fhada, preceded them. All the splendour of their Court robes was revealed as Queen Tailte, her hand-maidens, druids and warriors extended their right arms in salute to Cardinal MacRory. They made a picturesque showing as they passed.

PARADE OF ATHLETES.

Next came a parade of more than a thousand Athletes of Irish extraction, who have come from various parts of the world to participate in the Games. There were competitors for every contest—from art and letters to Irish dancing and tug-o'-war.

The many small entrants in the Irish dancing competitions delighted the spectators. Tall children and short children—all intermingled and wearing national dress—the smallest being obliged at times to "trip a light fantastic toe" in order to keep up with the longer strides of their elders. The parade over, the processionists drew up before the Cardinal.

Then in a distant corner of the field a choir of 300 voices broke into the song of welcome, "Failte Romhaib go hEireann." An Irish war song followed, "Bright Sun," after which the entire gathering joined in singing Moore's melody, "Let Erin Remember," the strains of which had been struck up by the band of the Civic Guards, conducted by Superintendent Delaney. The musical interlude closed with the "Soldier's Song," played by No. 1 Army Band, under Lieutenant Doyle, and sung with fervour by the entire gathering.

CARDINAL'S ADDRESS.

Cardinal MacRory, facing an array of microphones for broadcasting and sound films, delivered the inaugural address.

"My friends," he said, "this is a magnificent and inspiring scene, and one well calculated to fill us with national pride. Dublin, these days, is a city to be envied. Here you are opening a national festival that will last nearly a fortnight—and that only two days since the end of one of the greatest religious celebrations the world has ever witnessed. Yes, the Congress was marvellous in its magnitude, its organisation, its order and its devotion. We are all deeply indebted to His Grace Dr. Byrne, the Archbishop of Dublin, and the various organising committees, for their indefatiguable labours, to which the Congress owes its success.

"The celebrations have given joy to our people, North, South, East and West. It has rejoiced the heart of the Apostolic Legate, Cardinal Lauri, and it has already filled with gladness Our Holy Father, Pope Pius XI., and, please God, it will make deeper and more fervent the love of our people for Jesus Christ in the Blessed Eucharist, Sacrifice and Sacrament.

"And now we are entering on this great festival of athletics, and it is my privilege to extend, on behalf of the organising committee, the heartiest of welcomes to all who have come to patronise these games, whether they be competitors or spectators. In particular, I do so to the competitors from other countries. I hope that they will have a pleasant and a happy time during their visit, and that they will experience to the full the hospitality and geniality for which the Irish are famed."

ANTIQUITY OF THE AONACH.

The Cardinal paid a tribute to the great work which the organising committee was accomplishing in setting out to revive Ireland's ancient culture and athletic prowess The Aonach, he said, were the oldest organised games known either in history or legend, and were believed even to have ante-dated the great Olympic Games of Greece. It was a coincidence, he remarked, that the year 1169, the first in which the Normans invaded the Irish shores, was the year in which the Games ceased, and they were not revived until 1924.

"It is a noble and a patriotic thing that the Organising Committee are doing," continued the Cardinal, "in reviving the games of our forefathers. They will quicken our national pride, a thing which is not at all undesirable, and they bring together the scattered millions of the Gaels."

Turning to the competitors, Cardinal MacRory wished them "thrilling contests," and reminded them that "the man who can well bear defeat has as fine a moral character as the greatest victor."

SCOTCH AND IRISH TEAMS MEET

The crowd sent up a mighty roar as the Cardinal concluded his address.

The procession of the ancient Court of Tailte and the athletes of modern Ireland was then reformed, and the pipers played them off the field.

Headed by the band of the Artane Industrial School, the Scottish shinty team and the Irish hurling team took the field for the first contest of the Aonach Tailteann.

President de Valera followed them out to the centre and threw in the ball for the start of the match.

It was not necessary to be an expert on sport to appreciate the speed of the game. With the exception of ice hockey, I do not think there is a faster game than the combination of hurling and shinty such as the crowd watched at Croke Park last evening. To and fro the ball passed, the crowd roaring advice haphazardly, while an enthusiastic supporter dashed up and down the touch-line with a large bundle of shinty sticks under his arm in case a competitor should need a fresh one.

At the conclusion of the game a gymnastic display was given by the boys of the Artane School. It showed a high standard of training, both in discipline and athletics.

A Camoguidheacht match between the ladies of Leinster and Connaught concluded the afternoon's programme.

Last night several hundred people attended the Ceilidhe given in the Mansion House, Dublin, by the organisers of the Games to the competitors and foreign visitors.

THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

The very extensive issue of the "Irish Times" of Monday last, June 27, containing special reports and photographs of the concluding ceremonies of the Eucharistic Congress, was completely sold out on the day of publication.

At the request of many readers who were unable to obtain copies, it has now been decided to reprint the entire issue, as well as that of the "Weekly Irish Times," which, published on Tuesday, was also sold out within a few hours of publication.

The re-issues of both journals are available this morning.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

IRISH LAND ANNUITIES.

It is understood, says The Times, referring to the position created by the refusal of the Free State to pay land annuities, that the Government will ask Parliament to pass a measure giving the Treasury power to impose special duties on goods imported from Ireland, including live-stock and dairy produce, notwithstanding the provision in the Import Duties Act that all goods imported from the Dominions shall enter this country free of duty until November 15. As the bill will impose a tax, it is necessary for it to be preceded by a resolution in Committee of Ways and Means, and this resolution will be discussed on Monday. As it will be possible to have a full-dress debate on the resolution, it is hoped that the later stages of the resolution and of the bill will not take up very much time. At any rate, it is expected that the bill will be passed through all its stages in the Commons by Friday, July 8, and that it will be passed by the Upper House and receive the Royal Assent early in the following week.

It is understood that, even though the proposals may impose a tax on food, there has been no agreement to disagree in the Cabinet on the subject. Ministers feel that the attitude adopted by Mr. de Valera has left them no choice but to insist on the recovery of the sums due to this country by an alternative method.

DEMOCRATS' "WET" PLANK.

NO CANCELLATION OF WAR DEBTS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CHICAGO, Wednesday.

A straight Prohibition repeal plank has been adopted by the Democratic Convention Platform Committee.

The resolution was carried by 35 votes to 18 after the turning down of the Sub-Committee's reports recommending merely that the question of Prohibition be submitted to the States.

The second plank adopted is a declaration against the cancellation of war debts. This is not unexpected.

A verdict of death due to sunstroke as a result of playing in the hot sun without wearing a hat was returned at an inquest at Grimsby yesterday, on Harold Rowbotham (6). A doctor said that a post mortem examination showed signs consistent with sunstroke, and the boy's mother said he never wore a hat.

GRAIN-GROWERS DEMANDS.

CONTRACT SALE AND PRICE.

MORE RESTRICTION OF IMPORTS.

In order to make certain recommendations to the Government with regard to the present position of tillage farmers, a meeting of the Irish Grain Growers' Association was held in Dublin yesterday, Mr. B. W. Brasier, T.D., presiding.

Mr. Brasier said that the barley growers of the Free State were labouring under heavy disadvantages, and deserved the support of all sections of the community. In his opinion, all imports of barley and malt should be prohibited. The malting industry had been virtually killed by these unnecessary importations.

Fairs at the moment were very bad all over the country, and absurdly small prices were obtainable for cattle, sheep, lambs or pigs. A revival of tillage would, therefore, be very opportune.

CONTROL OF SEED WHEAT.

Mr. B. W. Henderson proposed the first resolution:—"That this conference of grain growers desires to impress on the Minister of Agriculture the desirability of embodying in the promised wheat cultivation legislation a clause obliging flour millers and growers to adopt the contract system for the cultivation and ultimate of the grain, on similar lines to that adopted in the sugar beet industry; a clause to give control of the originating supply of seed wheat to the Department of Agriculture's plant-breeding division, and a clause providing for the setting up of a committee comprising equal numbers nominated by the Department of Agriculture, the flour millers, and the growers to deal with all matters concerning seed wheat supply, or any other matters submitted by the parties to the contract."

It had been contended, he said, that the wheat hitherto grown in Ireland was unsuitable for flour, but he was satisfied that several new varieties had lately been established which would be quite suitable. No time should be lost in putting these steps into practice, for the harvest would be over in a few months' time, and the farmers would be deciding what they were going to do with their land.

Mr. Hyland (Leix) seconded.

Mr. Brasier proposed the following motion—"That we believe an economic price will not be paid for malting barley unless the Government's own scheme of restricting imports of barley and malt to the ascertained percentage essential to the successful carrying on of the brewing industry be adopted, and that a special rebate of 5s. off the excise duty be given to brewers who use only Irish barley, and malt made from Irish barley, for which £1 per barrel has been paid to the grower."

KILLED BY TAXES.

The price of barley, he said, had been high during the war period, but at present, although the price of liquor was at the same level as then, barley prices had fallen very low. The Government, by maintaining their revenue from the liquor industry, had almost succeeded in killing both it and the industries allied to it, of which barley-growing was one. This motion was intended to encourage small brewers in the use of Irish barley.

There was no excuse, he said, for the recent neglect of tillage. The farmer was hard put to it to pay his rates and land annuities owing to an excessive valuation based on prices he had received formerly. In his opinion, a great deal of the difficulties which had arisen in connection with the annuities was due to the obstacles which had been placed in the way of the tillage farmer.

Mr. J. J. Bergin seconded the motion, and Mr. Henderson, supporting it, drew attention to the large fortunes which had been left by some manufacturers. This, he said, went to show that the barley-grower was not receiving a fair price from them.

MAIZE PRODUCTS.

Mr. Bergin proposed the next motion:—"That an increase of the tillage area implies an increase in the available home market for grain; and, therefore, we ask the Minister for Agriculture to take steps before the coming harvest is put on the market to curtail the imports of maize, and we reiterate our demand for the adoption of a plan to have a definite percentage of home-grown grain products added to maize products before sale."

In regard to the latter portion of the motion, he said that the Grain Inquiry Tribunal had already refused to consider it, but their attitude in so doing had aroused a great deal of criticism, and he still thought the provision was a very important one. It would give an impetus to milling, and would not lead to any increase in price.

Mr. Henderson seconded, and the motion was passed unanimously.

Mr. Bergin proposed:—"That we request the Minister for Industry and Commerce to extend the proposed legislation for the control of industry so as to include in the list of punishable offences any act of persons or firms tending to restrict dealings in grain or grain products to particular persons or districts."

"CORNERING" MARKETS.

They had, he said, been promised legislation for the control of industry, and, he presumed, some provision would be made in it for the punishing of such activities as "profiteering" and cornering of markets. This should be applied also to the grain trade, which was in need of such protection. At present growers were confined to certain areas for the sale of their products, which meant that the local buyers had a monopoly, and could force down the prices.

Mr. Henderson seconded, and, the motion having been passed unanimously, it was decided to send copies of the resolutions to the various Ministers and to the deputies who represent tillage areas.

ERASMUS SMITH SCHOOLS' APPEAL.

The question of the hearing of the appeal from the judgment of Mr. Justice Meredith in the Erasmus Smith Endowment case was mentioned in the Supreme Court by Mr. Jellett, K.C., representing the appellants, the Governors of Erasmus Smith's Schools, who said that there had been some delay in the printing of the evidence owing to pressure of Government work, but that it would be lodged shortly. His clients were anxious that the appeal should be opened at least this term.

Mr. Gavan Duffy, K.C., representing the tenantry, said that his clients also were anxious that the case should be opened.

Mr. Tice, K.C., for the Attorney-General, said that his colleagues and himself were ready to go on.

The Chief Justice said that he would consult the President of the High Court about the fixing of a date for the hearing of the appeal.

SUNDAY CINEMA BILL.

NEED FOR STRICT ECONOMY.

FROM OUR PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT.

WESTMINSTER, Wednesday.

WHEN the Sunday Entertainments Bill was considered on report, Mr. Oliver Stanley (Under-Secretary to the Home Office) moved a new clause to provide for the establishment of a "Cinematograph Fund," under the direction and control of the Privy Council, for the purpose of encouraging the use and development of the cinematograph as a means of entertainment and instruction. The proposed clause, he explained, was not essential to the operation of the bill, and it would, therefore, be left to a free vote of the House. The machinery to be set up was simple. The Home Secretary would prescribe a certain percentage, up to 5 per cent., of the sum which local authorities decided should be given by the cinemas to charity. If, however, at any time the House decided that the experiment had failed, and that the work done was not of sufficient value to warrant the money being spent in the way proposed, it would come to an end.

He was informed that the main objections to the opening of cinemas on Sundays was the type of film shown. Whatever the cinemas were going to give them—educational films, tragedy, comedy, or farce, "crook" play, or romantic drama—it should at least be the best of its kind.

On a division, the clause was added to the bill by 186 votes to 168.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

VISCOUNT SNOWDEN ON ECONOMY.

The House of Lords this evening concluded a two-days' debate on the economy motion submitted last week by Lord Hunsdon. The feature of to-day's discussion was a speech from Lord Snowden, who warned their lordships that it was the easiest thing in the world to talk economy in the abstract. The difficulties began when they tried to make economies. The efforts of the Government to secure economy had hardly been sufficiently appreciated. They had, in fact, done a great deal, and indeed had done more in the short time they had been in office than any previous Government. They had effected a total economy in this year's Budget of not less than 79 millions. Fifty millions had been saved on unemployment, nine millions on education, eight millions on defence, seven millions on roads, and other smaller items amounted to about five millions. The cost of abnormal unemployment was the greatest factor in national expenditure in recent years.

There was, however, a danger of entering upon a reckless cutting down of national expenditure, because a reduction of the contributions made to the social services would have the undesirable effect of reducing the standard of living. He, as much as anyone, disliked a high income tax, because it had a bad psychological effect. It discouraged enterprise, made people lose their pluck, and made them feel that it was of little use trying to keep on. Moreover, as reduced the sums available for saving, which, when trade recovered, would be needed to replenish our depleted capital reserves. High taxation was particularly harmful in the case of company reserves. It was painful to him last year to have to double the number of the smaller income taxpayers, and it was highly desirable that the income tax should be brought down to a lower scale. (Hear, hear.)

The House agreed to Lord Hunsdon's motion calling for a further reduction in national expenditure, and a corresponding reduction in taxation.

The third reading was carried by 146 votes to 56.

TENSION IN THE NORTH.

COUNTY TYRONE INCIDENT.

An ugly incident between rival sections was threatened in Caledon yesterday, but was averted through the intervention of the police. It being a Roman Catholic holiday the local Hibernian band attempted to march through the town, and when approaching the Orange Hall in the centre of the village, where a Union Jack floated, the opposition party formed a cordon across the street to prevent their passage.

Sergeant Dawson and a number of police then stepped between the parties, and, taking the sergeant's advice, the bandsmen turned back.

Hand-printed posters were displayed in Buncrana, County Donegal, yesterday "calling on the local traders to boycott Protestant firms as a protest against the stoning of pilgrims going to the Eucharistic Congress by Orange hooligans, who followed the example of Derry Corporation, who refused municipal robes to Roman Catholic members attending the Congress."

CLONES MEETING CANCELLED.

A special meeting of the County Monaghan Grand Lodge was held yesterday, when it was decided to cancel the arrangements for the 12th July demonstration to be held in Clones. Many of the brethren will go to the county meeting to be held in Enniskillen.

"UNWARRANTED ATTACK."

Coleraine Protestant Ministers' Council yesterday passed a resolution "expressing in the strongest manner our pain and sorrow at the unwarranted attack by irresponsible youths in the early hours of Sunday morning on pilgrims who were leaving to attend the Eucharistic Congress in Dublin."

The Council supported the Northern Government and Orange Order "in their condemnation of such interference with Christian liberty," and referred to the happy relations that had existed for many years between all sections of the community in Coleraine, and prayed that it might continue.

IRISH IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

EDUCATION MINISTER'S STRONG CIRCULAR.

In a circular issued by the Department of Education the attention of managers of secondary schools is directed to the regulation which prescribes that a reasonable proportion of the pupils should receive instruction in the essential subjects of the school curriculum. It is stated that the Department is not satisfied as to the manner in which this regulation is being observed in a number of schools in the case of the Irish language.

"Normally," it is stated, "the national language should be an essential subject in the course of instrction of every recognised secondary school pupil. This has been the aim and the intention of the Department, and it is felt that a definite advance should be made towards attaining this position without further delay."

For this reason, it is stated, that it has been decided that no pupil who is not already qualified as a recognised pupil (at the end of the present school year) can become a recognised pupil in future unless his, or her, course of instruction includes Irish. This means that Irish becomes an essential subject of the approved course for all new recognised pupils as from the beginning of the school year 1932-33.

The new programme and regulations for secondary schools outline two courses in Irish and English for both Intermediate and Leaving Certificate grades. These are described as the Full Course and the Lower (or abridged) course.

AN ORDER FOR IMPRISONMENT.

HUSBAND AND JUSTICE'S POWERS.

In the case of the State, at the prosecution of Ernest H. Bradley, against the District Justice at Bray, an application was made on behalf of the prosecutor for an order to make absolute a conditional order of certiorari to bring into Court for the purpose of being quashed a conviction of the District Justice, Mr Liam Price, at Bray on the 20th of last January, and an order for the committal of Mr. Bradley for his alleged failure to comply with an instalment order made against him on the 27th February, 1931.

Mr. Lupton, K.C., who, with Mr. Murnane (instructed by Messrs. Stewart and Orr), appeared for the prosecutor, said that the order which was impugned was for the imprisonment of the prosecutor, Mr. Bradley, for default in payment of sums ordered by the District Justice to be paid under the Married Women's (Maintenance in Case of Desertion) Act, 1886. This case raised a point which had been of considerable difficulty in the old Police Court and in the Petty Sessions Court, and was now a difficulty in the District Court. It was a question of whether there was any power in the District Court to order the imprisonment of a husband who made default in the payment of instalment orders.

The complaint was made by Mrs. Jane Bradley, now residing at Mayfield, Thornton, Crosby, Liverpool, that her husband, Ernest H. Bradley, Ballyhawn House, Kilmacanogue, Co. Wicklow, had wilfully refused and neglected to maintain her and had deserted her. Mr. Price ordered the payment of the sum of £2 a week.

NO JURISDICTION.

The grounds of the application were—(1) that there was no jurisdiction in Saorstat Eireann at common law, or by Statute, to enable the District Justice to make an order for imprisonment to enforce, or in default of, payment of any sum to be paid under an order made in pursuance of the Married Women's (Maintenance in Case of Desertion) Act, 1886; (2) that there was no law of Saorstat Eireann enabling (a) a District Justice to place a stay on any order for imprisonment to enforce, or in default of, payment under said Act, or (b) to make imprisonment conditional on the failure to pay any sum named in such an order for imprisonment; (3) that it was a condition precedent to the making of any order for imprisonment in Saorstat Eireann that there should be an antecedent process of the Court for levying executions under a judgment of the District Court; there was no such process in the said Court for enforcing an order mentioned in ground 1 hereof; (4) that neither the proceedings nor the order for imprisonment were brought or made within the time; and (5) that the order was bad on its face (a) as it purported to be made for default of payment of sums due more than six months before the date of the order, and (b) because the enforcement of the order might be sought at any time exceeding six months from the date of the order.

COSTS AGAINST WIFE.

Mr. Gavan Duffy, K.C., who, with Mr. Diarmuid Fausitt (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor), appeared for Mr. Price, District Justice, contended that the Act intended that the orders should be enforceable, and cited authorities in support of his contention. It seemed to him, he said, unnecessary to refer to the Act as virtually a nullity.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—It seems to me that there has been an oversight.

Mr. Lupton having replied on behalf of the prosecutor,

Mr. Justice Sullivan said that he was of opinion that the conditional order should be made absolute. The orders made by the District Justice on February 27, 1931, and January 20, 1932, must be supported, if at all, under the terms of the Married Women's (Maintenance in Case of Desertion) Act, 1886. At the time the Act was passed there was in England a procedure for the enforcement of affiliation orders, but there was no such thing in Ireland. The District Justice had no means to enforce an order under that Act.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that it was legally impossible for the District Justice to apply such a procedure in the way he had done.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne concurred.

The conditional order, accordingly, was made absolute, and, on the application of Mr. Lupton, costs were given against Mrs. Bradley.

PAPAL LEGATE AT MAYNOOTH.

INFORMAL VISIT TO COLLEGE.

RECEPTION AT TOWNS ON ROUTE.

THE Papal Legate, Cardinal Lauri, paid an informal visit to Maynooth College yesterday afternoon. Although the visit was only arranged at short notice, news of the coming of the Cardinal-Legate was quickly spread throughout the countryside and people flocked from their houses and their work to greet the visitor.

It was an imposing array of motor cars which left the Archbishop's Palace in Drumcondra shortly before five in the evening. The Cardinal-Legate, accompanied by Archbishop Byrne, occupied the first car, which was followed by a number of other cars containing the members of the Legate's Court. The string of cars attracted considerable attention as it passed along the North Circular road.

AT CHAPELIZOD.

At Chapelizod the streets were lined with school children, the little girls all dressed in white, and the boys in their best attire—all waving Papal flags or flags of Congress blue. The Legate's car drove very slowly, Cardinal Lauri smiling and imparting his blessing to the crowd, which cheered enthusiastically.

At Palmerston and at Lucan there were similar scenes.

At Leixlip, the scene of Sunday morning's motor accident, there was one of the most touching and devotional incidents that the Cardinal has so far witnessed.

The population received the Pope's Ambassador on bended knees. Hundreds of schoolgirls, dressed in white, and schoolboys lined both sides of the street. Slowly the Cardinal drove through the town, profoundly stirred by this demonstration of the faith of the people.

At Maynooth the streets were lined by hundreds of children. A body of young women in the pale blue cloaks of Children of Mary provided a splash of colour against the white dresses of the girls. The Legate was given an enthusiastic greeting as he arrived. Headed by the Maynooth band in splendid new uniforms, playing "Faith of Our Fathers" and other hymns, the Legate was escorted to the entrance to the College. At the College he was received by the Right Rev. Monsignor McCaffrey (President) and introduced to the professors.

TOUR OF COLLEGE.

The visit was purely informal. Cardinal Lauri feeling that as he was in Dublin he could not leave without visiting Maynooth College. He was shown through the College by Monsignor McCaffrey, visiting the chapel, the various halls and the library, being shown many objects of historic interest. In the chapel he saw a beautiful silver statuette of St. George slaying the dragon, which was presented to the College by the Empress of Austria in 1891.

The Empress was at the time on a visit to Kildare, where she hunted with the "Killing Kildares." It was her practice to attend Mass in the College chapel, and in recognition of the many kindnesses shown to her she presented the statuette to the College, and later presented a beautiful set of vestments in cloth of gold and green. These also were shown to Cardinal Lauri.

RETURN JOURNEY

After the tour of inspection the Legate was photographed with the professorial staff of the College and the local clergy, the Rev. J. Killeen, P.P.; the Rev. T. Grogan, U.C., and the Rev. Michael Toher, C.C., of Leixlip, who were presented to him, whilst he also received the escort of Civic Guards present under Superintendent Horan.

On the return journey the Cardinal had an enthusiastic send-off from the towns people of Maynooth, and also from the residents of Lucan village and from people who assembled at points along the road through the Strawberry Beds. The passage of the party through the Phoenix Park and back to the Archbishop's Palace was noted with interest by those along the route.

CARDINAL LAURI AT MAYNOOTH.

The Papal Legate (Cardinal Lauri) yesterday paid a visit to Maynooth College. The pictures show the procession through the village on his arrival; the Legate being received at the College, and (left) shaking hands with members of the Civic Guard, whom he complimented.

MOTHER AND HER CHILDREN.

APPLICATION FOR CUSTODY.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN, MR. JUSTICE HANNA, AND MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE)

An application was made on behalf of Mrs. Florence Gladys Geoghegan, of 3 St. Declan's road, Marino, Fairview, Dublin, for an order to make absolute a conditional order of habeas corpus, directing Miss Cecilia Geoghegan, of 7 Molesworth street, Dublin; Sister Mary, Superior of the Sacred Heart Home, Drumcondra; Sister Gertrude, Mother Superior of St. Teresa's Home, Blackrock, and the Sister Superior of the Sisters of Charity, St. Vincent's Convent, Cabra road, Dublin, to produce Elizabeth Josephine Geoghegan, William Vincent Geoghegan, Edward Patrick Geoghegan and Florence Jane Geoghegan, detained in their respective custody.

Mr. Hector Hughes, K.C., and Mr. Tobias (instructed by Messrs. William Smyth and Son) appeared for Mrs. Florence Gladys Geoghegan, the mother of the infants; Mr. Reardon, K.C., Mr. Finlay, K.C., and Mr. M. J. Molloy (instructed by Messrs. Roger Greene and Sons) for Miss Cecilia Geoghegan, the paternal aunt; Miss Moran (instructed by Messrs. Roger Greene and Sons) for the Superioress of St. Vincent's, Cabra, and Superioress, St. Teresa's, Blackrock; and Mr. F. J. Kelly, K.C., and Mr. Paul McCarthy (instructed by Messrs. O'Connell, Rooney and Co.) for the Superioress of the Sacred Heart Home, Drumcondra.

BACK TO THEIR MOTHER.

The whole Geoghegan family, father, mother and seven children, said Mr. Hughes, had lived together at 3 St. Declan road until the end of 1930, when the father became ill and went to St. Vincent's Hospital. Shortly afterwards an application for a writ of habeas corpus was brought at his instance, in respect of the children, not for the purpose of having them delivered to him, because, being in hospital, he could not take them, but for the purpose of having them delivered primarily to his sister, Miss Cecilia Geoghegan, who was a newsagent, of 7 Molesworth street, Dublin, with a view to having them distributed by her among the charitable institutions. A conditional order of habeas corpus was made, and later it was made absolute, and the children were taken screaming from Court.

Three of them—the three eldest—did not remain with their aunt, but went back home to their mother; but the younger children were sent by the aunt to the institutions, where they remained to the present date.

While an appeal by the mother was in contemplation the father died, and when the appeal came before the Supreme Court it felt that, in the circumstances, the proper course was for the matter to be begun ab initio.

Mr. Reardon at this stage remarked that no order had been made by the Supreme Court on the matter.

Mr. Hughes said that he had the judgment of the Supreme Court before him. On the 15th April, 1931, he added, notice of appeal was served, and it was only then that the mother became aware that the father had previously made a will, by which he appointed the Rev. John Flanagan, P.P. Fairview, testamentary guardian of the children, and desired that the children should be brought up in the Catholic faith.

THE ORIGINAL ORDER.

Dealing with the application before the Supreme Court, which had been listed and opened when information was received of the death of the father of the children, Mr. Hughes referred to the judgment of the Supreme Court, in which he said the Chief Justice stated that it appeared to him that the proper course would be to proceed by further application to the High Court, or by order of habeas corpus, directed to the person alleged to have the actual custody of the children if the original order no longer operated by reason of the father's death.

Mr. Justice Sullivan said that the appeal to the Supreme Court had not been disposed of, and the High Court order for habeas corpus accordingly stood. What position, he asked, was the applicant in now.

Mr. Hughes—I am in this position—that the original order of habeas corpus is no longer operative by reason of the death of the father.

Mr. Justice Sullivan asked did Mr. Hughes mean that the order no longer had legal effect.

Mr. Hughes replied that the order purported to transfer the children from their mother to strangers, at the instance of their father, who had since died, whereupon it ceased to be operative. A new set of circumstances had arisen, and a new legal position had arisen.

Mr. Justice Sullivan—You suggest that on this application this Court is to go into the facts again and investigate all this controversial matter—the infant baptism of these children and how they were brought up? Surely, as far as the Court is concerned, we have decided they are to be brought up in the Catholic religion. We have decided that, as the father was a Catholic, he had the right to decide the religion in which his children should be brought up.

Mr. Hughes said that he was dealing with the question of custody.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—What is your suggestion with reference to the future of these children?

Mr. Hughes—My submission is this—that the legitimate mother of young children whose father is dead has certain rights of custody as against strangers, the welfare of the children being the paramount consideration, and I have authority on that.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—Suppose the question of religion arises, and is one of the material considerations for this Court, what is your suggestion with reference to these children?

Mr. Hughes—The Court should take the question of religion into consideration as one of the elements in the case.

Mr. Justice Sullivan—We must know what the mother wants to do with regard to the children as regards their religion.

Mr. Hughes—I would ask you to hear the case, and in your wisdom, without asking me to give an undertaking, to decide whether or not you would give the mother the custody of the children.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—You mean that we are to place ourselves in blinkers, and to give custody to the mother with no idea as to what she intends to do as regards religion?

Mr. Justice Hanna said that the order of March 28, 1931, handing the children to Cecilia Geoghegan, had never been reversed. The mother was given the right to have reasonable access to the children. He thought that that was still a good order.

Mr. Hughes submitted that the order of habeas corpus was on an entirely different basis. The order was obtained in the name of the father, who was dead, and who had appointed a testamentary guardian. The Court had to consider whether custody would be given to the testamentary guardian, or whether the mother had any rights at all. His submission was that the mother's rights were different from those which existed during her husband's lifetime.

A QUESTION.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—I require to know, before I make an order, whether the mother is going to bring up the children as Catholics or Protestants. The father is dead, and in his will he expressed the same wish as regards the religion of his children as he expressed on the affidavits which were before the Court.

Mr. Hughes—I will undertake to inform your lordships definitely as to what the mother's views are in the course of the case.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—Why not do so now?

Mr. Hughes—Because the case is being tried on affidavits which are so voluminous, and I do not want to give an undertaking on the affidavits.

Mr. Justice Hanna—The Court decided that these children should be brought up as Catholics. Whether the decision will be upheld by the Supreme Court or not, I feel that I am bound by that order. If your client is prepared to say, "If I get the custody of the children I will undertake to bring the children up in the father's faith," the position would be different.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—Every member of this Court asked you the question, and some members of the Court asked it on two or three occasions, what the mother intends to do with regard to these children as regards religion. If you say you cannot reply to that because your client had not considered the matter, that is one answer; but, on the other hand, if it has been considered, and you are in possession of your client's views, I would like an answer from you as to why you do not answer the question here and now.

Mr. Hughes—I will take my client's instructions now if your lordships will allow me.

Mr. Justice Sullivan—Has your client not yet considered the paramount question of religion?

Mr. Hughes—She is willing to undertake that the children should be brought up as Catholics. Here you have a number of elder children in the custody of the mother and they are Protestants. You have the younger children brought up in a different religion. It is undesirable to make factions in a family, and it is undesirable to bring up the children in any religion other than the mother's and the religion of some of the members of the family. I humbly submit that, when the Court coerced me to give an undertaking——

Mr. Justice Sullivan—The Court has not coerced you to do anything.

Mr. Hughes—I am sorry that I used the expression. It is just an element in the question that has to be considered.

Continuing, Mr. Hughes said that his client had given an undertaking that the children would be brought up in the Catholic religion. She had done that on her own responsibility. His submission was that it was for the welfare of the children that they should not be brought up in a religion different from that of the elder children.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne remarked that it was difficult to reconcile the two undertakings, and his lordship asked on the basis of which was the court to deal with the application.

Mr. Hughes—On the basis of the welfare of the children.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne said that, of course, the one paramount consideration was the welfare of the children.

Mr. Justice Hanna—You said that the applicant is willing to undertake that the children be brought up Catholics. Do you stand by that?

Mr. Hughes—I do.

Mr. Justice Hanna—That clears the case of a great deal of difficulty, and I suggest to you to proceed on the basis that the children are to be brought up Catholics.

Mr. Justice Sullivan asked whether the testamentary guardian was represented.

Mr. Reardon remarked that the testamentary guardian, the Rev. John Flanagan, had not been served.

Mr. Hughes said that the testamentary guardian was aware of the application. It was usual in such cases to bring the application against the person having the actual custody.

Mr. Justice Sullivan said that he thought the application would have to stand over.

Mr. Hughes said that when the application was in contemplation letters were written to all the people having custody of the children, and Father Flanagan was written to.

Mr. Justice Hanna—After the father's death he is the person entitled to the custody of the children.

Mr. Justice Sullivan—It was deliberately done that he was not served?

Mr. Hughes—Yes. I challenge my friend that a testamentary guardian is a necessary party in such an application.

Mr. Reardon, K.C., for Miss Cecilia Geoghegan, the paternal aunt, submitted that Mr. Hughes had deliberately chosen to omit the testamentary guardian, and to proceed against Miss Geoghegan and the ladies who were the heads of the institutions. He was entitled to the costs of having the motion refused. It had been intimated by the Court of Appeal that Father Flanagan was a necessary party.

Mr. Finlay called attention to the fact that it was stated in an affidavit made by Miss Cecilia Geoghegan that the children were kept in the institutions under the authority of Father Flanagan.

ALLOWED TO STAND.

Mr. Kelly, K.C., for the Sacred Heart Home, also submitted, on the same grounds as Mr. Reardon, that his costs should be given against the applicant; and a similar submission was made by Miss Moran for the Superioresses of St. Vincent's, Cabra, and St. Teresa's, Blackrock.

Mr. Justice Sullivan asked whether counsel for the applicant was willing to pay the costs of all the parties on condition of getting liberty to serve a conditional order on Father Flanagan.

Mr. Tobias—I do not know whether she has the money to pay it.

Mr. Justice Hanna—Are you willing to serve Father Flanagan now?

Mr. Tobias—Certainly.

Mr. Justice Sullivan eventually said that, on the application of counsel for the applicant, the Court allowed the case to stand to give them liberty to serve a copy of the conditional order on Father Flanagan, and that application was granted on the condition of payment by the applicant of the cost of the day's proceedings of all the parties.

A WIDOW'S CLAIM.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN.)

A consent to settlement was received and made a rule of Court in a case in which Isabella Kearney, of Clifden, Co. Galway, claimed damages against John Joseph Payne, of Main street, Clifden, for the death of her husband, Joseph Kearney, foreman of Messrs. Johnson and Company's marble quarries at Letternoosh, Clifden, which, she alleged, resulted from the negligence of the defendant in the driving of a motor car at Clifden on the 24th April, 1931.

The defendant denied negligence.

The consent provided for the payment to the plaintiff of £625 in full discharge of all claims, and a sum for costs.

Mr. Justice Sullivan apportioned £255 of the money to the plaintiff, and the balance among her six children.

Mr. Leonard, K.C., and Mr. Micks (instructed by Mr. B. A. Lee) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Cawley (instructed by Messrs. R. G. Connolly and Son) for the defendant.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT.

SALE OF A PIANO.

ALLEGED BREACH OF WARRANTY.

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

Mrs. Mary Moran, 12 Lower Leeson street, sued Martin Walton, North Frederick street, for £60 damages for alleged breach of warranty in the sale of a piano, which, she alleged, had proved to be defective and wholly useless to her.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy (instructed by Mr. J. F. Lalor), for the plaintiff, said that the piano was bought in October, 1930, for £69, but when it had been played on for some time it was found that the ivory was coming off the keys. She went to see Mr. Walton about it, but he didn't take the trouble to see her, and she instructed her solicitor.

The plaintiff, having told her case, was cross-examined by Mr. M. Walker (instructed by Messrs. Miley and Miley), who appeared for the defendant, she said that she did not agree that the piano had been sold to her as a second-hand one. She was under the impression that it was a new one, as Mr. Walton told her that it was bought in Germany. One note in the key-board would not sound, and the others were faulty. An offer had been made by Mr. Walton to put the piano right, or to supply another from Messrs. Figott's, but she refused the offer. She was entirely dissatified, and wanted her money back.

Mr. J. Murphy, of Messrs. Pigott's, said that the piano was about thirty years old, and was of the Quandt type. He could not say that it was a thoroughly sound instrument. Bad glueing would account for the ivory coming off the keys. He valued the piano at £40.

Mr. Walton, in evidence, said that the piano was a second-hand one, and he had not sold it as a new one. He gave the usual guarantee. When he received the solicitor's letter he sent a tuner to the plaintiff's house. He was always willing to put the instrument right, but plaintiff refused to allow him to do anything to the instrument, and said she had been deceived.

In cross-examination, the defendant said that it was quite possible the piano was first sold in 1898 for 450 marks (£22 10s.). He told the plaintiff that it was a second-hand piano. Apart from the ivories there was nothing wrong with the instrument.

Mr. John Wakefield, an importer of musical instruments, said that he examined the piano in March, 1931. The piano was a good second-hand one, and was in every respect reliable, except that some of the ivory keys had lifted. Change of climate might have accounted for that. He heard Mr. Walton offer to have new keys fitted, or to let the plaintiff have a piano from Pigott's or from the witness's own firm.

The Judge said that it was very unfortunate that the piano should have been the means of separating two old friends. Mr. Walton was the very last man to mislead. He (the judge) rather thought that Mr. Moran had taken up an entirely erroneous attitude—that she should get her money back if she returned the piano, which was what she wanted to do, rather than have any defects in it repaired. He gave a decree for £3 2s. 6d., with costs, for the fixing of the piano keys and repairing of the strings. He wished it to be made quite clear that the granting of this small decree was no reflection on the defendant, who acted throughout as a good business man and an honourable gentleman.

CATTLE MENACE.

JUDGE AND FARMER.

Gerald Stapleton, 13 Elm Park, Terenure (a fireman) sued Timothy Conlon, farmer, of Embankment, Saggart, for £100 damages for personal injuries and loss sustained by damage to a motor bicycle, through the alleged negligence of defendant or his agents in the driving of a herd of cattle at Jobstown road on 26th November, 1931.

William Nolan gave evidence that he accompanied the plaintiff, both riding motor cycles with good lights. He succeeded in getting past a herd of cattle which came upon him unexpectedly, but the plaintiff crashed into the cattle, and was flung on the road.

Samuel Osborne stated that the cattle had previously collided with a motor car in which he was a passenger. As he was talking to Conlon, who appeared to be in charge of the cattle, he saw two motor cyclists approach. He said to Conlon: "Here's two more, and your cattle will kill them." Witness then ran up the road to warn the motor cyclists of their danger, but did not reach them in time.

The defendant, in evidence, said that the cattle which he was driving were five black pollies, which were quiet beasts, and he had them under ordinary control.

The judge said that the conduct of the defendant aroused a considerable amount of indignation in him. "A more obvious liar and perjurer I have rarely, if ever, seen," added his lordship. "I have not the slightest sympathy with him, and I only hope the Guards make him amenable in another Court."

A decree for £73 2s., with costs, was granted.

Mr. W. B. Black (instructed by Mr. James Fagan) appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. J. P. Murnane (instructed by Messrs. Brown and McCann) appeared for defendant.

COMPENSATION CLAIMS.

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

James McKenna, a storeman, employed by Messrs. Smith and Pearson, Ossory road, Dublin, applied for compensation for injuries to his left arm, and an award of £55 and costs was made in settlement of the claim.

Mr. Cawley (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) appeared for the applicant; and Mr. McGuckin (instructed by Messrs. Hoey and Denning) for the respondents.

Thomas Kershaw, who received injuries to the thumb of his left hand while employed by Denis Hayes, haulage contractor, Dorset street, was awarded £90 compensation and costs.

Mr. Cawley (instructed by Messrs. Woodcock and Son) appeared for the applicant; and Mr. Ryan, solicitor (Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) for the respondent.

THE TOLKA BAZAAR OPENED.

The Tolka Bazaar, which is being held at St. Patrick's Training College, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the erection of a new church and schools at Cabra, Dublin, was declared open last night by the Most Rev. Dr. Wall, Bishop of Thasos, in the presence of a large gathering.

The actual work before Father Flood, said Dr. Wall, was to provide a church and schools for the vast numbers of people who had migrated from the unhealthy portions of Dublin City to the open and healthy district of Cabra. The amount required for the building of the church was over £36,000. That was a large sum, but workers had to receive a wage adequate to support themselves and their children. Dr. Wall added that, fortunately, the Ministers for Education, past and present, were eager to give as much help as they could for the building of schools, thus relieving the strain on local resources.

Mr. Thomas Derrig, Minister for Education, congratulated Father Flood and all concerned in the organisation of the bazaar. So far as he was concerned, while he was in his present position, he would do all he could to help to get proper schools for the children of Dublin. They would thus be doing something for the coming generation, nationally and morally.

Professor O'Sullivan, T.D., spoke of last week's Eucharistic Congress, after which he said it was only fitting that they should do something to continue the work in a permanent fashion.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin presided at the opening function, and others who wished success to the bazaar were the Very Rev. Fr. Cullan, B.D., President St. Patrick's Training College; Mr. J. D. Nugent, and the Very Rev. J. J. Flood, P.P., who extended thanks to those who attended.

Among those present were:—Mr. S. T. O'Kelly, Minister for Local Government; Senator Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. R. Mulcahy, Mr. P. Lynch, K.C.; Mr. Kevin Kenny, Mrs. P. McGilligan, General O'Duffy, the Right Rev. Mgr. Watters, P.P., V.G.; Mr. J. Robinson, Councillors T. Cahill, J. Cahill, J. Ryan and M. O'Sullivan; the Very Rev. J. Flanagan, P.P.; Dr. M. Russell, M.O.H.; Mr. J. J. Hickey, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. MacAvin, Mr. R. O'Callaghan and Mr. A. J. McGinty.

The Bishop of Thasos later visited the stalls, and congratulated the holders, as well as wishing them success in their undertaking.

The Bazaar opens to-day at 4 p.m., and every day at the same hour, except on Saturday. Sunday and Wednesday, when the opening hour will be 3 p.m.

Don't risk a tooth paste that might scratch soft enamel

This new discovery brings greater protection to delicate enamel. Gives higher brilliance. Unequalled in removing film stains.

SOME tooth pastes will remove film, but they may harm tooth enamel. Others are perfectly safe, but they may fail to remove film. But in Pepsodent film-removing power is combined with super safety.

The difference between Pepsodent and other tooth pastes lies in a new cleansing and polishing material recently discovered. This material is twice as soft as the cleansing and polishing materials commonly used in tooth pastes. It possesses three outstanding virtues:

... removes film — completely.
... polishes the surfaces of the teeth to a sparkling brilliance.
... cleanses and polishes with absolute safety to delicate tooth enamel.

Get a tube of Pepsodent today. It is safe ... utterly safe ... on the softest baby teeth and the most delicate enamel. Pepsodent is today's outstanding scientific tooth paste.

MEDICAL BENEVOLENT FUND.

Mr. Frank Crawley, President of the Royal College of Surgeons, occupied the chair at the annual meeting of the Royal Medical Benevolent Fund Society of Ireland, which was held in the College yesterday afternoon.

The Committee, in the ninetieth annual report, recorded that the number of grants awarded during the year was 95, as compared with 87 in the year 1930-31. The amount distributed in grants was £2,426 10s., which was £272 more than in the previous year. The beneficiaries included eight medical men, 17 orphans and 70 widows. The total number of beneficiaries, including those dependent upon them, was 228.

Nearly two-thirds of the Society's income was derived from dividends, the result of investment of bequests. In regard to general revenue, dividends and interest showed an increase of £14 10s. Donations and subscriptions paid through the Central Treasurer amounted to £226, as compared with £218 15s. in 1930-31. Receipts from branch honorary treasurers amounted to £558 12s. 4d., as against £482 12s. in 1930-31. For this welcome increase the Committee desired to thank the branch honorary secretaries and treasurers, as well as the contributing members. It was felt by the Committee that a special effort had been made to help their beneficiaries rather because of, than despite, the financial difficulties of the times through which they were passing.

Thanks were given to the Irish Medical Association and to the British Medical Association for grants forwarded by them; also to the Society of St. Vincent de Paul for the aid given to the society's beneficiaries by administering the grants awarded.

Dr. Martin, honorary secretary, County Donegal, moving the adoption of the report and balance sheet, appealed for more help from the members of the medical profession for a fund which was of great value.

Sir William Smyly seconded, and the report and balance sheet were adopted.

TRAPPER MAKES PACE A "CRACKER."

THRILLING FINISH BETWEEN DASTUR AND HILL SONG.

THE finish between the Aga Khan's Dastur and Major Shirley's Hill Song for the Irish Derby at the Curragh yesterday was about as exciting an affair as has been witnessed for many years. There was a huge crowd present, attracted by the expectation of a great race between Dastur, the second in this year's English Derby, and the best of the Irish three-year-olds.

It was a remarkable race, inasmuch as the little-fancied Trapper led the field almost from the start, and half a mile from the winning post was some ten lengths in front of the others, and when he was beaten, three furlongs from the end, Hill Song and Dastur drew away together. Hill Song was in front a hundred yards out, but the English-trained horse gradually wore him down to ultimately win by a head, to the accompaniment of a rousing cheer.

M. BEARY'S STRONG RIDING.

Both M. Beary, on Dastur, and E. Gardner, on Hill Song, got every ounce that could be got out of their mounts, but Beary's stronger finishing, however, just about meant the difference between winning and losing. Dastur, who was bred in Ireland, certainly proved himself a very genuine horse, and stayed out this very severe course in better style than even his stable connections anticipated.

Hill Song has been one of the most unlucky horses, for this is the third time this season that he finished second, being beaten in the Madrids and Irish Guineas by Lindley, while last season Solenoid deprived him of the National Produce Stakes by a matter of a head, Rathlin Isle beat him by half a length in the Railway Stakes, and another half a length lost him the Enniskillen Plate at the Phœnix Park, won by Clady. This is an almost unique record of bad luck for a good horse, whose only win was in the back end of last season in the Autumn Plate at Leopardstown.

RECORD TIME FOR RACE.

The Aga Khan was not present to see Dastur win, but his son, Prince Aly Khan, was, and led the horse in after the race. He seemed very pleased with the hearty ovation given him, and was also pleased with the course, which he thought one of the fairest for a mile and a half race he had seen.

Lindley, as anticipated, did not run up to his earlier form, but finished fifth, just behind Call Him. Had all gone well with Captain G. F. Dunne's horse in his training, and the race been run on a softer ground, he would probably have disputed the issue with the other two. Corcy ran in disappointing style, as did Gold Amulet.

The race was run in the record time of 2 mins. 35 3-5 secs., as compared to the 2 mins. 43 secs. which April the Fifth took to cover the Epsom mile and a half.

MONEY ORDER AGAIN.

Of the other races on the card the Apprentices' Plate provided the most interesting contest. It was won by Mr. I. I. Bradshaw's Money Order, who, coming with a rare burst of speed in the last furlong, passed both Glenavis and La Sorciere, who had been fighting out the issue, and won by a neck, thus repeating his success in a similar class of event. As in the previous race, he was ridden by the apprentice, B. Reilly, who showed the same judgment in allowing his mount more or less to run his own race.

The well-bred Snow Glory was all the rage for the Pollardstown Plate, her stable connections being very confident of success. She got every chance in the race, being well away from the gate, but she was early chopped for speed by Count McCormack's Smart Aleck, who raced away in front and never left the issue in doubt.

A DISQUALIFICATION.

Mr. W. W. Ashe won the Mountjoy Selling Plate with Dak, a colt by Romney, who was subsequently sold to the Hon. H. G. Wellesley for 110 sovs.

In a three-horse race for the King's Plate the three-year-old Mandritsara led all the way and beat Gallant Prince in ready style by three lengths, but an objection lodged subsequently by the rider of the second proved fatal. The grounds of complaint were that the rider of the winner had hit the second with his whip. Only three horses went to the post for the Visitors' Plate, and this fell an easy prey to Rosemary's Pet, who finished second to Glass Gift at the last Phœnix Park meeting. Details:—

THE RACE.

Kingsmere, to a capital start, set the pace to Trapper, Lindley, Gold Amulet, Hill Song and Solicitous, with Dastur next, in front of Grand Ecart and Call Him, and Corcy last. At half way Trapper held a long lead from Kingsmere and Grand Ecart, with the others well together, of whom Dastur and Hill Song were making up leeway. Coming into the straight Trapper was well in front of Grand Ecart, Dastur and Hill Song, with Call Him, Lindley and Corcy next. At the distance Trapper weakened, and Hill Song took a slight lead of Dastur, with Call Him and Lindley next, but challenging close home, Dastur headed Hill Song, to win by a head; two lengths. Call Him was fourth, Lindley fifth, Corcy sixth, Gold Amulet seventh, Solicitous eighth, Grand Ecart ninth, Kingsmere tenth. Time—2 mins. 35 3-5 sec.

THE chief race on the card for the concluding afternoon is the Waterford Testimonial Stakes, which will bring into opposition fifteen two-year-olds. Among them is Dr. Strabismus, who has won four races off the reel, and as there are no penalties in this particular race it is difficult to find anything to beat Lady Milbanke's horse, unless it be Matona, who only ran once, when winning the Patriotic Plate. On this form he should again beat Cargan and Onoclea, but the best to stand is who has shown rare consistency. Selections for other races:—

Tyros Stakes—Some Catch.
June Plate—Talkative.
Summer Plate—Loreto.
Harristown Plate—Glass Boss.

NEWMARKET HINTS.

A big field will be seen out for the Haughley Selling Plate, and, in taking Maundy Thursday filly, Derrygill, Air Travel and as our best, I shall rely upon the last-named, and the danger to her will be Maundy Thursday filly.

Whiteplains, Wild Mint colt, Opera King, Blue Trout and will contest the Exeter Stakes, and I shall rely upon the last-named.

Unless we have rain, Rose En Soleil will be an absentee from the Princess of Wales' Stakes; but, should he run, he will be difficult to beat. Foxhunter and Jacopo met in the Gold Vase at Ascot, when the former was in a much better condition of the pair, but I should fancy his chance more over a two miles' course.

was short of a few good gallops, and the Ascot race was too far for him. He has done well since, and he has my vote.

CLUSTINE*

has been showing up well in his gallops since Ascot, and should win the July Cup.

We shall have nine runners for the Girton Handicap, and my vote goes to who ran well in the Oaks Stakes.

The Royston Handicap is a race to suit Ellenborough. Leicester Lane will find plenty of supporters, while Crown Royal and Roseate are fancied; but I shall rely upon ELLENBOROUGH.

At Carlisle Noble Son should win the Dumfries Plate.

SPRINTERS' TEST.

CLUSTINE FANCIED TO WIN THE JULY CUP.

IT is doubtful if there has been a year since the war when we were so rich in sprinting talent as during the current season, and it would be an easy matter to name at least a dozen horses who are at the very top of the sprinters' class. At Newmarket to-day we are promised an absorbing contest for the July Cup over six furlongs, when a splendidly select field will come into opposition.

The race will be a real test between some of the best four and three-year-olds over a short cut, and it will be most interesting to see how Clustine, for instance, compares with the older horses. At Ascot, in the Fern Hill Stakes, Clustine was beaten only a short-head by Cockpen. He was travelling faster than the winner at the finish, and was in front a stride past the post. That running seems to indicate that six furlongs will suit Sam Darling's colt even better, and I think he will take a very great deal of beating.

Another three-year-old in The Divot will almost certainly have some concern with the finish, for he created a splendid impression by his second to Slipper at Ascot, and his third, under a big weight, to Greenore and Grand Peace in the Wellington Handicap at Sandown.

Concerto was one of the most fluent winners of the season when he took the Wokingham Stakes, and although he has not hitherto been considered quite at the top of the tree, it would be no surprise were he to start a well-backed candidate. Portlaw has always been noted as an exceptionally speedy horse, and although he did not quite live up to his reputation at Ascot, when he ran fourth to Lemnarchus, he will be all the better for that race, which was his first of the season.

The brilliantly speedy Lemnarchus is better at five furlongs. One must admire the sporting policy of the connections of Heronslea in sending their champion to take on the very best of opponents. It is my opinion that there are few better animals in the country over distances up to a mile, and it seems inevitable that Heronslea will finish in the first three. He has, however, to make a very big concession (21lb.) to Clustine, and this will, probably, be the deciding factor in favour of

CLUSTINE.

I name the latter as the likely winner, with a wholesome dread of Heronslea.

The valuable Princess of Wales's Stakes will bring out a good field, and here Lord Astor will be doubly represented, both Birthday Book and Wisborough being under orders to compete. If one can find the better of this pair the winner may be "spotted." Birthday Book ran a great race to take the Bessborough Stakes at Ascot, making nearly all the running to gallop his rivals off their legs. There was also a lot of merit in the manner that Wisborough stuck to Dastur in the King Edward VII. Stakes, and I do not think the Derby second beat Wisborough as easily as some others believed. Jacopo is sure to run well. There is no questioning the ability of Rose en Soleil, who is even yet improving, and he will be a danger to the best. However, with the big weight allowance which is his, I think is the best bet.

while the Girton Handicap may be won by

HARBA.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

WILD SON'S SURPRISE.

FINE PERFORMANCE OF VERSICLE IN STUD PRODUCE STAKES.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
NEWMARKET, Wednesday.

THE yearling sales here, I am sorry to say, are not going well. There was a marked absence of buyers at the session this morning; indeed, most of the bidders seemed to be discriminating persons, who were buying animals to trade again, and they were able to buy at such prices that it is impossible to see how they can lose.

For the poorer lots there was not a bid of any kind. Mr. Reid Walker sent up six, their sires being: Nothing Venture, Lancegaye, Inkerman, Invershin and Delius. For three there was no bid of any kind, two were sold for a "tenner" apiece, and the top price of the batch was eleven guineas.

The moral of all this is that it is a hopeless and money-wasting proposition to send indifferent yearlings to Newmarket. People will not have them as a gift. But there were a good many nice yearlings that I saw sold this morning which must be worth the money and more, no matter how bad the times.

A good sort of Warden of the Marches filly went for 100 guineas. A fine colt by Son and Heir, sent up by Mr. Lambton, made but 150 guineas, and a really nice colt by Royal Lancer, a full brother to Leicester Lane, who, if small, is a beautiful miniature of a racehorse, was withdrawn at 135 guineas.

BEST BIDDING.

The best bidding was for a colt by Phalaris out of Princess Sublime, the dam of a number of winners, from Mr. Lambton's lot. He is one of the few by Phalaris that we shall see in the ring this year, and was the only one offered at these sales. He reminds one a good deal of Warden of the Marches, but he is stronger backed and better ribbed than that horse was in his early days.

He is a really good sort, although he may be inclined to be stalliony, and he was sharply bid to 1,850 guineas, where he hung. Mr. Lambton was loth to let him go at the price, but, after a pause, he whispered to the auctioneer: "Take it." The buyer was Mr. A. B. Briscoe.

The Duke of Westminster offered a round dozen, but did not sell one. Among this lot I was much taken witha colt by Trigo out of Vibration, who happened to be the first yearling by Mr. Barnett's Derby winner that I have seen. He is a particularly charming blood-like and racing-like colt, and if he is a little on the small side he was not foaled until May 28, and will be quite big enough. An offer of 1,150 guineas for him was not accepted.

When Mr. Tattersall took the hammer from Mr. Deane after we had gone rather more than half way through the session, he was only able to sell three lots, and they made 100 guineas between them—an experience that must have been an unusual one for the head of the firm.

A few showers fell here last evening and last night, and there was mist on the Heath early in the morning. The sun came out in the course of the afternoon and the weather was again all that could be desired. The most interesting thing of the day was the victory in the Stud Produce Stakes of Lord Stanley's filly Versicle, who had run Supervisor to a head in the Queen Mary Stakes. She was opposed by a particularly good-looking field this afternoon, but although Lord Woolavington's Sweet Olive hung on well Versicle beat her by two lengths, with Olifa third, and Coin of the Realm, Sans Peine and the Love Oil filly close up. All of these will win races.

I believe that Versicle has the reputation of being as good at home, if not better, than Hyperion and Colorow, the winner of the July Stakes yesterday. She is certainly by far the best which her dam, Verdict, has thrown so far. She is only leased by Lady Barbara Smith to Lord Stanley. Her sire, Sickle, by the way, is leased to the American owner, Mr. J. E. Widener, and is standing in the United States.

While Frank Butters was at the Curragh with Dastur, his horses were doing well in England, for I see that Double Option won for him at Carlisle, and he won the Plantation Stakes here with Lord Durham's Cinnabar who, in a tremendous finish, got up to beat the filly by Nothing Venture out of Typist, who was racing on the far side of the course, by a head; the much-fancied Plantain being the same distance away, third.

PINEADULAR WINS.

Major Durham Matthews won the Soham Stakes with Pineadular, whom I noted at the time as having been so unluck when cut about at Brighton, where he was second to Polar Bear. With 2st. of the weights in his favour, he was too good for old Doch-an-Doris by a couple of lengths, though the old horse ran a real good race.

An outsider, Marcargo, trained by Captain Boyd-Rochfort for the American owner, Mr. Woodward, won the Fakenham Selling Plate by a head and a short head from Dauntless and Miltonic, after starting at 100 to 7. On his running last year, when he was third several times in good company, it was he who should have been the 5 to 4 chance instead of Dauntless, but no money was forthcoming for him. He was sold to the trainer, G. L. Ward, for 480 guineas.

SELECTIONS.

There was a splendid attendance here this afternoon, and it should be a much better one to-morrow, when we have the best racing of the week; for, apart from the valuable Princess of Wales's Stakes, an event like the Exeter Stakes, which ranks as a two-year-old classic, we have the July Cup to decide what virtually amounts to the sprinting championship.

All run except Cockpen, and we shall see such as Heronslea, Lemnarchus, Concerto and Portlaw opposing the three-year-old Clustine, The Divot and Sea Mark. Heronslea has strong claims, but the ground may be a little firmer than he likes it. Although Lemnarchus won at Ascot, where he beat Valkyrie, I did not like the way he laid his ears back and appeared to turn it up when Unlikely beat him at Epsom. Portlaw barely got six furlongs last season, though he may do so this year.

I have most confidence in the three-year-old Clustine and The Divot. In the Free Handicap CLUSTINE was put 7lb. above The Divot, and with only the gelding allowance to give here the former should win.

Goyescas does not run for the Princess of Wales's Stakes on account of the firm ground. It is to be hoped that Jacopo, who showed signs of coming back to himself at Ascot, will have still further improved. I think, however, that ROSE EN SOLEIL, a much-improved colt, who beat Hill Cat and Cameronian at Ascot, will prove the best.

Montrose and SOLAR BOY seem to have the best claims of those engaged in the Exeter Stakes, which the latter may win. GAY LIGHT should win the Royston Handicap.

HENLEY REGATTA.

TRINITY CREW WINS FIRST HEAT IN THAMES CUP.

The weather was dull, and there was a breeze blowing against the course when the Henley Regatta was opened yesterday, but there was the usual fashionable attendance.

Dublin University rowed their first heat of the Thames Cup against Maidenhead at 11.10. They got a good start, and were leading after the first ten strokes. They increased the gap to a length and a half by the barrier. So far, they had rowed only fairly well, and were not very steady. They were risking a lot over the stretcher, and stroke had not been able to steady them.

After the barrier McGillycuddy began to steady them, and lengthen out to a good long swing. All the crew settled down to a good row over the latter part of the course. They gave her a ten at Fawley, and drew away to be two lengths up at the mile post. They kept this distance comfortably to the finish to win in 7 mins. 56 secs., which was quite good against the head wind, especially as they were not going all out over the second part of the course. They worked out a rate of striking up to 38 past the enclosure, but were not striking more than 34 over most of the course. Except for the first two minutes they were always covering their wash well, and at the finish the boat was running cleanly.

In the next round Trinity meet Bedford or Vesta, and should win again. They have certainly impressed all the critics as one of the best crews sent over for a good many years. Everyone was rowing well, especially Horan at five, while McGillycuddy controlled them well after the barrier, and gave them plenty of length. McCullagh, at two, was working hard and effectively. The four does not row to-day, but will row the winners of Nottingham and Trinity Hall B. They should win this, but will probably be up against Vesta in the next round. Vesta are a good crew.

T. A. Brocklebank, of the Leander Club, collapsed in his boat and fell into the river in his heat in the Diamond Sculls against H. Buhtz, of Germany. Brocklebank, however, was soon all right again.

Buhtz is probably the best sculler Henley has seen for years. He is a magnificent stylist, who may go on to win the Diamond Sculls.

A. E. Wilkinson, Phœnix C.C.

The team will travel by the 7 a.m. train from Kingsbridge to-morrow.

CIVIL SERVICE DEFEAT TRINITY BY 3 RUNS.

In an exciting finish in the Phœnix Park yesterday, Civil Service beat Trinity by three runs. The University were out for 122, a fifth wicket stand by Law and Pinkerton putting on 57. The feature of the innings was a hard-hit 81 by Lang, who was in an hour. He hit five 6's and eight 4's. Service passed the Trinity total with one wicket in hand, and were all out for 125.

LAWN TENNIS.

MISS JACOBS IN THE FINAL.

MME. MATHIEU BEATEN IN DULL MATCH.

Miss Helen Jacobs, of America, has reached the final of the Women's Singles Championship at Wimbledon for the second time in her career, and it looks as if she will meet once more her conqueror in the 1929 final, Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody. Miss Jacobs yesterday beat Mme. Mathieu, of France, 7-5, 6-1, and to-day Mrs. Moody will oppose Miss Mary Heeley, of Birmingham, in the second semi-final, which was postponed from yesterday at the American champion's request.

It took Miss Jacobs one hour and a quarter to beat Mme. Mathieu. It was a very dull affair, with neither showing much enterprise, and being content to send the ball backwards and forwards from the base-line. As a consequence, there were many long rallies, and at one stage three points took 77 strokes to decide. Miss Jacobs, of course, played well enough to beat the woman who had proved too good for her in Paris, and the American girl always was the steadier. There was plenty of good driving down the middle of the court, but hardly an exciting moment throughout the match.

YEARLING SALES AT NEWMARKET.

NATIONAL STUD DRAFT OFFERED.

In the evening the National Stud yearlings were the big attraction. The best of these, a brown filly by Solario out of Tillywhim, was secured by Mr. A. B. Briscoe for 1,100 guineas, and a brown filly by Blandford out of Simon's Shoes went to Major Cayzer for 800 guineas.

Mr. A. H. Maxwell sent up a promising bay colt by Blandford out of Capdane, and, after keen competition, he fell to the bid of Mr. Jack Jarvis at 1,050 guineas.

The highest price of the evening session was 2,000 guineas, given by Mr. A. B. Briscoe for Major K. Greville Williams's bay colt by Friar Marcus out of Grasmere.

The total for the evening was 9,725 guineas.

HURLERS BEAT SHINTY TEAM. ROWING ON THE BOYNE.

HURLERS' SUCCESS AT CROKE PARK.

SHINTY XI. OUTPLAYED, AND LOSE BY 5 GOALS.

(By PAT'O.)

On the conclusion of the opening ceremony at Croke Park yesterday, the Tailteann Games proper, which will extend over a fortnight, were initiated with the shinty-hurling match between Scotland and Ireland. Twelve thousand spectators remained on to witness the game, which Ireland won by 6 goals to one goal.

The Irish side was at full strength, and from the outset it was a fast and entertaining struggle, the stout Scottish defence holding out for 22 minutes.

The teams were:—

Scotland (shinty)—Finlayson (goal), Robertson, MacDonald, Beaton, Jenkins, MacQueen, Gemmel, MacDonald, MacTaggart, Ferguson, Dunn.

Ireland (hurling)—O'Regan, McMahon, Phelan, Walsh, Martin Power, Gill, D. B. Murphy O'Donoghue Treacy, Dunne, Power.

This visiting team was not, however, so representative of Highland shinty strength as those of 1924 and 1928. When the Irish side got on to their best tackling and hitting in the second half their wider camans prevailed.

The Scottish side, drawn from the Glasgow shinty men, who learned the game in the Highland glens, were at a disadvantage. At overhead play the Irishmen, with the "clairseach" of 4 inches width against the 1½-inched triangle of the Scots were masters throughout.

By way of concession, the smaller shinty ball was played, and the home hurlers were not allowed to touch the ball with the hand. Shinty goal space was approved, and no points over the bar were allowed. Mr. D. McLaughlan was the referee. It was pleasant to hear the Scotsmen call for their passes in Gaelic, but the Irish players favoured English throughout. Of the twelve shinty men, ten are native speakers of Gaelic.

THE GAME.

Donoghue (Galway) was the first to get into the limelight. He controlled the ball well. He ran through the Scots defence, and his manner of hopping the ball on his hurley completely upset the Scots backs, but Finlayson was cool and efficient; he stopped flying balls with composure. Then MacDonald drove a ground ball eighty yards. Hopping clear, it was only O'Dwyer's skill that saved the Irish goal.

The Scottish backs tackled well. Their swing was complete, but more compact, and their distance on the ground was remarkable. Power broke away on the Irish side, and from MacDonald's return, Gill (Guards) hit a grand ball through for a goal. Quickly O'Donoghue followed with a second, and the game, with the score 2 goals to nil at half-time, was still interesting.

The hurlers became more familiar with the unusual ball in the second half. They hit more closely and directly to the narrow goal. Dunne and Treacy shot three goals through for Ireland, and O'Regan, Walsh and McMahon kept Ferguson and McTaggart out. The biggest cheer came when McTaggart, from a grand cross from MacDonald, drove through the only Scottish goal. Dunne, Treacy and Power increased Ireland's margin, but it was an interesting game to the end.

The inter-provincial camoguidheacht contest between Leinster and Connacht rang down the curtain. Leinster, unlike the opposition, showed splendid team work and were good winners by 9-3 to 2-1, after leading by 4-1 to 2 goals at the interval.

Misses Dunne (7), Hanratty (1-1), Bowden (1), Windsor and Davis scored for the winners. Misses Lawless and Greaney goaled for Connacht, Miss Morris notching the point off a "25."

MOTOR CYCLING.

ENTRY FOR TAILTEANN CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Thirty-six entries have been received for the Tailteann motor cycle championships on Saturday in the Phœnix Park. As the continental season is in full swing there will be no cross-Channel competitors, while Stanley Woods and H. G. Tyrrell Smith will be absentees. The entry, however, is the biggest for any competition in this country this season.

It had been planned to hold a sidecar event, but owing to the very heavy tax on sidecar bodies no new machines have been imported into the Free State for a long time, and very few entries were forthcoming. Consequently the programme will be confined to races for solo machines. The riders will be started according to their handicap allowance, and it is anticipated that allowances will run out to about 30 minutes, and C. H. W. Manders, who made the fastest time in last year's Dublin "Hundred," will occupy the post of honour. His most serious rival should be J. G. Burney, whose O.K. Supreme did a couple of laps around the 78 m.p.h. mark before "packing up" in the Leinster "Two Hundred."

In the 350 c.c. class victory is likely to go to some of the older hands, and a thrilling struggle should be provided by J. J. O'Neill, T. G. Byrne and J. J. Byrne. The only machine in the 250 c.c. class which is known to be really fast is E. M. Mitchell's.

The entries are:—Thomas C. Fellowes, 498 c.c. New Hudson; J. A. Brady, 490 c.c. Norton; Edward J. Dorney, 348 c.c. O.K. Supreme; W. T. Doherty, 495 c.c. Matchless; Joseph Greene, 498 c.c. A.J.S.; E. R. Mecredy, 596 c.c. Scott; J. B. Phelan, 248 c.c. Dunelt; W. Kehoe, jun., 498 c.c. Rudge; Andrew D. Higgins, 499 c.c. Ariel; "R. Ginsberg," 498 c.c. Cotton; J. Lowdnes, 490 c.c. Norton; W. Manifold, 490 c.c. Norton; E. M. Mitchell, 249 c.c. Rudge; John Taylor, 499 c.c. Rudge; E. G. R. Kelly, 346 c.c. Levis; G. F. V. Cooke, 499 c.c. Rudge; P. J. Harmon, 348 c.c. Velocette; G. Desmond Burney, 248 c.c. O.K. Supreme; M. W. Bell, 246 c.c. New Imperial; C. H. W. Manders, 499 c.c. Rudge; J. G. McIlwaine, 499 c.c. Rudge; Neville Todd, 490 c.c. Norton; Richard Wilson, 246 c.c. S.O.S.; R. Malcolm Bell, 347 c.c. Sunbeam; J. G. Burney, 498 c.c. O.K. Supreme; John Dolan, 499 c.c. Rudge; Edward P. Murray, 490 c.c. Norton; H. V. Quinn, 249 c.c. Montgomery; J. J. O'Neill, 348 c.c. Velocette; A. J. McCoy, 348 c.c. A.J.M. Special; P. J. Murphy, 493 c.c. Sunbeam; T. G. Byrne, 349 c.c. Rudge; J. Banbury, 344 c.c. New Imperial; J. J. Byrne, 346 c.c. New Imperial; J. Young, 499 c.c. Rudge; S. Jeffers, 348 c.c. Rudge.

Mr. W. H. Freeman, secretary of the Dublin and District M.C. and L.C.C., appeals for marshals to keep the course. Those willing to act, and who have not been requested to report to other parts of the course, should present themselves to Mr. P. H. Hurst, at the Phœnix Monument not later than 2.30.

DUNCANNON STRAND MOTOR RACES
Will be held
SUNDAY, JULY 10th.
RACING STARTS AT 3.30, summer time, sharp. —(Advt.)

HANDBALL.

TO-DAY'S MATCHES AT DEPOT AND TERENURE.

The Tailteann Games Handball Championship will occupy two courts—the Depôt, Phœnix Park, and Terenure. The court at the Garda headquarters is an ideal venue, having been reconstructed and covered in. Scotland and England will be represented in the championships proper, but there will not be any international matches, as in previous games. The Scottish players are the same as in 1930, when they performed creditably against the best of the home players. R. Brennan, the English representative, was a well-known Kilkenny player a few years ago.

Unfortunately, T. Soye, the Irish champion since 1926, will not be able to compete owing to a recent cycling accident. P. Perry, the stylish soft ball champion, should be well tested, and, bar surprises, the final should be contested by Perry and Guard Reid (Carlow). Altogether, the entries are not very representative, but the best of the home players have entered.

FIXTURES FOR TO-DAY.

Dépôt Court, Phœnix Park.—12 o'clock, H.B.—Carlow (P. Hayden) v. Limerick (J. Brennan), 1 o'clock, S.B.—Kilkenny (D. Brennan) v. Cavan (J. Molloy), 2 o'clock, H.B.—Tipperary (P. Ormonde and C. Maloney) v. Meath (P. Bell and J. Doyle), 3 o'clock, S.B.—Dublin (M. Joyce and B. Walsh) v. Waterford (J. Flavin and J. Lacey), 4 o'clock, H.B.—Carlow (P. Hayden and P. Coyne) v. Kilkenny (J. Lucas and D. Brennan), 5 o'clock, S.B.—Cavan (J. Molloy and H. Smith) v. England (R. Brennan and W. Dunphy).

Terenure.—12 noon, S.B.—Carlow (P. Reid) v. England (R. Brennan), 1 o'clock, S.B.—Kildare (J. Cahill and G. Darcy) v. Scotland (J. Canavan and J. Ferguson), 2 o'clock, S.B.—Wicklow (M. O'Neill) v. Tipperary (J. Hassett).

CLAY PIGEON SHOOTING.

THE INTERNATIONAL CONTEST.

On Saturday the international clay pigeon shooting contest for the Governor-General's Cup will take place at Kill o' the Grange, Cabinteely.

Holders of the trophy, the English team, is an exceptionally strong one. It includes C. E. Lucas, who won the open championship of England in 1931; Major Northover, an ex-champion, and one of the most famous shots in Europe, and T. Catterall, last year's Scottish champion. The remainder of the team of twelve guns are almost up to the same standard.

Scotland will likewise be represented by a thoroughly representative team, and the Irish side is a particularly powerful one. Indeed, the standard of shooting will probably be higher than even the best attained in any contest in this country.

The Englishmen will arrive to-morrow (Friday).

DROGHEDA SENIOR EIGHT FAIL.

FINE PERFORMANCE BY CITY OF DERRY.

There were three very fine finishes in the opening day's rowing at the Tailteann Regatta at Drogheda yesterday. The last race produced a real thrill; for the strongly-fancied Drogheda senior eight were beaten by three-quarters of a length by City of Derry, after a splendid race. Derry were just in front all the way down the straight, and held off Drogheda's efforts to draw level. They should go on to win this event to-day. Trinity junior eight put in a fine burst to beat Dublin R.C., who were leading almost throughout, but could not equal the opposing crew's strength and rhythm at the finish. The first race of the day, the junior fours, between Drogheda and Commercial, was dead level until the last few yards, when Drogheda just got home half a length to the good.

The absence of the Trinity senior eight and any cross-Channel crews owing to the clash with Henley is to be regretted, but it is more disappointing to find no Limerick, Cork or Galway crews entered, especially as the North have supported it well with crews from Derry, Belfast and Newry. The finals will be held to-day. Results—

JUNIOR FOURS.

Heat A.—North Station—Drogheda R.C. (A. L. Doherty, bow, F. McDonnell, R. Allen, J. McDonnell, stroke, P. J. Byrne, cox) beat Commercial R.C., Dublin, by half a length.

A very exciting race. The crews were level all the way until a few yards from the finishing post, when Drogheda just got half a length in front.

Heat B.—North Station—Commercial B.C., Belfast (B. B. Megannety (bow), G. S. Williamson, W. C. McClenahan, R. C. C. Goodwin (stroke), H. McBride (cox) beat Dolphin R.C. by three-quarters of a length.

A strong finish by Dolphin nearly brought them home, but Commercial, who had held a slight lead all through, held on to win a good race.

Heat C.—North Station—Dublin University B.C. (P. G. Moran (bow), E. L. Barrett, D. Colley, P. Lefroy (stroke), J. R. Hayden (cox) beat Dublin R.C. by three lengths.

Trinity led from the start, and increased their advantage down the straight, to win comfortably.

SENIOR FOURS.

Heat A.—South Station—City of Derry B.C. (T. D. Ward (bow), F. J. Buchanan, J. M. Scott, V. S. Ward (stroke), J. A. Hamilton (cox) beat Neptune R.C. by three-quarters of a length.

Derry had a slight lead coming round the bend, and finished the stronger.

Heat B.—South Station—Drogheda R.C. (J. Durnin (bow), P. McGuigan, E. J. Delaney, F. Grey (stroke), P. J. Byrne (cox) beat Lady Elizabeth B.C. by two lengths.

Drogheda gained an early advantage, which they increased towards the finish, eventually winning comfortably what at one time looked like becoming a close race.

JUNIOR SCULLS.

Heat A.—South Station—Dublin R.C. (J. P. Finn) beat Lady Elizabeth B.C. ("Neste") by four lengths.

Heat B.—South Station—Newry R.C. (M. O'Rorke), w.o.; Drogheda R.C., scr.

JUNIOR EIGHTS.

Heat A.—South Station—Drogheda R.C. (G. Jordan (bow), T. Connolly, T. Moran, F. McDonnell, A. L. Doherty, F. Gogarty, R. Allen, J. McDonnell (stroke), P. J. Byrne (cox) beat Commercial R.C., Dublin, by one and a half lengths.

Drogheda led from the start, but there was little in it until half-way down the straight, when Drogheda drew away and finished well ahead.

Heat B.—North Station—Dublin University B.C. (W. R. N. Friel (bow), G. T. Farley, G. S. Friel, E. L. Barrett, D. Colley, L. H. Braddell, P. G. Moran, P. Lefroy (stroke), J. R. Hayden (cox) beat Dublin R.C. by half a length.

Trinity led at the start, but Dublin went ahead at the bend, but were again passed. Once more Dublin got the lead and kept it until half-way down the straight, when Trinity, rowing a splendid finish, passed them to win by half a length.

Heat C.—South Station—Commercial B.C., Belfast (B. B. Megannety (bow), J. Nixon, A. S. Callaghan, J. G. Stevenson, T. V. McClenahan, G. S. Williamson, W. C. McClenahan, R. C. C. Goodwin (stroke), H. McBride (cox) beat Dolphin R.C. by one and a quarter lengths.

The crews were level as far as the bend, where Belfast commenced to draw away. Dolphin made an effort half-way down the straight, but could not reduce the lead, and Belfast, much the better crew, finished strongly to increase their advantage.

SENIOR EIGHTS.

Heat A.—North Station—Neptune R.C. (J. Kane (bow), P. Kevans, M. McMahon, W. Redmond, T. O'Brien, J. O'Driscoll, W. J. Collins, F. Lemass (stroke), J. Nolan (cox) beat Lady Elizabeth B.C. by 2l.

Trinity gained an early lead, but Neptune quickly caught and passed them, and had a half length lead at the bend. Rowing nicely, they increased this all the way down the straight.

Heat B.—South Station—City of Derry B.C. (W. Holman (bow), F. J. Buchanan, T. D. Ward, S. Edwards, J. M. Scott, A. Morrow, A. Henderson, V. S. Ward (stroke), J. A. Hamilton (cox.) beat Drogheda R.C. by ¾l.

Drogheda led at the start, but Derry drew level at the bend, and the crews were together down the straight. Derry were the stronger crew, however, and got home in a thrilling finish.

BOWLING.

TAILTEANN DRAWS AND RESULTS.

The following matches have been arranged in connection with the Tailteann championships:—

PAIRS CHAMPIONSHIP—THIRD ROUND.

J. Duff and P. Brannigan v S. Gilthorpe and R. J. Waddell; R. H. Felton and J. Steele v. C. Doherty and H. Salisbury; F. Bestall and G. W. Cooper v. Major Griffiths and F. W. Johnstone; J. Fielding and J. Humphreys v. W. Davidson and D. Carleton.

SINGLE-HANDED—FOURTH ROUND.

F. G. Bestall v. F. Cullen; P. J. Mannion v. S. Nolan; P. Archer v. C. Doherty; S. Gilthorpe v. J. W. Smith.

The semi-finals of the rink championships will be played to-morrow on the Leinster green, Rathmines. In the other competitions all games must be played on or before July 4th.

RESULTS.

Pairs—P. J. Mannion and M. Doherty (Kenilworth) beat S. Gilthorpe and R. J. Waddell (Blackrock) by 30 shots to 15.

Singles—J. W. Smith (Kenilworth) beat D. O'Toole (Leinster) by 23 shots to 19, and F. Cullen (St. James's Gate) beat G. W. Cooper (Kenilworth) by 21 shots to 16.

TO-NIGHT'S BOXING CONTESTS.

The preliminary rounds of the boxing competitions will be decided to-night at Croke Park, commencing at 7.30. The entries comprise the cream of the amateur talent of the Irish Free State, England, Wales and Scotland, and boxing of a high standard may be expected.

YACHTING.

ROYAL IRISH Y.C. REGATTA.

WELL-KNOWN YACHTSMAN DROWNED.

It must be confessed that the tragic accident to Mr. Peter Good, who lost his life by drowning from his brother's yacht, Lady Edith, when competing in the race for Cruisers over ten tons' measurement, threw a tremendous gloom over yesterday's Regatta.

Despite the risks taken at times, yachting is a sport singularly free from serious happenings, and, for a parallel to what happened on this occasion, one has to go back over twenty years, when the 52 linear rater Jeanne lost one of her professional crew overboard between the Burford buoys, the body not being recovered for some weeks. Strange to say, it was a R.I.Y.C. Regatta also. The incident which cost Mr. Good his life happened very simply. The yacht was beating up to the South Burford at the time, and had just gone ahead in a lively sea. She had filled on the new tack, and, he, being in the cockpit, had shifted over accordingly. Just as he did so a sea hit her, and her motion was so violent that it literally threw him out of the yacht, he, probably, not having established a hand-hold at the moment.

At once everything possible was done to render him assistance, but a yacht of size, and with a big sail spread, like Lady Edith, cannot be managed like a rowboat, and particularly in a rough sea. Indeed, there is no more dangerous operation than picking up a man overboard from a yacht of size under sail. He was seen swimming for a time, but when they got him aboard he was unconscious, and, perhaps, gone beyond hope.

Nobody suspected what had happened to the Lady Edith. Mavourneen and Gull, which were competing with her, believed that she had carried away some of her gear. That, too, was the impression ashore, it not being until the yacht reached harbour that the terrible truth was made known.

That it cast a cloud over everything goes without saying: for all the races had gone well otherwise. Maureen won the 21-Footers' match in great style, with Geraldine second. In the small Cruisers' handicap, Alethea turned the tables on Mavis, and carried off the Baker Memorial Challenge Cup. Howth was triumphant in the 17-Footers' race, the only two boats sent over finishing first and second. The Clontarf boats had a stiff beat over from the river, and May Mischief won well. Coquette did all the leading in the Wags' race, in which Amyl was second for a long while, until Pansy overhauled her, while Phyllis, the crack of the fleet, was fourth. As for the Dinghies, Snipe sailed like a winner throughout, and Kittiwake took second prize.

Mr. Herbert Dudgeon, Vice-Commodore, was Officer of the Day. Details:—

SPORTING GOSSIP.

Betting by Slot Machine.

Betting by slot machines may be introduced at Birmingham racecourse in the near future, as an additional facility to the present totalisator arrangements. The slot machines are now ready for use, and the Racecourse Betting Control Board are willing to instal them at Birmingham for trial purposes, if the sanction of the racecourse executive can be obtained. A decision is expected in the course of a few days.

Gone to France.

The Aga Khan's Ut Majeur and Sir Alfred Butt's Orpen left Newmarket yesterday for France, where they will compete for the Prix du President de la Republique at Saint Cloud on Sunday next.

GOLF.

A DUBLIN-ULSTER FINAL.

J. M'KENNA TO PLAY IRISH CHAMPION.

The match play in the Ulster Professional Championship took place at Bangor yesterday, when the holder (S. Fairweather) was knocked out by George Murdock, who in turn was beaten by J. McCartney, the Irish champion. The final will be contested to-day over thirty-six holes between McCartney and J. McKenna.

FIRST ROUND.

G. Murdock (Royal Belfast) beat S. Fairweather (Malone)—1 up.
J. McCartney (Ormeau) beat James Rea (Portstewart)—1 up.
John Hamill (Donaghadee) beat J. Stevenson (Royal Portrush)—4 and 3.
J. McKenna (Armagh) beat C. W. Pope (Fortwilliam)—1 up.

SEMI-FINALS.

McCartney beat Murdock—2 and 1.
McKenna beat Hamill—2 and 1.

THE COOPER CUP.

The qualifying round for the Oireachtas (Cooper) Cup was played at Dun Laoghaire yesterday in inclement weather. The course was in splendid condition, and each of the thirty competitors returned good cards. Members of the Fianna Fail Party made their first appearance in this competition. Mr. W. T. Cosgrave was among the list of eight qualifiers.

The following qualified:—
M. Knightly (5), 73.
Deputy J. P. Kelly (18), 74.
Deputy P. McGilligan (11), 75.
S. O'Connor (18), 75.
J. K. Ryan (17), 75.
Deputy J. F. O'Hanlon (20), 76.
Senator M. Duffy (12), 77.
Deputy W. T. Cosgrave (24), 78.

The draw for match play is as follows:—
S. O'Connor v. Deputy Kelly.
Deputy McGilligan v. Deputy O'Hanlon.
J. K. Ryan v. Deputy W. T. Cosgrave.
Senator Duffy v. M. Knightly.

The first-named in each case has choice of course.

SOCIETIES' CUP FINAL.

Owing to the death of Mr. Peter Good, the final for the Societies' Cup between the Building and Allied Trades and Railway and Steam Packet has been postponed.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

TONE AND COMMENT

DUBLIN IDLE.

GUINNESS' STRONG.

The market on Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday was steady, but very idle. Free State Funds held their ground well, repeating former prices or conceding small fractions. The Land Stock of 1933 was strong.

Bank Stock continued to appreciate and marked 280, but Provincial Old gave way a small fraction.

Rails, where quoted, repeated last prices. Dublin Tram Ord. was strong and up to 66s. 6d., and the "A" Debs. repeated 65.

Guinness units were very firm, and advanced ninepence to 70s., but Alliance Gas eased a trifle at 10⅛.

The Industrial market was almost passed over, the fall of threepence in Chemicals being the only change worth noting. The "bid" price for Fine Spinners was better. Chartered dropped sixpence at 14s. 9d.

LONDON UNCERTAIN.

BRITISH FUNDS BOON.

Following a comparatively quiet commencement, boom-like conditions developed in the gilt-edged section in the afternoon, strong buying being encouraged by the growing belief of the imminence of some preliminary conversion scheme. The upward movement was sustained right to the close, and substantial advances were registered, the upward movement being assisted by the fact that the market was bare of stock. In other directions markets presented a rather quiet appearance, business continuing on rather meagre lines, while the general trend of values was adverse to holders. The trans-Atlantic descriptions mostly weakened, and many of the Home issues went back, there being only a modest volume of trading. Oils continued to mark time, pending developments at the new Paris Conference; whilst Mines disclosed an easier appearance, with business on much quieter lines.

As mentioned above, strong buying was encountered in the gilt-edged market, and fresh high records were established. The 3½ per cent. Conversion provided the principal feature, and, following an active session, the close was 2⅛ points higher at 93⅝. The 4½ per cent. and the 5 per cent. also strengthened, but the movements were not outstanding, the 4½ per cent. rising by 7/16, while the 5 per cent. finished ½ harder. Consols 2½ per cent. and 4 per cent. both attracted considerable attention, and the former marked an advance of no less than 1½ points, while the latter, at 101⅞ xd., were 1⅛ points higher. Funding Loan, at 103⅜, was marked 11/16 to the good, while Victory Bonds gained ¼ on the day to 103. Local Loans spurted to 77⅜, at which an improvement of 1 5/16 points was shown. India stocks also met a wider business, and quotations strengthened in several instances. There was not a great deal going on among Foreign Government stocks, and rather easier conditions prevailed. Brazilians weakened in a number of instances, while Belgian Sevens dipped to 105¼, or ½ lower. German issues continued to droop, and the Sevens lost no less than 2½ points to 63. French Loans, on the other hand, were finally the turn higher.

DUBLIN BUSINESS DONE.

FUNDS STEADY. BANK STOCK, GUINNESS AND TRAMS HIGHER. INDUSTRIALS IDLE.

In Funds, National Loan eased ⅛ at 101¼, and Second ditto repeated 103¼. Third Loan unchanged at 95½. Land Bonds shed 1/16 at 100 3/16, and ditto (small lots under £200) were 1/16 higher at 100 1/16. 5 per Cent. War Loan hardened ⅛ at 101⅛, after 101⅞, and ditto Deed was ⅛ lower at 101⅞. Land Stock (1933) put on 1/16 at 68 11/16.

Guinness improved 9d. at 70s.

In Rails, Great Southern Ord. at 5¼, the Debs. at 43, and Great Northern Debs. at 44⅛ were unchanged.

Dublin Tramways Ord. hardened 9d. at 66s. 6d., and the "A" Debs. unaltered at 65. Alliance Gas Ord. was 1/16 easier at 10 7/16. Johnston Mooney Ord. repeated 85s.

Among Industrials, Chemicals Ord. lost 3d. at 14s. 1½d., and Chartered B.S.A. 6d. at 14s. 9d. Imperial Tobacco repeated 75s. 7½d. Independent Pref. rose 3d. at 19s. 9d., Lever 7 per Cent. Pref. 3d. at 24s. 4½d., and Thom Debs. 1 at 72.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

IRON AND STEEL ISSUES SUPPORTED.

Dull and uncertain conditions prevailed in most sections of the Industrial Market yesterday. This was attributed to the absence of fresh support and the approach of the carry-over. Operators on this side showed little disposition to open up fresh commitments among trans-Atlantic issues, owing to the uncertain trend on Wall street. Nickels closed at 5 7/16 and U.S. Steels at 29½. "Emmies" showed little variation.

Cables and Wireless stocks developed a reactionary tendency, largely as the result of end-account sales, the "A" Ordinary being a point down. On the other hand, Globe Telegraph issues improved, the Ordinary to 4 and the Preference to 7.

Quiet support was given to some of the Iron and Steel shares, on the rather more favourable reports concerning the industry as a whole.

Motors made a mixed showing. Austins and Thomas Tilling found supporters, but Fords and Leylands closed a few pence easier.

Apart from Patons and Baldwins, which were marked up 4½d. to 29s. 3d., on the annual report, Textiles reflected the general tendency. Bradford Dyers sagged to 15s., and J. and P. Coats to 41s. 7½d., the rest closing quietly steady.

Rayons again gave a mixed display. American Celanese Common further improved to 12s. 6d., and British Celanese Second Preference hardened to 5s. 10½d.; but Courtaulds gave way to 24s. 7½d.

In the Refreshment and Food Supply section, Lovell and Christmas remained in request, changing hands up to 16s. 10½d., while International Teas strengthened to 27s. 1½d. The Unilever issues closed without alteration, and recessions of a few pence took place in Crosse and Blackwell First Preference at 3s. 3d., and in Tate and Lyles at 42s. 9d.

With the exception of Guinness and Courage the Brewery section developed an easier trend.

Among the Tobacco leaders Carreras came on offer, the "A" Shares declining to 3⅜d. and the "B" to 9s. 6d. "Imps" gave way to 3⅜, but "Bats" received a little support at 3½.

Chemicals shed 4½d. further to 13s. 10½d. and the Deferred sagged to 3s. 1½d., while Dunlops were again marked down 3d. to 10s. 7½d.

OIL SHARES QUIET.

The market in Oil Shares remained extremely quiet yesterday, this section, in common with other speculative departments, again being overshadowed by the activity in Gilt-edged securities. Dull conditions again prevailed, business failing to show any expansion, either by way of public or professional business, and the easier tendency which developed on Tuesday continued in evidence. The movements returned at the close, while adverse to holders, were mostly of modest dimensions. Advices received overnight from New York cannot be said to have influenced the market here, price movements in American Oil Stocks being of a slight and irregular character.

RUBBER SHARES IDLE.

There was again only a modicum of business passing in the Rubber Share market, and in the continued absence of attention the tendency was to lower values still further. Actual price movements, however, were few and far between. In the raw material department spot and July to September fetched 1⅝d. per pound, with October to December 1 11/16d., January to March 1⅞d., and April to June 2d. per pound.

GOLD MOVEMENTS.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in its daily report on the movements of gold, announces the following:—Exports to France, 4,546,000 dollars. Ear-marked for foreign account shows a decrease of 4,346,000 dollars.

LONDON MINING MARKET HEAVY.

PRICES FLUCTUATE WITHIN NARROW RANGE.

Business even in gold shares was very quiet, and changes on the day, although in the majority of cases small, were nearly all of an adverse nature. Kaffir prices received from the Cape showed scarcely any change from those ruling in London. The Cape was not a buyer on a noticeable scale, and here the tendency was rather to snatch quick profits in the few shares which have enjoyed good advances in the recent past. Movements at the close, however, nowhere exceeded a small fraction. Of the Rhodesian Gold producers inquiries were received during the early dealings for Cam and Motor, but renewed profit-taking developed later, and the final quotation showed a small loss. Globe and Phœnix also went ahead. Copper closed at £26 7s. 6d. per ton after £26 had been touched. Dealers in Northern Rhodesians reported an extremely idle day, the sole variation being a slight setback in Roan Antelope. Faris turned a seller of Diamonds with the results that recessions took place in De Beers Deferred and Preference. The same centre also offered Tintos and Tharsis with similar results. The accumulated losses in the price of Tin during the last few days were made good by a recovery of £3 15s. to £115 10s. The effect on the share market was negligible except that fewer declines occurred. West Australians were very much quieter than on the preceding day. Lower prices came over from the Commonwealth, and quotations here were adjusted. Closing prices:—

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

BAGRACOTE TEA.—In 1931 revenue fell from £65,697 to £55,122 and expenditure from £57,680 to £52,626, leaving a profit of £2,496, as against £8,017 in the previous year. After debiting adjustments in respect of 1930, there was brought in £5,500, to which was added interest and sundry items and the profit of £2,496, making a total of £9,277. Allocations to taxation, staff funds, and payment of interest absorbed £301, and Preference dividend £2,000, and, after reducing the Ordinary dividend from 7½ per cent. to 5 per cent. by a final payment of 3 per cent., £3,076 will be carried forward. The crop increased from 1,359,118lb. to 1,361,111lb.

BURBERRYS.—The directors announce, in respect of the company's 7½ per cent. Cum. Pref. shares, a dividend at the rate of 2½ per cent., less tax at 5/6 in the £, such payment being on account of the half-year's fixed Pref. dividend to January 31 last. In January last the directors deferred payment of the Pref. dividend pending results for the year to March 31 last.

COAST LINES.—Net earnings, £193,049, before providing for income tax, against £282,162 for 1930, after allowing for tax liability. With £25,000 transferred from reserve and £21,200 brought in, there is £239,249 available. After providing for fees, income tax, debenture interest, and the Preference dividend for the half-year to June 30, 1931, £12,534 remains to go forward. The combined earnings of the company and its subsidiaries are sufficient to cover the year's Preference dividend, but, in order to conserve resources, some subsidiaries are not making any distribution. The directors have, therefore, decided to postpone the Preference dividend for the second half year until circumstances warrant payment.

CHULSA TEA.—During 1931 revenue fell from £234,061 to £135,625, while expenditure was £47,148 less at £126,256, which left a profit of £10,369, as against £61,696 in 1930. The sum brought in was reduced to £41,189 on account of adjustments in respect of the preceding year, and, after adding interest received and other sundry items and writing back £6,000 transferred to hail reserve last year, there was a total of £63,143. A sum of £150 has been placed to taxation account and £312 to staff fund, and out of the remainder the Preference dividend absorbed £6,000. It is proposed to reduce the Ordinary dividend from 15 per cent. to 6 per cent. by a final payment of 4 per cent., leaving to be carried forward £40,460. A year ago £4,500 was required for taxation, and £2,000 was transferred to building and machinery reserve. The crop was 41,137lb. smaller at 2,746,868lb., owing to unfavourable weather, and prices fell to the lowest since 1920.

CHARTERLAND AND GENERAL.—Directors regret it is not possible at present to pay any of the arrears of the Pref. dividend, which, at the end of the financial period, amounted to 9 per cent.

DERBY TEA.—The accounts for 1931 show a loss of £1,380, which compares with a loss of £4,590 for preceding twelve months. The balance brought in, after adjustments, was £10,376, to which was added interest on investments amounting to £1,298 and refund of income tax of £140. After deducting the loss referred to, allowing for the Preference dividend, and contributing £47 to provident fund, there remains a credit of £9,711 to carry forward. The last dividend on the Ordinary Shares was 2½ per cent. for 1929.

DENT, ALLCROFT.—The accounts of Dent, Allcroft and Co., Ltd. (glovers and warehousemen), for the year ended January 15 last show that, after providing for all expenses and certain losses from subsidiaries, there was a net trading loss of £26,165, to which must be added directors' fees of £1,318. Against this total of £27,483 must be placed transfer fees of £29 and £7,500 appropriated from taxation account, leaving a net loss for the year of £19,954, which contrasts with a net profit of £27,749 for the previous year. Payment of the half-year's Preference dividend to April 30, 1931, increased the debit to £33,767, but after crediting the £7,030 brought in there remained an adverse balance of £26,736 to be carried forward. In 1930 the capital was reduced by writing 16s. off each of the issued Ordinary Shares of £1. No distribution has been made on the Ordinary Shares for several years.

EAST AFRICAN POWER AND LIGHTING.—Final dividend of 4 per cent. actual, less tax, making 7 per cent. for 1931, as for 1930.

EAST END DWELLINGS.—Interim dividend of 2½ per cent., tax free, on Ord. shares. (Same.)

HENRY ROOT and SONS.—Dividend of 7½ per cent., less tax, on Ord. shares. As last year.

LONDON PAVILION.—Interim dividend of 2½ per cent., less tax, on Ord. (Same.)

MIDLAND - CALEDONIAN INVESTMENT.—Directors state that half-year's Pref. dividend, due June 30th, will not be paid. Paid to June 30th, 1931.

MELVILLE TRUST.—Dividend of 3 per cent. (3½ per cent.), less tax, on Ord. for year; £4,655 carried forward.

NEW SOUTH WALES LAND AND AGENCY.—Dividend of 8 per cent. (same), less tax; forward £357.

OGILVIE FLOUR MILLS.—Quarterly dividend of $3 per share on Common. (Usual rate.)

PETRIE AND McNAUGHT, ENGINEERS, ROCHDALE.—Profit, £13,452. Debit converted into credit balance of £5,744, which is carried forward. No Ord. dividend. (Same.)

PELLING, STANLEY, AND COMPANY.—The warrants for dividends on the 7 per cent. Cumulative Pref. Shares, payable on July 1st, 1932, will be posted on June 30th.

RIM (MALACCA) RUBBER ESTATES.—After allowing £1,003 for depreciation and deducting general charges, the accounts for the year ended March 31 last show a net loss of £1,585, which, deducted from £9,064 brought in, leaves £7,479 to carry forward. In the preceding year there was a loss of £2,351, which included an allowance of £1,011 for depreciation. The last dividend was 7½ per cent. for 1928-29.

RESIDENTIAL PROPERTIES IMPROVEMENT.—Dividend on Pref. shares for the six months ended March 31st 1932, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum.

STANDARD TRUST.—In announcing the interim payment on the Preference Stock, the directors state that they have decided to await the results of the year ending December 31 next before considering a dividend on the Ordinary stock. Last year an interim payment of 4 per cent. on the Ordinary Stock was followed by a final distribution of 3 per cent., making 7 per cent. for the year.

SCOTTISH AMERICAN INVESTMENT COMPANY.—Interim dividends of 1/- per share on "B" Ord. Shares and 1/6 per share on "A" Ord. Shares, both less tax. Last year "A" Shares received 2/-, less tax.

STOTHERT and PITT.—Directors have decided to conserve resources and to defer payment of dividend on Pref. shares usually paid July 1st.

RAYON MARKET.

IMPROVING TRADE.

MANCHESTER, Wednesday.

The better movement of rayon piece goods has continued. A number of looms have been re-started, but there are still too many idle for the position to be really satisfactory. Fair lots of high-class dress goods, especially the lighter types, have gone through for home consumption, and linings have sold more freely. Only a quiet business is reported, however, in casement and furnishing cloths, but various markets are still purchasing steadily of corset and lingerie goods.

The export side shows little change, best support is coming from the colonies, fair orders having been booked in a variety of styles, but India and China are still backward, although inquiry is of fair extent. South America and Egypt are taking modest quantities of various cloths, but the Continent, on the whole, is rather slow.

The yarn position remains unsatisfactory. Order books are becoming smaller and new business is scarce.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

METROPOLITAN RAILWAY.

Terms of settlement for the withdrawal of the Metropolitan Railway Company's opposition to the London Passenger Transport Bill were announced on Tuesday night. They are recommended by the directors for acceptance, and will come before an extraordinary meeting of the holders of Consolidated and Preference Stock on July 14. The proposed settlement has received the approval of the Minister of Transport. The settlement is subject to confirmation by Parliament as part of the London Passenger Transport Bill, with any amendment consequential thereon, and the right of the company to withdraw from the settlement in the event of any material alteration of the bill by Parliament repugnant to such settlement.

GUEST KEEN CHAIRMAN AND INDIAN MARKET.

Presiding at the annual meeting of Guest Keen and Nettlefolds, Ltd., Sir John Field Beal (chairman and managing director) said he deplored the reduction in the company's earnings. "I want to emphasise," he said, "the fact that not one of the many businesses employed in our large organisation is suffering from organic trouble. Rather, I should say, they are one and all languishing from malnutrition or hunger." Referring to the Ottawa Conference, he hoped that our representatives would make it their business to arrive at an equitable arrangement with India about the iron and steel trade. India, he said, was the largest market for British sheet iron, and that trade had been repeatedly affected by competition from Belgium, whose iron was admitted into India on the same terms as our own, though the wages paid in its production were only 48 per cent. of the British wages. Sir John claimed that the whole of their businesses were well managed and well equipped. He refused to lose faith in the future of the country, and sincerely believed that there would be a change for the better if it used all its latent power to restore its business to prosperity.

CROSSE AND BLACKWELL.

Crosse and Blackwell, manufacturers of preserved provisions, announce that there is no truth in the rumours of a merger with a leading combine in the food trade. The company, which has a paid-up capital of £2,536,748 and debentures outstanding totalling £1,500,000, owns or controls E. Lazenby and Son, Alex. Cairns and Sons, Sarsons, James Keiller and Sons, Champion and Slee, Williams and Wood, and other companies.

ABITIBI POWER.

Following the decision of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company to defer the interest due 1st June on the First Mortgage Gold Bonds, Series "A," 5 per cent., committees to protect the interests of the bondholders and the Preferred stockholders have been formed. The committees urge holders to deposit their bonds or stock certificates under agreement of 10th June with the depositaries (Montreal Trust Company and City Bank Farmers' Trust Company) or sub-depositaries. Certificates of deposit will be issued. Under the deposit agreement bonds or stock may be withdrawn without cost or expense to the depositor at any time within a period of thirty days commencing on the date of the first publication of notice of adoption by the committee of any plan of reorganisation or readjustment. The company is in arrear on its 6 per cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock as to four quarterly dividends, and on the 7 per cent. Cumulative Preferred as to two quarterly payments.

THE GILT-EDGED BOOM.

The boom in gilt-edged securities has received a fresh lease of life from the expectation—more current in Throgmorton street than in Lombard street—that the Bank rate will be reduced this week to 2 per cent., and that immediately afterwards a debt conversion scheme will be announced, the success of which may give yet another fillip to this particular section of the Stock Exchange. In the last two or three days business in British Government securities has been exceedingly active. The buying has not been for the ordinary investor, but for the most part has related to large lines of stock, which could only be financed by powerful interests. In one or two cases yesterday quotations advanced more than fractionally within a short period. This was particularly so as regards 3½ per cent. Conversion, in regard to which it is understood that an exceptionally large call option was entered into during this week. The lowest price recorded on Tuesday was 90¼, but yesterday the stock reached 93⅞. Compared with the lowest of the year, 3½ per cent. Conversion shows an appreciation of 20⅝ points, or a rise in the market value of approximately £157,000,000. It also means that, whereas a purchaser at the year's lowest price of 73¼ obtained an investment yielding £4 15s. 6d. per cent., a buyer at yesterday's price had to be content with a yield of £3 14s. 6d. per cent., making no allowance for accrued interest, a difference of over 1 per cent. With respect to debt conversion, the gossip in the Stock Exchange yesterday referred chiefly to the likelihood of an operation to retire the 4½ per cent. Treasury Bonds, 1932-34, the nominal outstanding amount of which is £140,418,035, and some people profess to believe that the new issue will be of 2½ per cent. bonds, offered at a little below par. Undoubtedly a successful result of such an operation would greatly improve the chances of success in dealing with the £2,000,000,000 of 5 per cent. War Loan, a stock that is still being sold by holders because of the prospect of a conversion scheme.

ORIENT LINE CRUISES

THE MONEY MARKET.

UNPARALLELED EASE.

Despite the approach of the half-year end, the Money Market continued to enjoy conditions of unparalleled ease yesterday. For fresh balances overnight borrowers seldom paid more than ¼ per cent., while many houses reported that they were still oversupplied.

Business in Discounting was quiet, with the tendency steady. A few dealings took place in the "hot" Treasuries at ⅞ per cent., while brokers quoted ⅞ per cent. as their buying rate for three months' bank bills.

Bank Rate Discount (changed May 12), 2½ %.

Silver prices were fixed 1/16d. higher at 16 11/16d. for spot and 16⅝d. for forward delivery. Gold was quoted 1d. higher at 114s. 8d. per fine ounce.

The steadier tendency of the Foreign exchange market which was noticeable on Tuesday was continued yesterday. Dollars were ⅛c. dearer on the day at 3.60⅝. The Canadian dollar failed to maintain its recent improvement, and closed ⅛c. cheaper on balance at 4.12. Francs were finally quoted at 91⅞, as compared with 91 15/16. Italian lire appreciated by 1/16 lira to 70 11/16, while the peseta was slightly firmer at 43 11/16. Among the Scandinavian currencies the Swedish and Danish rates were both fractionally higher at 19½ and 18⅞ respectively, but the Norwegian krona appreciated by 1/16 kr. to 20¼. The South American currencies were again a purely nominal market, and in the Far Eastern section Japanese yen recovered and finished at 18¼, as against 17½.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

FREE STATE F.A.'S BAN.

Mr. O. Grattan Esmonde, T.D., presided at the annual general meeting of the F.A. of the Irish Free State at the A.O.H. Hall, Parnell square, Dublin, last night.

A reference in the annual report to the position of the Association in international football caused considerable discussion.

The following resolution was unanimously carried:—

"That until such time as the F.A. of the Irish Free State receives its just share in the use of the name of Ireland in international matches, and in all matters in which the name Ireland is used, or such time as the Irish Football Association, Ltd., play representative matches under the name of Northern Ireland, the Council of the F.A., I.F.S., is directed to withhold permission for any matches to be played between members or bodies under the jurisdiction of this Association with members or bodies under the control of the Irish F.A., Ltd."

On this subject the annual report set out that at the conference at Belfast the Chairman of the Irish F.A., Ltd., stated:—"I say, let England, Scotland and Wales enter into an agreement, and we are prepared to enter into it. It is now up to you—Mr. Murphy (F.S. Delegate)—to use every possible effort towards that end."

Since then the F.A. of the Free State had sought to get the Associations of England Scotland and Wales to intervene, but without result.

In connection with the proposed tax the following resolution was passed:—"That this meeting deplores the action of the Minister of Finance in imposing the tax on Association Football, and in discriminating between the various forms of sport. We earnestly request the Minister to reconsider his action."

The balance sheet showed a profit on the season's working of £150 11s. 2d., with total assets amounting to £2,718 13s. 11d.

The President was re-elected.

Mr. J. J. Brennan was elected hon. secretary, and Mr. M. J. Kenny, hon. treasurer.

The meeting adjourned for the purpose of dealing with numerous proposed alterations to rules.

ELECTRIC POWER OUTPUT FIGURES DISAPPOINTING: STOCKS CLOSE STEADY.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.
NEW YORK, Wednesday.

The Stock Exchange was steady at to-day's opening. A decline of 1 per cent. in this week's figures of steel mill activity, with no real up-turn anticipated before September, was an unfavourable factor. At the same time, the opinion was expressed that the technical position of the market had improved, and that developments at the Democratic Convention may have an important influence on sentiment.

Trading during the morning session was very sluggish, and the movements of prices confined to very narrow limits, but the market firmed in a quiet manner, the recovery wiping out the early fractional recessions in a few of the leading issues.

In the afternoon the list fluctuated narrowly, with a momentary set-back coinciding with the omission of the quarterly dividend by Westinghouse Electric, whose previous distribution was 25 cents. Nevertheless, traders felt that, with the market so dull and the possibility of developments in Washington, Chicago and Lausanne being susceptible of bullish interpretation, the short side was rather dangerous. The market thereupon firmed up, and many shares advanced about one point. Sugar stocks, however, eased, in sympathy with a reaction on the raw sugar market.

The bond market to-day fluctuated within narrow limits, without indicating any particular trend.

The weekly statistics of electric power output were somewhat disappointing, showing as they did a decline of 11.9 per cent. compared with the corresponding period of last year. The weekly petroleum figures, however, were favourable, the gasoline stocks indicating a decrease of 2,349,000 and the daily crude production a fall of 41,450 barrels.

The market closed steady.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Thursday.

Scattered liquidation took place during early dealings on the grain market to-day, otherwise business was without any important feature. Weather advices generally were favourable, while export interest was light and demand slow. The market backed and filled within narrow limits. Considerable spreading in July and September, together with scattered showers in the North-West, contributed to an initial decline in the wheat market, but prices subsequently rallied on the light nature of receipts and on buying by commission houses. In the late dealings the market again reacted partially in sympathy with maize. To-day's news regarding the crop was favourable, and the maize market ruled quiet. The foreign interest in the rye market was poor. Values generally followed the movements of wheat. A lack of buying was the chief feature of the oats market, which acted in sympathy with maize.

WHEAT opened steady, ⅜c. down to ⅛c. up, and closed barely steady, ⅜c. to ⅝c. down.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

COKE FRAUD CHARGES.

PRISONERS SENT FOR TRIAL.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

The three people who are charged with conspiracy, between December, 1929, and May, 1930, to defraud the Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Co., Ltd., and the National University, appeared in the dock for the twelfth day of the hearing, and were sent for trial, on bail, to the next Circuit Court.

The accused persons—James Jones, Synge street, formerly employed as a coke clerk with the Gas Company, Samuel O'Shaughnessy, formerly employed as a weighman with the company; and Annie McCabe, trading as McCabe and Co., Synge street—were charged with conspiring to steal forty-four tons of coke, to the value of £61 3s. 9d., from the Gas Company; with obtaining £184 5s. 6d. by false pretences from the National University in respect of 117 tons of coke which were not delivered, and with obtaining from the National University by false pretences £126 13s. in respect of 76 tons of coke not delivered. There were alternative charges of larceny of sums of £184 5s. 6d. and £126 13s.

CHARGE OF THREATENING FOREMAN.

John Hamilton, 23, an apprentice, of Kickham road, Inchicore, was charged with being in illegal possession of a revolver, using and carrying a revolver without a certificate, and assaulting a man by presenting a revolver at him, and uttering threats.

Hamilton declined to plead, and a detective stated that when arrested he made no answer to the charge. The detective added that he searched Hamilton's home, but found no revolver or ammunition.

Mr. P. H. O'Brien, solicitor, who said that he had been instructed by Hamilton's father to defend him, said that the father was surprised at the charge.

Edward Wilkinson, foreman printer, employed by Mr. Robert T. White, of 45 Fleet street, gave evidence that Hamilton, who was an apprentice with the firm, complained of the manner in which some of the men were putting down their time in the time book, and, presenting what appeared to be a revolver, said "You had better mind yourself." Wilkinson said that when he saw Hamilton again later, Hamilton said "You will never see your summer holidays."

Replying to questions from the Bench, Wilkinson said that he was nearly certain that it was a revolver which Hamilton presented, and that he was afraid of Hamilton.

After Hamilton's father had stated that he believed the boy to be quite sane, Hamilton was remanded until to-day for medical examination.

CHANGE TO RAIN.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times the Poultry Correspondent says:—Do we want it? Well, we say it with hesitation, but we are never satisfied. We were wondering would we ever have summer weather again, it is so long since we enjoyed a real hot summer, and, now that we have got a start of it, anyway we are actually longing for a wee, wee shower; but we are almost afraid to breathe such a thought, fearing a deluge would come. No doubt, there are numbers of people, especially farmers, who don't want it yet, but when we say "we" we are thinking of poultry-keepers, as an odd shower in hot weather refreshes the soil, keeps the green food tasty, and brings up those insects and worms the young birds like so well. Warm weather, alternating with occasional showers, makes the best rearing weather. But we are not going to complain.

BEGINS TO-DAY

There's activity at Nicholl's. More and more shoppers are finding out that it pays to shop there regularly, and especially during Sale time. With every department striving to offer still better values, this Sale promises to be the most successful yet. Here are a few of the bargains, typical of hundreds of others.

THREE SPECIAL BARGAINS FROM OUR SILK DEPARTMENT

A big collection of PURE SILK GEORGETTES, CHIFFONS and ARTIFICIAL SILK VOILES are offered at drastically reduced prices, because we prefer to do this rather than keep any of them in stock until next season. Mostly floral effects in beautifully-blended colourings; soft, light textures that drape gracefully. The regular prices were 3/11, 4/6 and 4/11. It would be advisable to come early, as a big and immediate demand is certain at this bargain price. PER YARD 2/6

Some wonderful value is also offered in PURE SILK CREPE-DE CHINES that have been selling at 3/11, 4/11, 5/11 and 6/6. They are slightly tossed, and some have got shop-soiled along the edges. Amongst the colours included are Beige, Helio, Nil, Pale Blue, Cerise, Saxe, Scarlet, Fawn, Brown, Navy and Black. Splendid heavy weaves. 36 inches wide. All one price to clear. PER YARD 2/11½

An assorted collection of PRINTED RAYONS, MAROCAINS, PLAIN and BROCHE CREPES, including gay fabrics for summer frocks in floral effects, dainty designs that are favoured for lingerie and slumber wear, fashionable spots for scarves and frocks, etc. This entire lot is clearing at, PER YARD 1/8½

FINLAY'S SHEETS REDUCED

During the Sale we offer exceptional value in these famous Sheets, and advise immediate purchasing, as it will not be possible to sell them at this price again. This lot of 80 pairs are a heavy TWILL weave, absolutely free from filling, that can be relied on to give years of satisfactory service. The size is 2¼ x 2¼ yards. Worth 12/6. Sale Price, PER PAIR 9/-

Also about 100 pairs of PLAIN HEMMED SHEETS, possessing that snow-white linen finish for which Finlay's products are renowned. This is the quality supplied to many leading hospitals. It will stand up to the hardest wear, and retain its delightful freshness after hundreds of washings. Size 2¼ x 2¾ yards. Worth 14/11. Nicholl's Sale Price, PER PAIR 11/6

CLEARANCE OF HIGH-GRADE CRETONNES AT HALF PRICE

About 1,000 yards of Heavy Cretonnes to clear. Specially woven for loose covers, they can be relied on to give lengthy service, and the tape border facilitates making-up. Gay modern designs, printed in fast colours on backgrounds of green, blue, grey and black. 31 inches wide. Made to sell at 1/9. Sale Price, PER YARD .... 9½D.

THOUSANDS OF REMNANTS and there are a thousand ways in which the careful housewife can use them profitably. In the LINEN DEPARTMENT there are pieces of Damask, odd Serviettes, Turkish and Huck Towelling, and linen suitable for kitchen cloths. In the FURNISHING DEPARTMENT there are scores of useful lengths of Curtain Nets and other materials, and in the DRESS DEPARTMENT you will find nearly five hundred ends of Washing Cottons, Voiles, Plain and Printed Art Silks, Satins, Wool Crepes, Frock Tweeds, etc. Come and look through them. Every one is a bargain.
